Nagasaki Is Target For Destructive Blast

Crew Members Radio 'Good Results'
After Noon Raid; Spaatz Promises
Details When Mission Returns

Guam, Thursday, Aug. 9 (AP)—The world's second atomic bomb, most destructive explosive invented by man, was dropped on strategically important Nagasaki, on Western Kyushu island, at noon today.

Crew members radioed that results were good, but Gen. Spaatz said additional details would not be disclosed until the mission returns.

Spaatz' communique reporting the bombing did not say whether one or more than one "mighty atom" was dropped.

The first atomic bomb destroyed more than 60 per cent—4.1 square miles—of Hiroshima, city of 343,000 population, Monday, and Radio Tokyo reported "practically every living thing" there was annihilated.

Nagasaki, which had 211,000 population 10 years ago, is an important shipping and railway center. It was hit first by China-based B-29's a year ago, and this month was heavily attacked by Far East Air Force bombers.

Nagasaki, which had 211,000 population 10 years ago, is an important shipping and railway center. It was hit first by China-based B-29's a year ago, and this month was heavily attacked by Far East Air Force bombers and fighters only last July 31, and on the following day.

Nagasaki, although only two-thirds as large as Hiroshima in population, is considered more important industrially. With a population now estimated at 255,000, its 12 square miles are jam-packed with levee-to-levee buildings which won it the name of "Sea of Roofs."

It was vitally important as a port for trans-shipment of military supplies and the embarkation of troops in support of Japan's operations in China, Formosa, Southeast Asia and the Southwest Pacific. It was highly important as a major shipbuilding and repair center for both navy and merchantmen.

The navy also included industrial suburbs on Inase and Minamuro on the western side of the harbor and Urakami. The combined area is nearly double Hiroshima's.

Guam, Thursday, Aug. 9 (AP)—Adm. Halsey opened up a new carrier assault on Japan today with his U. S. Third fleet and co-operating British carrier planes, achieving what an Associated Press dispatch direct from the fleet called "complete tactical surprise."

Great waves of rocketing and bombing raiders swept over air bases of Northern Honshu island after the fleet moved in under cover of soupy weather.

Al Dopking, Associated Press war correspondent with the fleet, said only two Japanese planes showed up and both were shot down "long before they had a chance to get a glimpse of this Navy powerhouse" although it "probably was the noisiest approach to enemy shores in naval history."

Held Aircraft Carrier Tactical
Dopking said the fleet daily held aircraft carrier tactical practice, bracing for thousands of rounds at sleeve target towed by carrier planes.

He expressed belief that the raiders probably caught enemy planes on the ground.

The raiders thus added their weight to 400-plane B-29 raids, the wrecking of Hiroshima with the world's first atomic bomb, and entry of Russia into the war against Japan.

Adm. Nimitz' communique reported that American and British carrier pilots launched "strong attacks" on shipping, air installations and other military targets on the northern part of Honshu island at dawn.

The attacks are continuing, Nimitz added, and announced that a battleship and lesser fleet units shelled Wake island yesterday, destroying ammunition dumps and anti-aircraft emplacements and inflicting other damage.

Halsey's force was swinging in to action for the first time in 20 days, during which it rode out a typhoon in the Western Pacific and undoubtedly refueled and resupplied itself for renewed efforts (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

Washington, Aug. 8 (AP)—The War Manpower Commission estimated today that about 1,400,000 persons are jobless at this time—600,000 fewer than the agency expected.

Reviewing calculations for three months after D-day, made some time ago, a high manpower official said WMC's predictions 2,000,000 persons would be unemployed by early August had been too pessimistic.

This official, who asked that his name be withheld, said the current employment picture "is much brighter than we had dared hoped it would be." He said that WMC's 30 per cent overestimate of August joblessness was due to:

1. Delayed impact upon industry of munitions cutbacks. Many cuts already made will not affect employment until late this year.

Big Four Agree On Mass War Crimes Trials

High Tribunal of Four Members to Have Sweeping Powers

London, Aug. 8 (AP)—A master plan for the mass trial of Germany's arch war criminals before an international military tribunal was signed today by the legal representatives of the United States, Great Britain, Russia and France.

The historic document, setting legal and military precedents, gives the high tribunal sweeping powers to punish by death, deprive the convicted of stolen property, disregard "technical rules of evidence" in the interests of speed and take strict measures to prevent delays.

Under the agreement the permanent seat of the tribunal is to be established in Berlin, but the first trial will be held at Nurnberg, long the seat and meeting place of the Nazi party.

The tribunal itself is to consist of four members, each with an alternate, representing the four big powers. Before this body will be arraigned such Nazi bigwigs as Reichsmarshal Hermann Goerring, former Foreign Minister Von Ribbentrop, Rudolf Hess, Franz von Papen, labor front leader Robert Ley, Julius Streicher, the Jew-baiter, and Hans Frank, Nazi governor of Poland.

Some of these are now housed—or will be soon—in the Nurnberg jail to await trial. There they will lose status as prisoners of war and be treated as civil criminals.

The agreement—reached after three weeks of conferences which once approached a stalemate broken only by the intervention of the Big Three during the Potsdam conference—contains 30 articles, ranging from the constitution of the court to a plan for handling the expenses of the trial.

Former Resident Of Japan Sees End of War Soon

Asked for his opinion concerning the significance of Russia's entry into the war, Dr. Joe Mickle, president of Centenary college in Shreveport, and for 20 years a teacher in Japan, replied that for him it was "a trifle anticlimactic."

"I had thought even before the introduction of the atomic bomb that Japan couldn't hold off much longer, until the end of the year at the latest," he stated. He pointed out that the citizens at home in Japan would have something to say about the end of the war, and that as soon as they realize what the entry of the atomic bomb into the fight means, added to the entry of Russia, they will undoubtedly ask for peace.

"When the earthquakes killed 100,000 in Tokyo on one Saturday, we in Kobe didn't hear of it until the next Monday. And it will take several days for this news to get through to the people of Japan. When it does it will bring a quick end to the war."

Dr. Mickle said that the people of Japan have a real fear of the Russians, and have from the beginning had no desire to fight them again. This new foe should speed their surrender considerably, he declared.

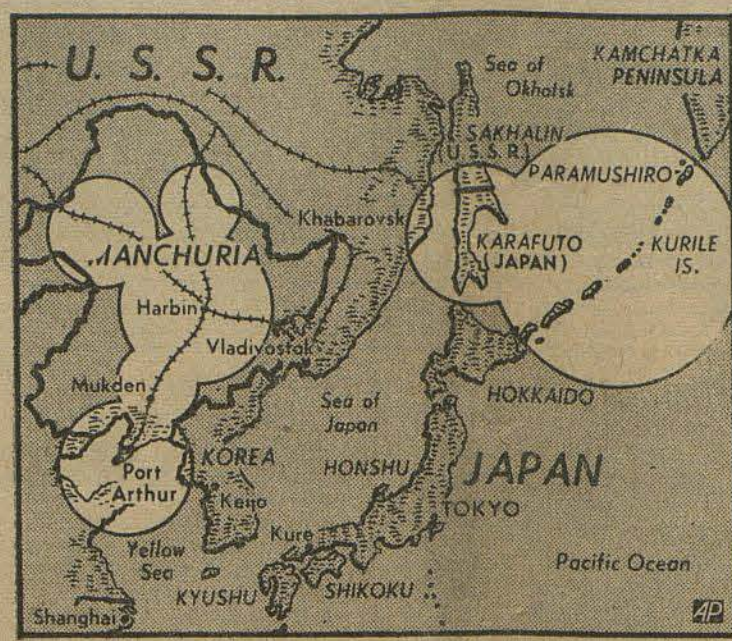

"If we will hold off on the use of the atomic bomb a short while a demand for peace will surely come," he averred. "In fact, within the next month or two weeks some drastic change should take place. It will take some time for peace negotiations to be made through a neutral country, longer than most people realize."

Another angle that is against the Japanese is the fact that August is a very good month for fighting in Manchuria, he stated. The Russians will very probably start fighting in Manchuria right away, and since August is the peak of the summer there, this won't bode well for the Japanese.

In an address before the Rotary club yesterday Mickle declared that Americans have always had a complete misconception of the Japanese people.

He said that prior to the Pearl Harbor attack the average American thought of Japan as a country of beautiful scenery and filled with polite, smiling people but that now the thought has changed completely with most Americans thinking of the Japanese as treacherous barbarians.

Dr. Mickle asserted that both conceptions are extreme and one (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2)

Truman's Main Goal At Potsdam Was Soviet Entrance Into War

By Ernest B. Vaccaro
Washington, Aug. 8 (AP)—Final agreement upon Russian entrance into the war with Japan, it may now be disclosed, was the primary objective of President Truman's trip to the Big Three conference in Berlin.

President Truman's report to the nation will be broadcast over Radio Station WJBO at 9 o'clock tonight. It is believed that the president at this time will give more details on the Russian declaration of war against Japan.

As vital as was, and is, his interest in bringing harmony to the European scene, the president repeatedly told newsmen en route with him to Europe aboard the cruiser Augusta that his main concern was to bring the Pacific war to a close "with the least possible cost in American lives."

A Soviet declaration of war, he reasoned, might save hundreds of thousands of Americans from injury or death.

Perhaps that was the reason Mr. Truman personally announced the war declaration at a brief news conference today.

Leaving against a rail of the Augusta, en route to Europe, the president frequently remarked upon the big job ahead at Potsdam.

He wanted more than anything else, he said, the use of Russian air bases with which to step up the assault on Japan and its conquered territories.

The results were evident in his demeanor on the way back. He couldn't confide in reporters, but his pleasure was evident.

Mr. Truman's friends reported that he preferred not to go to Berlin. They said he would rather have the State, War and Navy departments conduct negotiations abroad with the British and the Russians.

It was the hope that he could make a final agreement for Generalissimo Stalin to throw Russia's might into the Allied cause, friends report, that brought his decision to leave the country at a time when the war with Japan was at its height, the United Nations charter was pending in the senate and reconversion problems were mounting.

Mr. Truman did not minimize the task before him. He had met neither Stalin nor former Prime Minister Churchill, with whom he (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

Allied Planes Sink or Damage 23 Enemy Ships

Manila, Thursday, Aug. 9 (AP)—In more than 400 sorties from Korea to Malaya and the Indies, Allied planes sank or damaged 23 ships and 36 small craft Sunday night and Monday. They also destroyed four Japanese planes, which made the only interception.

Gen. MacArthur reported the blows in a communique which told also of continued hammering of industries, airstrips and military installations.

The major single raid Monday was by more than 40 Mitchells of the Fifth Air Force, which sank a gunboat and four small freighters, left a 6,000-ton freighter burning and damaged three small vessels. They damaged further two 6,000-ton freighters which previously had been disabled.

One bomber was lost as the medium bombers, fighters and patrol planes damaged waterfront installations, bivouacs and defense areas, rolling stock and vehicles and started numerous fires.

Five Japanese planes attempted a predawn raid at Okinawa Monday, anti-aircraft fire destroyed one and probably two more.

Tokyo Radio Reports Blow by Soviet Army

Byrnes Warns Japs to Stop Fighting Now

Says There Is Still
Time for People to Save Themselves

Washington, Aug. 8 (AP)—Powerful radios beamed to Japan tonight this declaration of Secretary of State Byrnes: There is "still time—little time—for the Japanese to save themselves from the destruction which threatens them."

Byrnes did not call it a formal ultimatum, but in a formal statement issued shortly after President Truman announced Russia's declaration of war against Japan, Byrnes said he hoped "that the people of Japan will now realize that further resistance to the forces of the nations now united in the enforcement of law and justice will be futile."

Byrnes declined, in response to questions, to elaborate. He refused to say whether his statement could be considered an ultimatum to the Japanese.

In his statement, Byrnes said President Truman had invited an expression from Russia at the Potsdam conference on possible Soviet entry into the war against Japan.

Quoting a section of the United Nations charter which makes Russia, as one of the Big Five, co-responsible for peace until the new world organization is actually formed, Byrnes said Mr. Truman expressed his view to Generalissimo Stalin in these words:

"It seems to me that under the one of the Moscow declaration of the Big Five, the United States, Great Britain, China, and the Soviet Union, we have a duty to bring the war to a close."

Byrnes said the United States is willing to consult and co-operate with other great powers not at war with Japan with a view to joint action on behalf of the community of nations to maintain peace and security.

The Moscow declaration to which he referred was signed October 30, 1943, by the United States, Russia, Great Britain and China.

Japs Have Lost More Than 11,000 Troops in Burma Escape Attempt

Calcutta, Aug. 8 (AP)—The Japanese have lost more than 11,000 men, including 744 captured and the rest killed, in attempts to escape a trap in lower Burma between the Mandalay-Rangoon road and the Sittang river, Southeast Asia Command headquarters said.

A communique said isolated groups of the enemy and stragglers still were being mopped up.

Liberators of the air command yesterday bombed Benkoelen airfield on the southwest coast of Sumatra. Mosquito bombers on the preceding day struck Japanese troops and ammunition dumps east and south-west of Moumein in Burma.

Russians Launch Ground Assault, Planes Bomb Strategic Targets In Big Asiatic Mainland Province

Chungking, Thursday, Aug. 9 (UP)—Soviet Russia's Far Eastern army of more than 1,000,000 men early today launched a broad attack across the Manchurian border, gaining several miles in the first hours of the attack which began only a short time after the Russian declaration of war became effective, it was learned today.

The Russian operation was carried out in the strictest secrecy, though it was known that the attack was concentrated on three main points. Japanese broadcasts announcing the start of hostilities said the Russians opened their drive along the Eastern Soviet-Manchuria border, paced by bombing planes.

The Americans were informed of Russian tactical plans before the assault was launched.

The Russian deployment by the Trans-Siberian railway meanwhile was described by informed sources as a "tremendous logistic feat," indicating that battlewise troops from the German front had been shuttled 8,000 miles across Siberia to go into action against the crack Japanese Kwantung army.

Chinese Capture Jap-Held Island Off Formosa Coast

Launch New Drive
In 'Rice Bowl' Area
To Split Nip Corridor

Chungking, Aug. 8 (AP)—Chinese troops have captured a Japanese-held island off China's east coast west of Formosa and have launched a drive in the Chinese "rice bowl" region designed to split Tokyo's transcontinental corridor to Hong Kong, the high command reported tonight.

Velan Chinese forces also captured a Japanese-held island off the coast of Formosa, the high command announced.

The Chinese high command said Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's troops reoccupied Kukkiang island at the mouth of the Min river northeast of the liberated east coast port of Foochow Sunday.

Clearing the Japanese from the island, 25 miles from Formosa, the Chinese ousted the last enemy troops from the Foochow area and removed a possible obstruction to Allied landings in the region.

The island was held only by a handful of Japanese troops, whose presence had been more of a nuisance than a threat.

In the vital "rice bowl" region south of Tungting lake, headquarters said the renewed drive toward the narrow enemy land link between Korea and South China was unleashed by "strong" Chinese columns. Fierce hand-to-hand battles were reported in progress.

Chinese troops in the area southwest of Changsha knifed into Japanese positions on the west flank of the overland corridor and were reported smashing toward Siansiang, 55 miles northwest of the key city of Hongyang, and toward Yungfeng, 45 miles north-west of Hengyang.

The communique said the Chinese spearheads had "reached the (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

Stouid Nipponese Moscow, Aug. 8 (AP)—Soviet Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov was asked tonight about the reaction of Japanese Ambassador Naotake Sato when Molotov presented him with the Russian declaration of war against Japan.

In one of the war's finest pieces of understatement Molotov replied: "He gave the text careful study."

Russia declared war at the request of the United States, Britain and China, as of 5 p. m. EWT. That was midnight in Russia. President Truman announced the decision in mid-afternoon.

Foreign Commissar Molotov proclaimed in Moscow that Russia had been "true to her duty as an ally."

Swift and sure was Washington's reaction that the Soviet decision to fight once more, along with the unwrapping of the terrible new weapon of atomic bombing, signifies that Japan cannot long survive.

For not only are Russian legions set to strike on the Asiatic mainland, but Russia's Siberian air bases are available for loosing her bombs on the near-by Nipponese islands.

Japan thus was all but cut off from the continent, from its rich supplies, and the fastness from which she might have hoped to prolong her resistance.

Mr. Truman cited a section of the United Nations charter which gives to Russia, Britain, China, France and the United States the duty of enforcing world peace until a new world organization is ready to take over the task.

Countless Japs Die in Atomic Blast

Guam, Thursday, Aug. 9 (AP)—Japanese perished by uncounted thousands from the searing, crushing atomic blast that annihilated 60 per cent of the 343,000 population city of Hiroshima Monday, photographic and other evidence indicated today.

Tokyo radio, which said that "practically all living things, human and animal, were literally seared to death," reported that authorities were still unable to check the total casualties.

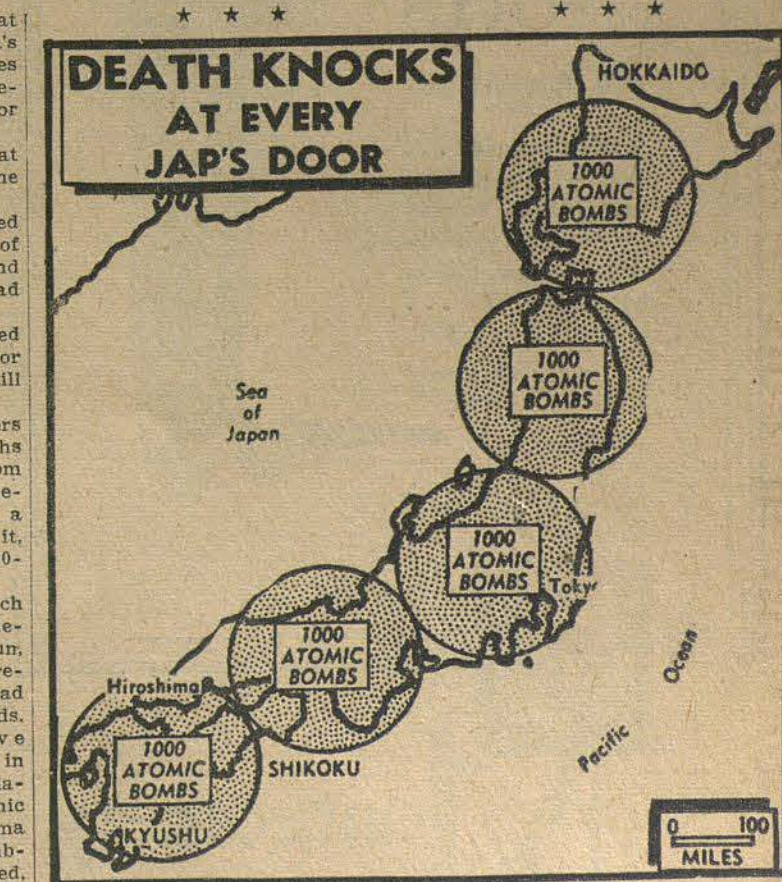

Photographers showed that not even stout concrete structures in the heart of the city, presumed to have been air-raid shelters, escaped. The structures still stood but apparently were burned out inside.

Both Gen. Spaatz, who announced from his Strategic Air Force headquarters that 60 per cent of Hiroshima had been "completely destroyed," and Tokyo radio warned that more atomic bombings could be expected.

Spaatz declared that other Superforts were ready to follow the B-29 "Enola Gay" which Col. Paul W. Tibbets, Jr., of Miami, Fla., piloted over Hiroshima to drop war's newest and most devastating weapon.

Tokyo radio, which referred to the bomb only as something new in its home broadcasts, urged the Japanese to keep their spirits firm and predicted that a defense against the bombs would be developed. Tokyo referred to the bomb as "atomic" in its foreign broadcasts.

Spaatz announced that recon-

5000 BOMBS COULD DO THIS—All of Japan could be leveled with the chance that virtually every inhabitant might be killed by only 5,000 strategically placed atomic bombs. All 260,000 square miles of Jap homeland could be covered by atomic bombs, as shown on this map. According to reports, these bombs have an effective killing power within a radius of four miles.

Reds Kept Nip Army Pinned Down at Border

By Douglass Wallop
Washington, Aug. 8 (UP)—Russia has kept the cream of Japan's military machine—the crack Kwangtung army—pinned down along the outer Mongolian border for years. There have been innumerable frontier clashes between the two countries in which, since 1937, Russia decidedly has had the upper hand. All were officially ignored. The border has been a tinder-box ever since Japan seized Manchuria in 1931. Seasoned troops of both countries faced each other in tense anticipation of the official opening of hostilities. Estimates of Russian strength there range from 300,000 to almost 1,000,000. Some of its troops are believed to be seasoned veterans who have not been reported in action since Stalingrad. The Japanese are believed to have at least 750,000 men along the border. The National Geographic society said that the seizure of Manchuria touched off "a decade of undeclared warfare," with rising movements of 2,000 armed troops along the 2,300-mile border from Nonomhan to Vladivostok. These clashes have continued since Pearl Harbor. "These tests of strength more than once altered Japan's long-range plans for aggression," the Soviets said. "They led to the neutrality pact made in April, 1941, and recently denounced by Russia. "Soviet opposition to Japan thrusts along the mile-wide Emur river boundary was weak up to 1937. The situation was altered when a Jap-made border incident at Nonomhan in 1939 turned into a humiliating Japanese defeat after summer-long warfare engaging air and tank forces. In this battle, officially ignored, Japan lost 18,000 of 60,000 troops committed. "The border has been kept perpetually alert. Japan acts to guard against the threat to her home islands and to the Manchurian rail line north from Port Arthur to Harbin. "The Soviets, in turn, guard Vladivostok where much of the 206,000 population lives and works under duress. It watches the city's rail arteries from the west—the original and the alternate trans-Siberian lines, both curving with the border for hundreds of miles. "In 1944, 71 per cent of the 284 automobiles stolen in St. Paul were parked with ignition keys left in them.

is just about as erroneous as the other. He lived in Japan for 20 years and returned to this country in 1941 and is regarded as an authority who is in wide demand as a speaker.

He was introduced yesterday at the Rotary luncheon as the chief speaker of the day by Dr. W. B. Hatcher, president of Louisiana State university. Dr. Mickie will deliver the commencement address at Louisiana State university Friday night.

He declared that before Japan struck out on its present course of aggression that there was a strong and spirited "liberal group" in the country. He added that he counted among these "many good friends" and predicted that if there are any left after this war they will take an important role in leading Japan back to a more proper way of life.

As proof of the statement that the liberals in Japan actually exist, Dr. Mickie said that on the day of the Pearl Harbor attack when all "enemy aliens" in the country were arrested by the army some 40,000 Japanese were also thrown in jail because of opposition to the military.

The Army and Navy "clique" have largely dominated the Japanese nation since the constitution of 1889 was adopted, Dr. Mickie asserted. However, during all this time there has been a constant tendency toward liberalism in the country that the military has had to fight.

Cites Jap Aggression
Sensing that it was steadily losing ground in this connection he said that the military in the early part of the 1930s decided on a policy of aggression that started with the seizure of Manchuria, continued through the rape of Nanking and was climaxed by the attack on Pearl Harbor.

After his formal address, Dr. Mickie told reporters that in his opinion the Japanese will not surrender to a surge of apathy after they are defeated. Rather, they will go to work again and try to resume a normal way of life, he said.

He said that he believes that they are entirely capable as a whole, of assuming some democratic form of government if given the chance.

Asked if he had ever visited the city of Hiroshima, target for the first U. S. atomic bomb attack, Dr. Mickie said that he had. He added that the parents of a Russian boy whom he brought back to this country with him in 1941 live there "and are very probably dead today." The Russian boy who became a U. S. citizen is now in the

Diplomatic Victory
A newcomer in world diplomacy, who took over where the late President Roosevelt left off, Truman got the answer he wanted.

And today he stood behind his White House desk, flanked by Byrnes and his personal chief of staff, Adm. William D. Leahy, and made this simple announcement:

"Russia has declared war on Japan."

That was all, he added. But those final words were almost lost in a gasp from reporters hastily summoned to his office and their exclamations of "My God!"

The carrier plane strike followed by only about 20 hours a Navy department warning from Washington that Halsey's Third fleet was off the Japanese homeland and would strike again soon.

Although Nimitz did not identify Halsey's targets, it was believed that wave after wave of his planes were raining bombs against approximately 20 islands.

The attack on Wake was strictly a surface bombardment. There was no report of Japanese interference, although they replied briefly with antiaircraft guns.

The number of American and British aircraft participation in the Honshu strikes was not disclosed. However, it is known that the combined American and British carrier forces are able to mount an attack of 1,500 planes under good conditions.

Halsey's last attack was July 30, when carrier planes struck the Japanese naval base at Maizuru and the Tokyo area. In their attacks from July 10 to 30, carrier pilots knocked out more than 1,000 Japanese ships and small craft and destroyed or damaged approximately 1,300 aircraft.

Northern Honshu, besides having from 20 to 25 operational air fields, has a secondary naval base with a fleet anchorage at Omihata on the northern tip. There also are several naval fuel depots.

There also are 14 ports of some significance, including Niigata, Sakata and Tsuchizakimato on the west coast, the ferry port of Aomori on the north tip, and Miyako, Kamishima and Shikama on the east coast. It was Kamishima where Halsey's battleships made their first bombardment of the war on Honshu, on July 14.

But the president did know what he wanted and went after it. He did not look forward to his job. He was skeptical about the reception of his proposal.

Lasting Effect Of Atomic Bomb Termed Untrue

Washington, Aug. 8 (AP)—The War department today denied published reports that areas devastated by the atomic bomb continue for years to react with death-dealing radioactivity.

In a statement, the department quoted Dr. J. O. Oppenheimer, head of this phase of the atomic research, as saying "There is every reason to believe that there was no appreciable radioactivity on the ground at Hiroshima and what little there was decayed very rapidly."

Published reports had quoted Dr. Harold Jacobson of Columbia university, one of those who participated in the atomic research work, as saying the bombed area in Japan might cause death for persons entering the area for a period of 70 years.

One of the initial War department announcements on the bomb's discovery, however, describing an experiment with the bomb in July in New Mexico, said "to examine the nature of the crater" caused by the explosion "specially equipped tanks were wheeled into the area" so scientists could see what had happened.

The War department made this statement on the published story:

"In response to inquiries from the press regarding news stories appearing in this morning's newspapers based on an interview with Dr. Harold Jacobson, the War department today issued this statement:

"In the opinion of the most competent experts who have been studying all phases of the effects of the bomb for a number of years there is no basis for Dr. Jacobson's speculation with respect to radioactivity. There has been no expectation by these same experts of any such radioactive phenomena as he describes.

"Dr. J. R. Oppenheimer, the head of this phase of work, when asked for his views, said: 'Based on all of our experimental work and study, and on the results of the tests in New Mexico, there is every reason to believe that there was no appreciable radioactivity on the ground at Hiroshima and what little there was decayed very rapidly.'

In New York, Dr. Jacobson said an article carried under his by-line by the International News Service was not written by him. He said he would issue a statement later in the day.

naturally suited for the shuttle-bombing of Japan such as was worked out by the U. S. Eighth and 15th Air Forces in Europe. There has been some speculation that the establishment of shuttle bases in Europe was partly experimental for projected use against the Japanese in the East.

The distance from Vladivostok to Japan is 1,600 miles. The Eighth Air Force in Europe shuttle-bombed Germany with full fighter escort from Britain to Russia, covering a distance approximately the same. Also, many rich Japanese targets lie as close as 300 miles to Russian bases on or near the Manchurian border.

There also is the possibility that American and British planes have been shuttled directly across Russia to the Far East bases from the European Theater of Operations.

Although such a movement naturally would be a top secret, it appears certain that Russia would make sure she had ample and close aerial support at hand in the Far East for the moment when she was ready to strike.

Russia never has developed long range bombing fleets comparable to those of the Allies, and yet Allied experts have stated that Russian air bases in the Far East would shorten the war by months. This undoubtedly calls for the use of Russian bases by huge American bombing fleets.

It provided, among other things, for consultation among the Big Four and with other powers "with a view to joint action on behalf of the community of nations."

The section of the United Nations charter to which Byrnes said President Truman referred in his statement to Stalin included so-called transitional arrangements under which the United States, Great Britain, Russia, France and China agreed to consultation and joint action necessary to maintain international peace in the period before the proposed world security council begins to operate.

Mr. Truman also cited, Byrnes said, Article 103 of the charter, which provides that in the event of conflict with other obligations of United Nations members, the charter obligation shall prevail. The secretary quoted the president as telling the Soviet premier:

"Though the charter has not been formally ratified, at San Francisco it was agreed to by the representatives of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, and the Soviet government will be one of the permanent members of the security council.

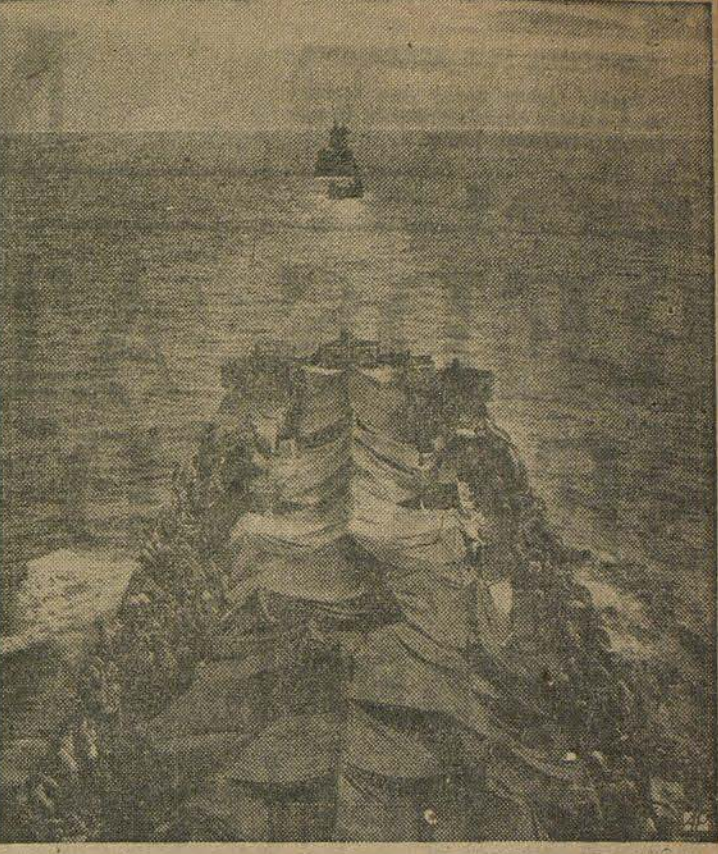

For his own part, Byrnes said he welcomed the declaration by the Soviet government that it will consider itself in a state of war with Japan as of August 9.

"This action of the Soviet government should materially shorten the war and save many lives," Byrnes said.

"I am happy, too, that the Allied powers that co-operated in Europe to defeat the enemy will continue their co-operation in the Far East and will bring peace to the world."

The nominating committee this year, appointed by President J. Theron Brown of the Chamber of Commerce, consisted of the following members: J. B. Carradine, chairman; William B. Gladney, R. J. Abbott, M. M. Lanier, Robert A. Bogan, E. L. Gass, P. N. Simon, Charles M. Kantrow, Edgar A. Soward, Henry J. Voorhies, Ralph Bodman, J. Theron Brown, J. Andrew Zallinger, J. B. Hodge and E. F. Fleming, Jr.

In discussing the Act No. 305 passed by the 1944 session of the state legislature, known as the state board of trade relations act, the board decided to table any action on this measure at the present time.

Treasurer's Report

The board heard the report of Treasurer J. B. Hodge and the report of J. H. McLaughlin, assistant secretary, and secretary of the membership committee. Total increased membership for the year amounts to $3,005.00, according to the report. Fred Grace, Jr., is chairman of the committee.

In the absence of Ernest D. Wilson, chairman of the transportation committee, the secretary-manager gave a report of the meeting with W. N. Deramus, president of Kansas City Southern-Louisiana & Arkansas railway Co., and Wayne A. Johnston, president of the Illinois Central System. Satisfactory conferences were held with each of these presidents last week, and some headway is being made on the postwar plans for passenger transportation in this area.

Chairman T. Sterling Dunn of the retail merchants committee reported on the activities of his committee, and of plans to set up a more active retail merchants division of the Chamber of Commerce, as soon as possible.

A brief review of the housing allotment was given by the board and recommended action suggested to the secretary-manager in regard to the recent allotment of houses to this area.

A full and complete discussion of the possible reactivation of the alumna plant facilities was presented. The Chamber of Commerce has been active in trying to secure the release of this property for peacetime operation and it was explained that this property was still being held for emergency war plant facilities.

In regard to the movement to move the headquarters of the Federal Barge Line from New Orleans to St. Louis, the board went on record in agreeing to offer their assistance to the New Orleans Association of Commerce in an effort to keep the offices in New Orleans. It was pointed out that this office was advantageous to the Baton Rouge shippers.

The Chamber of Commerce will appoint a tax committee to study the present tax laws of the state and make recommendations to the Louisiana Revenue Code commission in the near future.

In filling a vacancy on the board, W. Hamilton Crawford, managing partner of the Crawford company, was named as a director-at-large to serve for the period ending August 31, 1946. Crawford was out of town and could not attend this first meeting.

YOU ARE STANDING ON MY SIDEBURNS, THE MAN SAYS
Regina (AP)—For Pvt. Waldo Robinson of Cardross, Sask., parachuting was just routine the day he found himself walking on another man's parachute in mid-air. The man below asked him to move off, he was gumming up the works. Robinson was only too glad to oblige—for the lack of upward current was causing his parachute to collapse.

Editorial:

The Leopard Changes Its Spots

The Argentine government at last has taken some concrete steps which, if followed through, will do much to restore that nation to the good graces of the democratic powers. The Farrell government has lifted the state of siege imposed on Argentina 3 1/2 years ago and has restored freedom of the press and the right of assembly and political activity. Presumably, the Argentine press now will be free to discuss and, if need be, criticize all actions of the government, just as is the press in this country. Argentine political parties can reorganize and can, if they so desire, campaign against the party now in power.

Events before and during the election which the Farrell regime has promised by the end of this year will furnish the acid test of the government's sincerity in these reforms. There are more ways than one of stamping out such freedoms and imposing a tyranny. The obvious way is the way of outright repression followed by the Argentine government for the past several years. A more subtle but no less dangerous way is by corruption and intimidation, used by fascists in more countries than one to subvert the democratic processes.

If the Argentine elections really are free—free not only of outright oppression but also of sub rosa interference and intimidation and dishonesty—then Argentina will be welcomed back into the ranks of the free countries.

The next leopard to change its spots, the world hopes, will be Spain. Dictator Franco may trumpet his defiance and reiterate a thousand times his magnanimity and his good intentions, but his place grows more perilous by the day. Should the great powers decide to implement their Potsdam denunciation of Spanish fascism with economic measures, Franco may soon take a great fall. If he has the good of Spain and his own personal safety at heart, the Spanish dictator soon will bow out as gracefully as possible and return the Spanish government to the Spanish people. It is true, but the way, that Spain has been neutral in two great wars, but it ill becomes Franco to boast of this fact; he himself owes his present position to a civil war so prolonged and devastating that Spain's subsequent weakness is in truth what kept him from plunging his country into World War II. The Spanish have been officially neutral, but Spaniards nevertheless fought in Germany's losing battle against Russia, and few countries have suffered more from war in recent years than has Spain.

The Age of Atomic Power

The report of President Truman's announcement that the first atomic bomb had fallen on Japan contained many dramatic statements. But not the least meaningful was this:

"The president said he would recommend that congress consider the establishment of a commission to control the production and use of atomic power in the United States."

In this statement the president indicated his own belief—undoubtedly based on a knowledge of the facts—that atomic power can and will be harnessed to the uses of peace. The commission he proposes to create may become one of the most important branches of our government. It would be the duty of such a commission to guide through safe channels the development of a new age in the life of man—the age of atomic power.

Before a wartime blackout was clamped on atomic power research, scientists were unanimous in agreeing that the harnessing of atomic power would bring a power revolution exceeding in importance the industrial revolution through which our present civilization was built. Briefly speaking, they declared that the effect would be to introduce power in almost limitless amounts to run our factories; drive our trains, aircraft, ships and automobiles; heat and light our homes, and, even, to carry us in rocket ships to the moon—power to annihilate space, to drain the swamp and irrigate the desert, to rebuild our cities, to create a better life for every man.

Now, we have atomic power. No one predicts that these results will come about overnight. But if the power now dedicated to the destruction of Japan can be put to the uses of peace, such things might come about in the lifetime of most of us.

Obviously, the proper use of such power is a matter of national concern. In these unsettled times, the secrets of atomic power must be guarded at all cost from fanatics and maniacs who might wish to make another attempt at world domination. After the war, the development of atomic power must be handled in such a manner as to avoid the possibility of economic chaos as whole industries are recreated.

Certainly, control of such a discovery cannot be left in the hands of any group of private individuals. The man who controlled atomic power would hold the earth in his hands. It would be within his reach to impoverish whole peoples, to drive nations to bankruptcy and amass for himself the powers of Caesar and the wealth of Croesus.

When the flywheels turn on the first atomic engines, the people themselves, acting through their government, must take control of their destiny, lest this great new force run amok. The effects on our economic system cannot now be foreseen. They are certain to be very great—greater, perhaps, than the discovery of electricity and the perfection of the steam and gasoline engines.

The defeat of Germany did not automatically wipe out the carefully cultivated anti-Semitism in both Germany and Axis-occupied Europe.—Sen. Owen Brewster of Maine and Rep. Emanuel Celler of New York in joint letter to President Harry S. Truman.

It is my absolute conviction, after 20-some years in business, that if we don't promote local, independent business, we are going to end up with a few great companies, and that would be very unfortunate for the economy.—W. Stuart Symington, chairman, surplus property board.

FOOD PROBLEM IN EUROPE

By Thomas L. Stokes

Washington, Aug. 8.—When Judge Samuel L. Rosenman returned from an economic survey of liberated Europe more than three months ago, before the end of the war with Germany, he said in his report to President Truman that "the immediate and long-range economic situations of these liberated countries are extremely serious."

"Except in the rural, food-raising areas, a dangerously low level of nutrition generally exists," he reported.

He urged that "the Washington machinery for allocating supplies to liberated areas should be simplified and streamlined." He suggested that the president delegate someone to examine this machinery and recommend changes "designed to eliminate the complexities which now exist."

More than three months later those "complexities" still exist, an investigation here discloses. Some feelingly call it "a mess." Nothing effective has been done seemingly to provide a balanced, co-ordinated program to help feed Europe. It is getting later by the day. Winter in Europe is not far off.

As pointed out previously, the main trouble here lies in a diffusion of authority and responsibility among numerous agencies. Directly involved in handling the foreign food program are the combined food board, the foreign economic administration, and the Agriculture department. The last is represented on the combined board by Secretary of Agriculture Anderson, but it also has independent powers in some respects, as does FEA. The State department also is involved as respects over-all policy.

In addition to Secretary Anderson, representing our country, the combined board includes a representative of Great Britain, Maurice Hutton, chief of the British food mission here, and J. G. Gardiner, minister of agriculture of Canada, representing that country. Operating under it were numerous commodity committees.

These commodity committees study the over-all world situation as regards their respective commodities and make recommendations to the combined food board which, in turn, makes allocations. But the board's authority is not final. Its decisions are subject to approval by the three countries.

FEA, which participates in the program through representation on the combined board, also has the separate function of issuing export licenses. In this capacity it has power to change allocations, not of the total amount, but as among countries. In doing this, it has produced friction.

Furthermore, there are conflicts of authority between FEA and agriculture. FEA cannot move in some respects without approval of agriculture. To initiate agriculture production programs here and there in the world as a means of increasing total production. This sort of program to encourage production might have helped now had it been undertaken earlier on a wider scale.

There are other conflicts, but these are enough to illustrate the "complexities" which hamstring an efficient and effective program. Nowhere presumably is there any one authority which can sit down, take all components of the food problem—Army, domestic and foreign—and lay out a program.

All sorts of solutions are suggested in reports prepared for President Truman. Secretary Anderson has been making a survey of the problem of more direct responsibility. The Agriculture department, it is reported, want to have charge of the whole foreign food program.

Against such concentration of authority, it is objected that it would subject the program too much to domestic political pressure, the detriment of foreign needs. It is argued that the department's first concern is with the domestic problem and it is beholden for appropriations to congress through which this domestic pressure is channeled constantly.

In some quarters it is suggested that the State department should have over-all control, at least to the point of formulating an over-all policy. A report embodying such a proposal has been prepared in the State department for submission to the president. The argument is that, basically, the problem is an international political problem, and the State department should formulate the policy.

Others suggest that existing agencies could handle the problem in the present setup if a specific program is laid down and the agencies are properly co-ordinated to carry it out without present frictions.

But something needs to be done—and quickly. (Copyright, 1945, United Feature Syndicate)

A CORRESPONDENT'S NOTEBOOK

By Hal Boyle

Indianapolis (AP)—Hoosiers are people who live in Indiana. If you live in Missouri and call your neighbor a Hoosier, he will lay your head open with a garden rake. If you call an Indian a Hoosier, it isn't necessary to duck at all. The man is pleased.

Hoosiers are stubborn. They are also very patriotic. They are thrifty people, too. They own their own homes and own their own cars.

They are as bad as Californians or Texans when it comes to home state pride. But they aren't as vociferous about it. They just take it for granted that the Lord, after looking over his global property, carefully, staked out his favorite claim and tagged it "Indiana."

Every once in a while a Hoosier ventures beyond the state line. Usually, however, it's just out of curiosity to see how the other half of the world lives. He returns—like Ernie Pyle did—convinced there is no place like Indiana.

Hoosiers don't seem particularly inclined toward making converts. They are largely content to enjoy their own well tended farms and neat cities. If you want to move to Indiana, the Hoosiers don't mind. If you don't want to move to Indiana, they don't mind that, either. They don't worry about ignorance beyond their own borders. They are happy to bask in their own greatness without applause.

They breed presidents and statesmen, but are product of their authors—James Whitcomb Riley, General Lew Wallace, Booth Tarkington, George Ade and Kin Hubbard, to name a few. Something about the Indiana topsoil or intellectual climate favors the growth of writers. They have so many good newspapermen they have to export them—men like Ernie, Kent Cooper, general manager of The Associated Press; Roy Howard of the United Press, and Byron Price, the nation's press censor.

Poet Riley still ranks in the hearts of most Hoosiers as the states' all-time leading citizen.

The Last Rose of Summer

INTERPRETING THE WAR NEWS

By James D. White (Associated Press Writer)

San Francisco, Aug. 8 (AP)—Russia in the Pacific war means that every weapon has now been turned against Japan except direct invasion and conquest.

Coming as it does on the heels of the atomic bomb, the Russian declaration dooms Japanese hopes of holding out in Manchuria and North China, informs the Japanese people that their leaders have succeeded in lining up the whole world against them, and tells the Japanese leaders that their sands are running out.

Knowing defeat was inevitable, the Japanese may even have hoped that Russia would line up against them. This they might hope in the desperation of a tortured person, and in the sly expectancy that by waiting until Russia is involved they might allow the seeds of dissension to sprout among the Allies.

Allied timing, therefore, becomes highly interesting.

Russia's entry was agreed upon at Yalta, but the timing was left undetermined, and that was fixed at Moscow. In the meantime, the Allies acted to the potential breach between Russia and another of the Allies, China. The Chinese premier, T. V. Soong, went to Moscow recently from this country and when he went on to Chungking he reported encouraging progress in his discussions with Stalin of mutual problems.

He returned to Moscow day before yesterday and was given a pointed welcome by the Soviet capital which was about to declare war on China's greatest enemy, Japan.

Shortly before an atomic bomb had struck Japan.

Within a few hours he was conferring again with Stalin, and alternately with the American ambassador.

It is of vital importance that these talks go well, for it cannot be questioned that the Japanese hope that Soviet-Chinese rivalry some day will nullify Allied victory in Asia.

Such rivalry is no daydream. Mutual suspicions have existed in the past, and relations until recently have been chilly between Chungking and Moscow. This situation has been complicated by the fact that Chinese Communists in North China (who have got no material help from Russia) have nevertheless remained nominally independent from the recognized government of China and must have hoped, at least, for eventual support from Moscow.

A clear clue to Japanese thinking in this respect is the way the Japanese, who went into China in 1937 "to stamp out Communism" have carefully refrained from doing so.

Manchurian industry is left intact. China has title to the country and will presumably get the industry the Japanese built if something does not interfere.

Many skeptics of Russia have held that Russia is likely to be that something, anxious for an outlet to the Pacific and not too impressed by China's aspirations as a big power anyway.

But Russian policy as practiced in recent years does not justify this suspicion.

HOLLYWOOD

By Erskine Johnson (NEA Staff Correspondent)

Editors Note: Hollywood notables have volunteered to serve as "guest columnists" while Erskine Johnson is on vacation. The column below was written by Producer George Jessel.

Hollywood—There has always been an affinity between food and entertainment. It probably began in the amphitheaters of Rome where, while waiting for the lions to come out and consume unfortunately.

They loved him for his foibles as much as for his homely verse. They like best to recall a little quatrain called "Contentment" which the great man struck off in his cups extemporaneously one night at a banquet. You can't be around any oldtime Hoosier four hours without hearing it recited joyously. Unfortunately, this gem, like the family poet's famous tribute to a standard type of Indiana farmyard architecture, isn't quite suitable for a family newspaper.

Hoosiers seem to know more about what the war means than people of some other states. Although Indianapolis is located in an agricultural area, its restaurants have more food shortages than those of Manhattan. But the Hoosiers don't take the war as personal persecution. They gripe the least of any Americans I have run into, and many of them take a real pride in doing without what in peacetime were regarded as necessities.

This war has changed the Hoosiers' isolationist views considerably. They have concluded that it might avoid future scraps if Indiana tied in permanently with Moscow, London, Chungking and other non-Hoosier capitals. But they don't want any of those foreign places to get the idea that the Hoosiers want to try to tell them how to run their business. If they want to see perfection in the modern world, they can send their own ambassadors to Hoosierland.

This is the view of the 69-year-old H. H. Woodsmall, an insurance executive whose own dad, one of 19 survivors from a civil war company of 100 men, died at 42 from disability caused by gunshot wounds at Antietam.

Having lost a father in one war and seen his nation during his own lifetime take part in three major international dogfights and a couple of skirmishes, Woodsmall is willing to go along with any sensible plan to insure world peace.

"We want to get into this thing to the extent of securing a permanent peace," he said, and his attitude seems to me to be blueprint the changed Middle Western mind. "But we don't want to interfere with the interior affairs of any of those countries over there. It's none of our business."

There's your rock-ribbed Hoosier. And Woodsmall has no prejudice against foreigners, even if, as he admits wryly, "I once lost a lot of money in Florida."

nate captives, the audience grew a bit bored and took a few bites themselves.

Then the world became civilized and all these customs were abolished. However, one thing remained. Put a lot of people together, all watching or listening to something, and they'll eat.

In the sweet yesterday of my time, I remember the soft munching of bonbons, even at the staid and fastidious Charles Frohman's Empire Theater. A lovely dowager and her daughter sat spellbound watching Maud Adams in "Peter Pan" with fingers tightly clenched on a marshmallow.

Only two of the arts played to silent gums—the concert and the silent motion picture. In the latter case the audience was too busy thinking about what the actors were actually saying and reading their lips, so they had no time to eat.

You Hear Them Now

Then came the talking picture. The audience can hear the words now, so it is no longer necessary to imagine what the actors are saying. Therefore, the last year or two has been responsible for a strange series of events. "Popcorn" is now a word that means open sesame to riches. If you want to show a profit in a neighboring picture house, just get popcorn.

This is now the great problem of the movie producer. Everything happens to him. He is the first guy called upon to aid in every national crisis. If he makes films to aid general morale, he is accused of having a sinister motive. If he doesn't, he is an apostle of iniquity. If an actor quotes Lincoln's Gettysburg address and says: "Government by the people, for the people," etc., Congressman Rankin immediately declares the producer intends to blow up the White House.

One group says why don't they make pictures showing gangsters getting their just deserts. Another group says how dare they put those things on the screen and encourage young people to be bad. Broadway condemns movies for not paying high enough prices for its plays, and as soon as it does Broadway writes satires condemning the movies for throwing away money on such things . . .

Now Is the Worst

But now is the winter of the cinema's discontent. What to do about popcorn so it won't drown out what the actors are saying. First a number of psychologists and dietitians must be brought in. When do people eat the popcorn the most? Then a group of psychoanalysts. What sort of scenes make them reach for the popcorn? Should the actors be made to speak softer so that the popcorn can have the stage to itself, or vice versa?

This is the problem that confronts us now. Since in a great many theaters the popcorn is making more money than the pictures, perhaps it would be best to serve more popcorn and not show the pictures.

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By Drew Pearson

Washington—Those who sat in on the drafting of JCS 1067, the blueprint for governing Germany, say that it was one of the most carefully conceived plans ever prepared by government agencies. The Army, Navy, State department, Treasury and Foreign Economic administration all participated.

Their aim was to draft a set of rules which would stamp out Nazism and make sure that never again could Germany plunge the world into war.

What now concerns some of these officials is that several cardinal points in the blueprint for occupied Germany are being ignored by military men. This may be due to military expediency, or to the soft-peace crowd in the War department, or to plain ignorance of the rules. That is one reason why publication of the rules has been urged, so that every American soldier in Germany shall know them.

For instance, the order for occupied Germany specifies that the foreign assets of German cartels shall be seized by the U. S. Army. But when Gen. Lucius Clay wired the War department proposing the seizure of I. G. Farben assets in Argentina and Switzerland, the War department, ignoring the blueprint, said no.

Again the blueprint for occupied Germany provides that no munitions plants shall operate. But the U. S. Army has given permission for a German hydrogen peroxide plant to make fluid for U. S. buzz-bombs, while the Ford plant at Cologne is making trucks for the U. S. Army. While these are for the United States, officials here point out that the Army has a tremendous surplus of trucks, and that if we don't need the hydrogen peroxide for a two-front war, we don't need it now for one front.

It was the building up of German industry after the last war, they emphasize, partly to pay reparations, partly through the connivance of American-British industrialists, which paved the way for Hitler's amazing war capacity in this war.

These are some of the reasons why this columnist believes that the American people, who contributed so much to defeat Germany, have a right to know the rules by which Germany is to be kept defeated. Publication of the carefully drafted and thoroughly approved blueprint for governing Germany was begun yesterday. Other pertinent portions follow today:

Education

"A. All educational institutions within your zone except those previously re-established by Allied authority will be closed. The closure of Nazi educational institutions such as Adolf Hitler Schulen, Napolas and Ordensburgen, and of Nazi organizations within other educational institutions will be permanent.

"B. A co-ordinated system of control over German education and an affirmative program of re-orientation will be established designed completely to eliminate Nazi and militaristic doctrines and to encourage the development of democratic ideas.

"C. You will permit the reopening of elementary (volkschulen), middle (mittelschulen), and vocational (berufsschulen) schools at the earliest possible date after Nazi personnel has been eliminated. Textbooks and curricula shall be free of Nazi and militaristic doctrine shall not be used. The control council should devise programs looking toward the reopening of secondary schools, universities and other institutions of higher learning.

German Standard of Living

"You will estimate requirements of supplies necessary to prevent starvation or widespread disease or such civil unrest as would endanger the occupying forces. Such estimates will be based upon a program whereby the Germans are made responsible for providing for themselves, out of their own work and resources. You will take all practicable economic and police measures to assure that German resources are fully utilized and consumption held to the minimum in order that imports may be strictly listed and that surpluses may be made available for the occupying forces and displaced persons and United Nations prisoners of war, and for reparation.

"You will take no action that would tend to support basic living standards in Germany on a higher level than that existing in any one of the neighboring United Nations and you will take appropriate measure to ensure that basic living standards of the German people are not higher than those existing in any one of the neighboring United Nations when such measures will contribute to raising the standards of any such nation." (The French and Belgians already claim that occupied Germany is more prosperous than they.)

Labor, Health, and Social Insurance

"You will permit the self-organization of employees along democratic lines, subject to such safeguards as may be necessary to prevent the perpetuation of Nazi or militarist influence under any guise, or the continuation of any group hostile to the objectives and operations of the occupying forces.

Truman Signs World Charter

Washington, Aug. 8 (AP)—Signed by President Truman, the United Nations charter was formally placed today in the archives of the United States. This country thus became the first to meet all membership requirements of the plan for future peace drawn at San Francisco.

Several other nations, including Guatemala, Nicaragua and El Salvador, have ratified the treaty but none other has met the requirement of depositing the instrument with the U. S.

The president and Secretary of State James F. Byrnes signed the senate's document of ratification and two copies of the full text of the charter, one bound in white leather, the other in blue.

The formal ceremony was witnessed by State department officials and newsmen.

The actual document of ratification is a terse, one-page proclamation. This is the instrument that the U. S. senate adopted by an 89-2 vote with Sens. Shipstead (R., Minn.) and Langer (R., N. D.) against it.

Byrnes and the president joked about the pens they used for the ceremony. The secretary rejected a dime store pen and took one of the more expensive desk models. Mr. Truman, however, stuck by the cheap one for his three signatures.

The charter drafted by 50 nations must be ratified and deposited with this government by at least 28 nations before it becomes effective.

The next step here will be the formal appointment of Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., former secretary of state, as the U. S. delegate to the world security council provided by the charter as the principal instrument for preventing future aggressions.

"You will direct the German authorities to utilize large landed estates and public lands in a manner which will facilitate the accommodation and settlement of Germans and others or increase agricultural output.

"You will protect from destruction by the Germans, and maintain for such disposition as is determined by this and other directives or by the control council, all plants, equipment, patents and other property, and all books and records of large German industrial companies and trade and research associations that have been essential to the German war effort on the German economy. You will pay particular attention to research and experimental establishments of such concerns.

"In order to disarm Germany, the control council should:

"Prevent the production, acquisition by importation or otherwise, and development of all arms, ammunition and implements of war, as well as all types of aircraft, and all parts, components and ingredients specially designed or produced for incorporation therein.

"Prevent the production of merchant ships, synthetic rubber and oil, aluminum and magnesium and any other products and equipment on which you will subsequently receive instructions.

"Prohibit and prevent production of iron and steel, chemicals, non-ferrous metals (excluding aluminum and magnesium), machine tools, radio and electrical equipment, automotive vehicles, heavy machinery and important parts thereof, except for the purposes stated in paragraphs 4 and 5 of this directive.

"The control council should adopt a policy permitting the conversion of facilities other than those mentioned in paragraphs 30 and 32 to the production of light consumer goods.

"You will prohibit all cartels or other private business arrangements and cartel-like organizations, including those of a public or quasi-public character, such as the Wirtschaftsruppen, providing for the regulation of marketing conditions, including production, prices, exclusive exchange of technical information and processes, and allocation of sales territories. Such necessary public functions as have been discharged by these organizations shall be absorbed as rapidly as possible by approved public agencies.

"It is the policy of your government to effect a dispersion of the ownership and control of German industry. To assist in carrying out this policy you will make a survey of combines and pools, mergers, holding companies and interlocking directorates and communicate the results, together with recommendations, to your government through the joint chiefs of staff."

Tire Dealers Urge Cane Haulers to Check Tires Before Season Starts

At a meeting of the Baton Rouge tire dealers Tuesday night an appeal was made to sugar cane haulers to come in now to have their tires checked, repaired or recapped or to put in orders for tires if that is necessary. Norvell Rose, chairman of the group, explained that last year cane haulers waited until the harvest season to put in their applications and a terrific drain on local supplies resulted. Rose added that the tire group is now attempting to contact rubber officials to obtain an increased allotment for the cane haulers in this area.

The group announced yesterday that the tire supply locally is lower than ever before and urged the public to pay strict attention to the conservation of the tires they already have. Regular checking, repairing and recapping of tires, checking of air pressure and attention to the mechanical condition of the wheels of cars is urged by the local tire men.

Help Is Rushed To Burning Ship

Halifax, Aug. 8 (AP)—The 4,413-ton cargo ship, Argos Hill, is in flames at sea 200 miles from this port, and other vessels from Newfoundland and Halifax are rushing to her aid.

Three Canadian minesweepers were sent to the aid of the burning ship, and another cargo ship, the Noan Brown is standing by.

A distress call picked up by the Navy here was the first indication that the Argos Hill was in trouble. The vessel's home port is London.

Cotton Forecast Indicates Drop

Washington, Aug. 8 (AP)—The Agriculture department today forecast a United States cotton crop for 1945 of 10,134,000 bales of 500 pounds gross weight, based upon information as of August 1.

This would be 17 per cent or 2,096,000 bales less than 1944 production and 2,159,000 bales less than average production for the 10-year (1934-1943) period.

The indicated lint yield per acre of 269.7 pounds is 39 pounds above average and has been exceeded in only three years—1944, 1942 and 1937.

Allowing for average abandonment of acreage in cultivation as of July 1, the acreage for harvest this year is computed at 15,034,000 acres—10 per cent below acreage harvested in 1944 and the smallest during any of the past 60 years.

A report from the bureau of the census shows 132,541 bales of cotton ginned from the crop of 1945 prior to August 1, compared with 48,182 bales for 1944 and 107,053 bales for 1943.

Poultry Raising Serious Business Says Prof. Payne

Poultry raising is a serious business, and not just an avocation to be followed as a recreational pursuit, delegates attending the short course for hatcherymen at LSU yesterday morning were told by Prof. L. F. Payne, head of the poultry department, Kansas State Agriculture college. Prof. Payne discussed the subject, "Responsibility of flock selecting and testing agents."

"Many of our service men returning from the war have an idea they would like to get into the poultry business," he said, "and that is a fine ambition, but the ambition cannot be fulfilled out of hand with little or no training or experience. Doctors and lawyers spend years studying their profession, but some people think a poultry business can be learned in six months. And then they wonder why it is not a successful venture."

Prof. Payne followed Harry D. Wilson, state commissioner of agriculture, who complimented the group of 125 hatcherymen on their concern for the development of a better poultry industry in Louisiana. Wilson told the gathering of a statement he had read to the effect that "the only thing that saved us during food shortages was poultry and fish."

He said he believed the statement, but added, "The two pursuits cannot be followed together. One must give his whole attention to one or the other if he is to achieve success."

"Chicken raising," he said, "is one of the most important phases of farming, and must be followed intelligently. We are learning that to become successful, we must follow the practice of growing our own poultry feed, just as the cattle industry is learning the same thing."

More Gains Shown In State Revenue

A gross gain of $362,000 was made in Louisiana's tax revenues in the first month of the new fiscal period, the state revenue department reported. A gain of nearly $5,000,000 was made in the fiscal year ending June 30.

Increased collections of taxes on severance, tobacco and retail sales accounted for much of the increase over the total for July a year ago. The net hike was only $144,758, because the state no longer imposes the tax on refining of petroleum products, which yielded $217,561 in July of 1944.

Major increases bringing last month's collections to $8,985,566 were from: severance, up $126,931 to $4,001,510; tobacco, up $120,583 to $732,323; sales, up $88,012 to $803,950; gas gathering, up $26,321 to $507,377; gasoline, up $25,011 to $1,499,297; alcoholic beverage up $24,450 to $343,046.

Larger decreases were from collections on: soft drinks, off $29,901 to $104,889; income, off $23,347 to $201,039; lubricating oil, off $3,667 to $37,838; and public utilities, off $8,237 to $105,494.

Net increase in collections in July, 1944 over the month in 1943 was $677,000.

Vanishing Fire Truck Reappears

The mysteriously missing fire truck of Centerville, Miss., is back in its station house today after being found abandoned on the highway between Clinton, La., and Baton Rouge late Tuesday.

The $1,700 vehicle disappeared from a Centerville parking lot sometime Monday night.

It was reported that an unidentified person noticed the truck while on his way to Camp Van Dorn, Miss. When he reached the camp, he informed the provost marshal, who in turn informed the Centerville authorities. Louisiana and Mississippi state patrolmen were notified to discontinue their search for the missing vehicle.

The red truck, with CFD in silver lettering on the front, had been undergoing repairs at Perry's Auto Service in Centerville, for some time and was removed to a parking lot. Some time between midnight and daylight Tuesday, some enterprising person drove off in the truck.

Conversation in Centerville about the missing truck rivaled talk of the atomic bomb, as the truck was being repaired to use in connection with the newly-constructed fire station.

A statement from Fire Chief Bob Knighton was not available.

NEWS AND NOTES OF BATON ROUGE BUSINESS HOUSES

Services of Hollabaugh-Seale Organizations Are Listed for the Public

The Hollabaugh-Seale Industrial Life Insurance company, a corporation organized under the laws of the state of Louisiana, licensed by the Insurance Department of Louisiana, with its offices at 3501 Florida street, Baton Rouge, Louisiana, writes one of the most complete burial policies that can be bought today.

Their policies provide a complete funeral and in addition to the funeral a cash benefit to take care of emergencies, such as doctor ills and hospital bills, as may be needed. All of their policies provide 100 miles ambulance service and can be written on persons from birth to age 75 years. All rates are based on the age of the insured and the amount of insurance desired whether $100 or $500. Their policies also provide a still-born clause, in addition to the other benefits, which in event a child is born dead the company will furnish such child a casket and box delivered within a radius of 50 miles of Baton Rouge, La., without cost to the insured.

They maintain an agency force who are trained in their profession and all have been connected with this organization for several years. All Hollabaugh-Seale Industrial Life Insurance company policies are serviced by the Hollabaugh-Seale Funeral home and should death occur outside of this locality, which makes it impracticable for the official funeral director to furnish the complete service, then the policy will pay a stipulated cash benefit to the beneficiary.

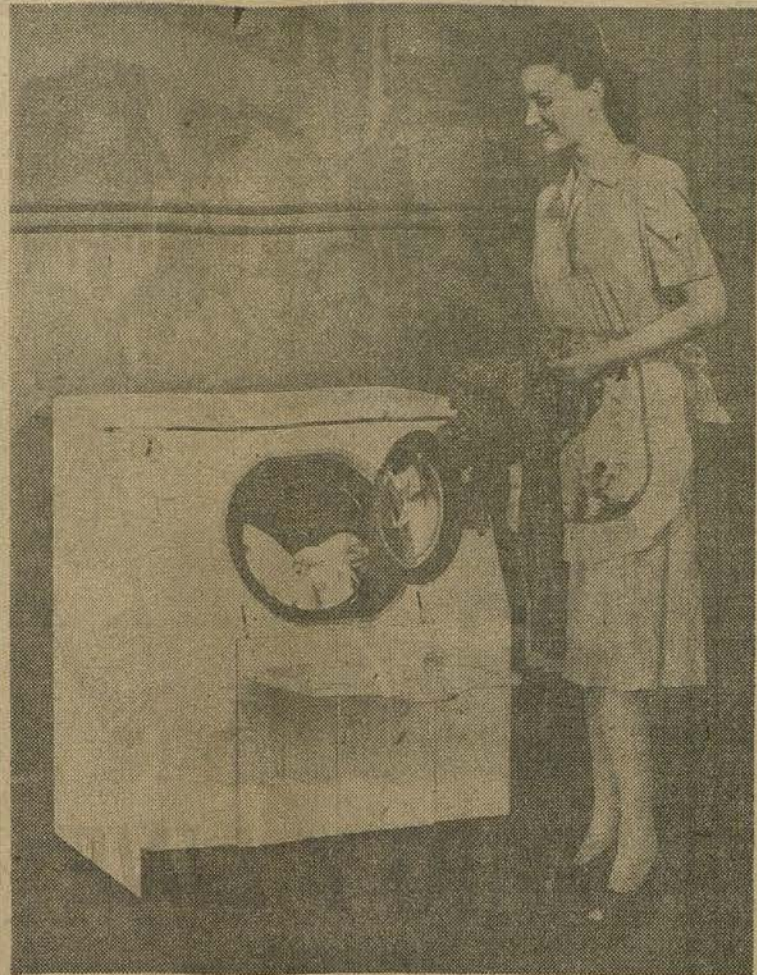

The insurance company is under the supervision of its president, V. L. Seale, who has had years of experience in the insurance business and is owned by V. L. Seale, Denver T. Hollabaugh, and T. Waldo Morgan. Illustrated above is a model of the Westinghouse laundromat which is being demonstrated all next week on the sales floor of Gulf States Utilities company.

Housewives of Baton Rouge will be given the opportunity next week to see a postwar dream in action. Leota Crays, Westinghouse home economist, will demonstrate that company's laundromat on the sales floor of Gulf States Utilities company from August 13 to August 18.

The Westinghouse laundromat which was perfected just before war activities cut down production will not be available until after victory, but this is an opportunity for many who have never seen an automatic washer in action to more fully understand its efficiency and uses.

Unlike many mechanical washers the laundromat automatically fills itself with water, washes, rinses, spins clothes amazingly dry, cleans and drains itself and shuts itself off. The work is reduced to putting the soiled clothes in and taking the clean clothes out. There is no need to put the hands in water.

The public is cordially invited to attend these demonstrations which will be held all next week, beginning Monday. There is no admission charge and each person present will be presented with an informative new booklet, Home Laundry Guide, by Gulf State Utilities company.

of its president, Mr. Denver T. Hollabaugh, who is a licensed embalmer and funeral director and has had approximately 22 years experience in the funeral business.

The business is owned by local people, which includes Mr. Denver T. Hollabaugh, V. L. Seale, and T. Waldo Morgan, all of whom have had years of experience in this profession and make a point to give each case their personal attention and at the time their services are needed whether in the funeral home or the residence of the deceased, the family will be provided with the most modern and up to date equipment that can be furnished, regardless of denomination.

For any information or service desired dial 5677.

The Hollabaugh-Seale Funeral home personnel invite you to visit their funeral home and will be glad to give you any information requiring their services.

INSPECTION SERVICE IS FREE

A free inspection service to determine termite infestation is offered by the Southern Termitix company of this city.

Property owners are urged to take advantage of this offer due to the millions and millions of dollars in damage done yearly, (estimated in excess of $50,000,000) and the fact that it is smart especially during war to preserve your property as repairs are costly and workmen are hard to secure.

The only sure way to know if your property is termite infested is to have experts inspect it. Men who have spent a lifetime and made it their primary work are in a position to give you intelligent advice as to the need for treatment.

Leon Burks, of the local Southern Termitix company, advises property owners to have this inspection made and if the inspection shows termite infestation, have the work done promptly and of course in an efficient manner.

A BAD HABIT

is to postpone investigating your insurance coverage.

Modern and complete to the last detail, the above picture shows the interior of Champagne Brothers Paint & Glass Co., 454 Main street, S. R. Champagne, manager. For many, many years, Champagne Brothers Paint & Glass Co., has been the local distributors for Lucas paints and varnishes, known the country over for highest quality. S. R. Champagne, points out that unprotected wood decays rapidly, soaking moisture, accumulated from ice and frost as well as from hard rains. This is only one of the hazards of exposed wood. Sunshine, too, takes its toll of wood and of course it is particularly hard on those woods unprotected by paints. Regular painting of your home costs far less than a new house or replacing a portion of your present home. Lucas house paints, in which the finest pigments are ground in pure linseed oil, produce a superlative product. There are many homes in this community, which have been painted with Lucas outside paints and they look more beautiful and the best of all, a Lucas painting usually lasts four or five years. Champagne points out that if there is any problem in connection with painting your home, he would be pleased to have you drop by, 454 Main street, and talk over with him the things that are bothering you.

The Hollabaugh-Seale Funeral home, 3505 Florida street, one of the modern mortuaries of the city. Direction of the home is under the personal supervision of the company's president, D. T. Hollabaugh, who has had 22 years experience in this type of endeavor. (Elsewhere on these pages will be found a more complete story of the organization, policies and aims of the Hollabaugh-Seale Funeral home and the Hollabaugh-Seale Industrial Life Insurance company.)

This does away with costly repairs later on.

Through Burks' offices, hundreds of homes have been serviced in Baton Rouge. The local office is one of 92 of a national organization, which is bonded and insured and therefore the property owner takes no chances.

The nation's leading industrial plants use the Termitix method to rid their plants of termites. Statistics show that over 90 per cent of the country's largest corporations have employed Termitix service for the protection of one or more buildings against termite damage. Because Termitix is nationally known and recognized for its efficiency in ridding a place of termites or preventing an infestation, this company can guarantee its work. Every Termitix contract is guaranteed by E. L. Bruce company, world's largest makers of hardwood floors and insured by Sun Insurance Office, Ltd.

Because of these two very fine reasons every home owner as well as large property owners can wisely follow the example of the nation's leading Termitix. It is wise to employ Termitix service for lasting protection against termites. For additional information dial 2-1444 or call by the office of Southern Termitix company, 701 Raymond building.

CORNER CONVENTION AND THIRD

SOCIETY

A Morning Baby Party Is Given by Girl Scouts of Troop 60 at Platt Home

Small though it was, no party of the season has been arranged with greater attention to detail than that which the Girl Scouts of Troop 60 gave for a group of toddlers and slightly older children yesterday morning at 9:30 o'clock at the home of their leader, Mrs. George Platt, on Broussard street.

The troop has been studying child care as a summer project, has made innumerable appealing posters to illustrate the subject, and gave the party to climax the study. Only such games as tiny tots could enjoy, only refreshments suitable for them, were chosen. Orange juice and Graham crackers were served at midmorning.

Toys and books selected in advance by the Scouts amused the young guests who also were taken outdoors for play on swings, hobby horses, and a slide.

Each girl of the troop has since the study of children was undertaken last March, helped to care for some child as a part of the project. The troop members will all have earned the "child care badge" at its conclusion.

The guests, who were only half as many as the hostesses so that each guest would receive special attention, were: "Dinky" Durrett, Bonny Moles, Jacquelyn Champagne, Sandy Strickland, Billie Bryant, Maurine Powell, and Randy LeBlanc.

The adults present were Miss Courtney Bell, Mrs. Nolan Greely, and Mrs. Platt.

The scouts of Troop 60 present were: Patty Ruth Carroll, Patsy Catchings, Rachel Durrett, Lillian Faulk, Marion Claire Greely, Minnie Elaine Holsington, Helen Jackson, Toni Jolissaint, Mary Ella Moore, Patti Murphy, Ann Platt, Camay Swift, Miriam Schweiger, and Janet Walden.

Tea on Friday afternoon at the Woman's clubhouse had been arranged to honor Mrs. Martin Guernard, the former Phyllis Walden whose marriage was celebrated in late July. Her hostesses will be Mary Virginia Mitchell and Joan Buterbaugh. The tea hours are 4:30 to 6 o'clock.

Robert Taylor Is Visitor Here

LT. Robert Taylor, noted movie actor now serving with the U. S. Navy, thrilled a few local girls as well as a few men here Tuesday when he was seen having lunch at Eddie's Inn in Baton Rouge.

Robert K. Staples, who owns the Overpass Filling station just next door to Eddie's Inn, said that a group of girls came dashing into his station at lunch time Tuesday and "giggled all over the place" that Robert Taylor was having lunch next door.

Staples, who termed Robert Taylor as his favorite movie actor, said that he was really excited over seeing and meeting Taylor, and even made $5 because of it. The station operator told how he walked into Eddie's Inn, asked the actor if he really were Bob Taylor, and when he received an affirmative answer promptly asked for the star's autograph.

Staples then left the restaurant and told a friend, Russell Long, that Bob Taylor was across the street at the Inn. Long didn't believe him and even bet Staples $5 to 1 that he was mistaken. So back Staples tramped into the restaurant with Long in tow this time. Long then introduced himself to the celebrity and asked if "you are really Bob Taylor." Taylor said yes again and brought out an identification card to prove it.

Staples described the movie star as being "just like in the movies except wearing Navy khaki, of course." He said Taylor has the same mustache but this time his hair was cropped quite short. The actor told Staples that he was in town on business with four other Navy men.

Truman Drops New Bombshell Into Laps of Capital Newsmen

By Robert J. Manning

Washington, Aug. 8 (UP)—President Truman, already more proficient than the late Franklin D. Roosevelt in dropping bombshells into the laps of newsmen, let go with another one today.

He called about 35 hastily summoned reporters into his office. They gathered closely about the executive desk, pencils poised.

"I have a simple announcement to make," Mr. Truman said. His eyes sparkled, but his jaws were set.

"I can't hold a regular press conference today," he explained, "but this announcement is so important I thought I would call you in."

Then the president let fly: "Russia has declared war on Japan—that is all."

The reporters vaporized, but not quite like that atomic bomb steel which seconds the nation knew about the momentous decision that would send Soviet Russia's armed might against the already staggering Japanese.

It all started about 3:40 p. m. while the four or five newsmen regularly covering the White House sat in the pressroom. They were complaining about a meagre lunch and half-cooked eggs at a nearby chophouse.

Presidential Press Secretary Charles G. Ross stuck his graying head through the door and opined that the president would have an announcement to make at 3 o'clock. That gave the newsmen 15 minutes to call in reinforcements, and it gave them too little time to speculate about what was coming.

Their guesses ran the gamut—from the appointment of a Maine coast lobster port inspector to a Japanese surrender.

At 2:59, the signal was given and the reporters filed into the president's oval, picture-decked office.

The president sat confidently, almost cockily, fondling a big metal letter opener. "Howdy," he said each time a newsmen walked up to his desk.

Mr. Truman stood up, put the letter opener on his desk and made sure everyone who was coming had arrived.

Then he went into his historic bit of understatement. He dished out the "simple announcement" and pfooooo! His wide-eyed guests were gone.

Thundering into the pressroom, several yards of very slippery floor away, they grabbed for phones.

"Flash!" shouted the first to get his phone to mouth. "Flash," yelled another. It was like a series of echoes. Everybody yelled that exciting word that means something besides the weather is hot.

The pressroom quieted down. "If this guy doesn't stop dishing out hot news every time he breathes we'll be dead before V-J day," one yelled.

"Monday, the atomic bomb," another one said. "Today, Russia declares war on Japan."

"Tomorrow East Lynn."

Meanwhile the state department, which probably should have been in a diplomatic furor, was as quiet as a tomb. It seemed to be just another day there. In fact, it was so quiet that reporters descended on Press Chief Michael McDermott with demands to see the secretary of state.

They were still trying when this was written.

Social Security System Discussed

P. L. McGee, manager of the local Social Security board, bureau of old age and survivors' insurance, discussed the present-day Social Security system before the North Baton Rouge Lions club luncheon meeting yesterday.

Approximately 35 members of the organization were told by McGee that social insurance for financial protection against old age, death, and unemployment should be considered by people in this country as one of the outstanding steps taken by our democratic government.

He pointed out that no law can take the place of full employment and production within a nation, but that social security can supplement and help those who cannot enjoy normal benefits.

Social Security, he said, will prevent the ever-prevalent fear of old age and poverty, for a people, no matter how thrifty, must always have hope.

Three major programs of the system were described by McGee. They are the public assistance to needy people who are without income, which, incidentally, is administered solely by the state; old age retirement insurance; and unemployment insurance, which is also administered by the state.

Although the Social Security system may make changes in its administration in the years to come, McGee stated that he believes that as long as we have a democracy, the system will be one of the outstanding points of our government.

During the luncheon, held at Mike & Tony's restaurant, attendance prize was awarded to R. A. Holloway. Other guests were Fred Bankston, Fred Breitenmoser, J. W. Bradley, Edmund Spiller, and Coy A. Nelson. Carl Baldrige, president, presided.

Surviving are his wife, the former May Schenayder; two sons, Lt. Donald Garrot, with the U. S.

UNRRA Seeks More Funds From Member Nations

London, Aug. 8 (AP)—Told by Director General Herbert H. Lehman that unless it makes good this winter the "name of the United Nations will be a mockery in Europe," the UNRRA's council set to work tonight to exact an additional $1,516,906,150 from contributing member nations to finance 1946 operations.

The amount sought roughly would double the present pledge quotas of the 43 member nations.

Lehman, in an address accompanying a voluminous report on the program of operations, gravely told conference delegates that UNRRA's funds would be nearly exhausted at the end of 1945, when it expected to be in the midst of "one of the grimmest winters in history."

He warned the United Nations that they must make good quickly on their current pledges and dig down deep to meet next year's needs in Europe and the Far East.

The director general's report highlighted the second day of UNRRA's third international session. During the day Sir Ciria Shankar Bajpai, agent general for India in the United States, was elected chairman of the congress, and Denmark was admitted to full-fledged membership in the UNRRA council.

Nail Polish Doesn't Do Fabrics Any Good.

HIGHLY necessary on milady's dressing table, actually one of the staples among cosmetics, nail polish and its companion, polish remover, take a heavy toll of garments. Of the two, polish remover is perhaps the worst offender, for once it has made contact with fabric of cellulose acetate rayon there's nothing anybody can do to repair the damage.

SOME nail polishes themselves contain enough active ingredients to dissolve yarns and make it impossible to remove stain.

SO—a word of friendly advice. Be careful—very careful—not to let nail polish or polish remover touch your garments. Usually ordinary nail polish can be removed by your Dry Cleaner provided YOU DON'T USE ANYTHING ON IT FIRST. Usually efforts to remove polish stain result in making it permanent, and your Dry Cleaner is helpless to remedy the damage.

IF you have been so unfortunate as to get nail polish on a garment, send it to your Dry Cleaner as quickly as possible—AND TELL HIM the trouble. Then he can do his best. Otherwise he'll be working in the dark and you may lose a valuable garment.

IT'S always a good practice to tell your cleaner about the source of ALL stains. It helps him a lot to know what he's trying to eliminate.

Titan Hanover Wins Hambletonian in Straight Heats

Wonder Horse,
Bought for Song,
Takes in $27,608
No Bets Allowed
On Horse Who Has Never Been Beaten

Goshen, N. Y., Aug. 8 (UP)—Titan Hanover, which came up from harness racing's basement to become the wonder horse of the sport, ran away with a record field today to win the 26th annual running of the richest Hambletonian since 1932.

Having never known defeat, the bay three-year-old was barred from the betting, an unprecedented action for this Kentucky Derby of trotting, and he proved he wasn't over-rated by taking the classic in straight heats.

His victory netted his owners $27,608, more than nine times the amount E. Roland Harriman and Maj. Elbridge Gerry paid for him as a yearling in November, 1948. That cost of $3,000 had paid dividends before, for in his 10 previous starts he had picked up more than $30,000, finishing first eight times.

Titan Hanover ... with driver Pownall.

A crowd estimated at between 15,000 and 17,000 crowded this little kite-shaped track and cheered Titan on to his victories, but the spectators did not bet as much on the Hambletonian heats as they did on the other races, due to the barring of Titan Hanover. The total handle on the first heat was $26,568, although it went up to $35,448 in the second.

Unbeaten Air Rate Captures Richest Race in Mayflower

Boston, Aug. 8 (UP)—Unbeaten Air Rate captured the fourth and richest race of his brief career today when he galloped home a winner by four and a half lengths in the 11th running of the $35,000 Mayflower Stakes for 2-year-olds over the six-furlong route before 25,332 fans at Suffolk Downs.

Going to the post an odds-on favorite the Fred Wyse colt, out-fought Christian Stables' Joshua, who led virtually to the stretch, but was forced to accept second honors by a neck. Laboulave, a 30-1 shot, was third by a nose in a race with General Don.

Handily guided by jockey Harry Pratt, riding his first winner in a race whose value was more than $5,000, Air Rate clung to second place in the early route behind Joshua, who was out of the gate like a dark brown flash.

It was Joshua under the back stretch with Air Rate at his heels followed by Lady Gunner, the champion filly who was expected to furnish all the competition to the winner, but wound up an also ran.

Joshua fought to shake clear of the flying Air Rate, but the handsome chestnut colt refused to be left, and as they rounded the turn and came into the stretch Air Rate stepped into the lead.

From then on it was no race at all as Jockey Pratt set his bat to work. The gallant Air Rate stepped out in front and was going away at the finish line.

Value of the purse in the eight-horse race was $23,623, which brought Air Rate's lifetime winnings to $35,600. His last victory was in the $10,000 Miles Standish Handicap.

Ralph Lentini, the winning trainer, was winner of a $10,000 award as was Charlie Young, the breeder.

For each $2 bet in the pari-mutuels, Air Rate paid $2.50, $3.00, and $2.40 across the board. Joshua paid $10 to place and $6,200 to show, while Laboulave paid $7 show money.

The highest temperature ever recorded at a Texas weather station was 120 degrees at Seymour on August 12, 1936.

7-Up Blanks Best Oil to Win Business Keg Title

Bottlers Smash One-Time Jinx Team to Finish 3 Games Ahead

By W. I. Spencer

Scoring consistently to whitewash their one-time jinx team, Best Oil, the 7-Up Bottlers captured the summer season championship of the Business Men's Bowling league at Glynn's Lanes Tuesday. 7-Up finished three games in front of the challenging Pelican Provisions, who shut out White Kitchen to maintain their brilliant closing stretch drive.

As happened last week, all the Seven-Up bowlers came through with 500-plus series, paced by City Champ Mark Hobson's 568. Francis Kukačka, rolling his final match prior to leaving for a Wisconsin forestry job, had 544 and City Match Play Champ Roland St. Pe came in with 543. Red Evans fired a 514 and Jack Trotter, had 502 to round out Seven-Up's consistent efforts which produced scratch games of 892, 891 and 888 for a 2,671 total, easily high of the night. Sammy Vicaro led Best Oil with 538.

Pelican Provision, which had a scratch 2,540, needed only Seven-Up for top gross series by four pins with a 2,834. Pelicans got high gross game with 600. Louis Benedetto led Pelican with 532. Woody Laiffie had 528, Merideth Currey 613 and Roger Polier 499. Ervin Gabel and C. I. Dameron topped White Kitchen with 523 and 508, with Ralph White and F. J. Tiac just under 500.

In other matches Kirkland Jewellers defeated Terry's Men's Shop despite Percy Trotter's 574, which was high series of the night. Roscoe Van Anda, Charlie Duke and Harry Flanagan put the punch in Kirkland with 534, 525 and 520. Percy Trotter had high game 215, Dickshaft, 1b, 147 and 146, nosing out Hobson's 214 and Vicaro's 212. Community Service caught Cloud's Distributors with two men short and blanked the winter league champs 4-0. Joe Muffoletto had a consistent 170-171-169 for 510 for Cloud's, while Carl Mut turned in 498 for Community.

The league will open a 35-week winter season on Tuesday night next week at Glynn's Lanes. Play will be started at 7:30 and all current teams are expected to re-enter.

Chicago, Aug. 8 (AP)—Earl Caldwell, the Chicago White Sox under-the-lights pitching expert, scattered eight Washington hits over seven innings tonight, while his mates were hammering out 13 blows to win his fifth game of the year, 7-2, before 34,647 fans.

Tigers Stretch Lead To Full Game on Split

Detroit Divides With Bosox as Ferriss Loses, Greenberg Slugs

Detroit, Aug. 8 (AP)—Jamming across four runs in the twelfth inning of the second game to win 7 to 4, the Boston Red Sox gained an even break in a twin bill today with Detroit after the Tigers had taken the opener 8 to 2.

Dave (Boo) Ferriss fell victim of Detroit's 11-hit attack in the opener to lose his third game in his last four starts. It was his fifth defeat of the year against 18 wins.

Jim Wilson, 22-year-old Red Sox righthander, was knocked unconscious by Hank Greenberg's line drive in the second game and taken to Henry Ford hospital.
