Red Army Tactics Foiled by German Strategy

Convoy Bombed off Algerian Coast

From the Fuehrer's Headquarters, January 11th, 1944.

The German Supreme Command announces:-

The expected Soviet attack from the bridgehead to the north-east of Kertsch was launched yesterday. Fighting is still in progress. The German Air Force participated in the operations and destroyed two enemy landing boats. Coastal batteries of the German Navy set fire to Bolshevik troop encampments on the Taman Peninsula.

To the south-west of Dnjepropetrovsk several enemy divisions, supported by artillery and battle aircraft, attacked on a narrow front. In the course of hard fighting the Soviet thrusts were checked in counter-attacks. Fifty-five enemy tanks were destroyed in these operations.

To the north-west of Kirovograd the German troops frustrated repeated Soviet attacks and in counter-thrusts took several localities which had been lost.

While warding off several enemy attacks to the south-east of Pogrebishche two Soviet battalions were wiped out during fierce fighting. South-west of the town the German troops flung back advanced enemy battle groups in spite of tenacious resistance. In the course of this fighting 31 Soviet tanks and 19 guns were destroyed in the sector of one Infantry Division.

Weak Soviet attacks in the area west of Berdichev remained ineffective.

Fighting for Sarny went on also yesterday.

To the west of Rechitsa the German formations held their defensive positions, in the course of fierce engagements with superior enemy forces attacking on a broad front. Local break-throughs were sealed up.

In the area of Vitebsk renewed Soviet attempts at break-through were frustrated. Enemy troop concentrations were smashed by concentric German artillery fire.

In the operations in the area of Kirovograd the 3rd Brandenburg Tank Division, under the command of Major-General Bayerlein, especially distinguished itself.

The Vatican library is to be re-opened this week. It will, however, be only for the use of persons residing in the Vatican City and members of the accredited Diplomatic Corps.

The Firm of "Churchill and Co."

"Daily Herald's" Harsh Criticism

The organ of the Labour Party, "The Daily Herald," deplores in very harsh terms the indifference of the British Government regarding the plans of reconstruction which are put before them.

The very ancient firm of "Nearly, Cannot, Almost, Perhaps and Co." wish to be kindly remembered to its many clients, writes "The Daily Herald," its premises are opened for reaction, disillusion and temporisation.

The principal clients for these three goods are the leading landowners, households and so many others whose only interests are to dissipate the aspirations of the British populations towards modern towns and homes after the war.

The organ of the Labour Party fully expresses that it is in no way in favour of the British Government's views to realise the social measures so often announced with great publicity.

Recently, says the newspaper, one of the directors of the celebrated firm, Mr. W. S. Morrison, Minister was entrusted with rural and urban reconstruction and affirmed that the Government had "nearly" terminated the examination of one of the plans. Moreover, "the Manager," filled with

In Southern Italy there was fierce fighting also yesterday in the area to the west of Venafro. All enemy attacks broke down, or were smashed, partly in hand-to-hand fighting. A local break-through near Cervaro was sealed up. In the central and eastern sectors of the front no operations of note took place.

At dusk last night German torpedo aircraft attacked an enemy supply convoy off the Algerian coast and scored hits on five vessels, aggregating 32,000 gross registered tons. The sinking of an 8,000 ton transport was observed. The destruction of further ships is probable.

Yesterday at noon and last night British and North American bombers carried out terror raids against the town area of Sofia. According to reports so far to hand 13 enemy aircraft, including several four-engined bombers, were shot down by German and Bulgarian air defences. The destruction of a further nine enemy machines is probable.

Last night singly flying British nuisance raiders flew over Western and Northern Reich territory.

1,347 Priests Murdered in Air Raids

According to the "Congregazione del Santo Uffizio," the competent church authorities of the Vatican, 1,347 priests, monks and nuns were killed during Anglo-American air raids on Italian cities and villages between June, 1940, and September, 1943.

Two bishops, namely Monsignore Montalbetti, of Reggio Calabria, and Monsignore Bologna, of Campobasso, were among those who lost their lives. The number of Catholic priests who have been injured greatly exceeds that of the dead, and among them is Cardinal Lavitrano, the Archbishop of Naples. The archbishopric of Naples suffered the heaviest losses, for 381 priests were killed in British-American air attacks.

The total damage to the church property from Anglo-American air raids is estimated thus far at 10,000 million lire, according to a provisional estimate made by the technical specialists of the Vatican City.

To the destruction of numerous churches, monasteries and other ecclesiastic buildings by the Anglo-Americans must be added the loss of valuable art treasures which were taken by the British and Americans in Sicily and Southern Italy.

William Joyce Thinks:

Britain Doomed as Accomplice of Russia

Allies Break Faith with the Poles

"That Britain should become an accomplice of the Bolsheviks is one of the most unnatural events in history—a perversion which spells the end of her great Empire."

So concluded William Joyce in his broadcast to the world from Germany at 1.30 yesterday afternoon.

His subject was mainly in keeping with his emphatic pervocation.

He outlined, as usual, the latest phases of the war, but dwelt almost wholly on events on the Eastern Front, for, as he said, is commanded the attention of all. In comparison with the Eastern Front, events in Italy were dull and prosaic: to give details would be to advertise them with all the glamour that a small boy would do of a circus paying an annual visit to his provincial town!

The scheme of the Bolsheviks was quite apparent to all now. They were trying to break the German Front regardless of the sacrifice of men or resources. At an enormous cost the Red Army had made advances, and in Britain the people had been prone to be misled by this in thinking that the strength of the Red Army was inexhaustible. It was true that six months ago the Bolsheviks had great supplies and potential strength, but the tactics and strategy they had employed since gave the belief that Stalin realised that time was no longer on his side and so the policy he adopted was one of deploying the highest stakes. Thus a battle of unexampled fury was now raging, with Stalin trying to force a decision. But the fact remains that the German front was unbroken in spite of the frightful sacrifices made by the Red Army.

Meanwhile, continued Joyce, the Western democracies were playing a very shabby game. It was apparent that neither London nor Washington had the slightest urge to resist Bolshevism carrying its domination into and over Europe. In London the main pre-occupation seemed at this time to be to get rid of the obligations entered into with the Poles in 1939. The London newspapers were writing as if in a spirit of compromise, and it seemed at times that there must be communication between "Pravda" and these journals, and only signatures were still wanting to complete the enterprise! But on the other hand the "Observer" stated that the Kremlin described as just pure nonsense the story that they had offered a compromise to the Poles in London. So it seemed as if Eden was "flying a kite," which was shattered by huge artillery situated only a few feet from the ground!

It had been stated that the so-called Polish Prime Minister in London had intended to send a petition for protection to Roosevelt. The day before it was stated that if presented, the Poles would suffer the same rebuff.

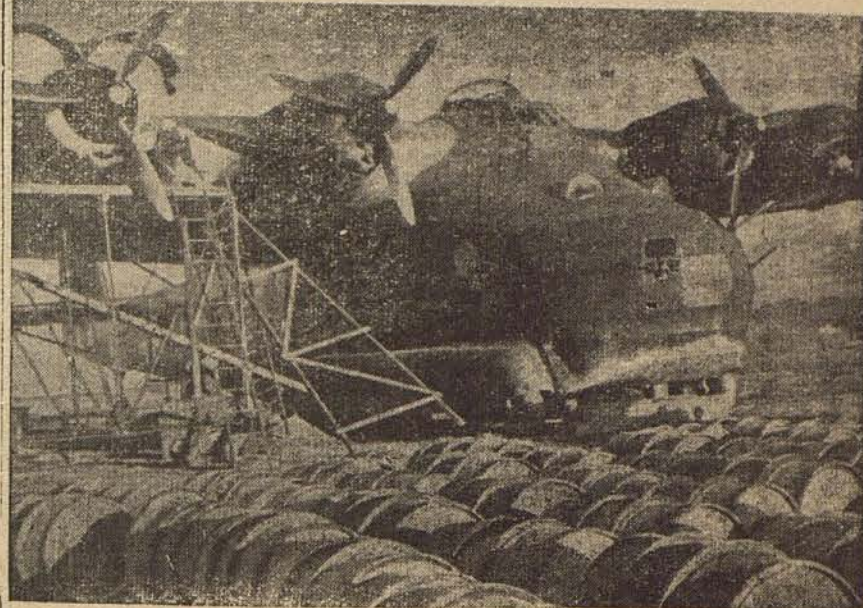

The "New York Times," observed Joyce, admitted that the Soviets were highly valued Allies of the United States, and it would be far better for the Poles to abstain from uttering any declaration which would embarrass them. "I don't recall either Britain or America using such language to the Poles in 1939," exclaimed Joyce pointedly.

Concluding, Joyce said that the various peoples might rightly feel alarmed that there did not seem the slightest intention of calling a halt to Soviet Russia. Smuts had predicted some six weeks ago that Russia would dominate Europe and part of Asia. After all, it was a paramount question whether Europe was to be transformed into a Bolshevik hell! "There is only one Force that can save this from happening—National Socialist Germany, and a good thing it does exist," said Joyce as he closed by his prediction of the end of England and her once great Empire.

The ME 323: A Flying Arsenal

After several months' trial in the many airports of the Luftwaffe, the "ME 323" has been successfully used on the East and Mediterranean war fronts. It is the largest plane which the

It has six engines cooled by compressed air; and ten large pneumatic landing wheels, allowing it to land on worst airports. It also can carry no less than six tons of material, and the arms on board are as numerous as on a large bomber. It carries a crew of 14.

Refuelling the ME323—the largest aeroplane in the world.

Luftwaffe has ever had at its disposal. The giant plane, "Messerschmidt 323," has a span of 55 metres, and is practically the largest in the world. It has a capacity of 100 cubic metres, and can carry 130 soldiers with full equipment, or 60 wounded; trucks and even a tank.

Ten similar machines would carry an entire battalion of paratroopers. The immense keelson of the ME 323 opens from the interior and anti-aircraft guns, trucks already loaded with materials, and even reconnaissance armoured cars, can easily be accommodated in it.

News and Comments From All Sources

The Head of the American Mobilising Department, Byrnes, said in a New Year speech that the New Year 1944 would be very critical and difficult for those on the fighting fronts as well as at home.

This year's tobacco harvest in Bulgaria is estimated to yield between 80 to 82 million kilos. This is about 30 million kilos more than last year.

"The people in Washington are completely mad when they imagine they are the only ones who can solve the world problem. It is a political farce and a dangerous one, and the world cannot judge it otherwise." N. J. Taylor, American author.

The typhus epidemic in Naples is very serious and as there is no medical help given by the Anglo-Americans, the death-rate is very high.

The Imperial Japanese High Command reports that the Japanese Air Force have in the month of December destroyed nearly 470 enemy planes on the fronts in China, Burma and New Guinea.

The Australian War Minister has given, according to the British News Service, the total Australian losses since the beginning of the war as 55,890 men, of this number 3,152 were officers. He explained that this figure included wounded, missing, killed—either at the front or through other causes—and those wounded who have died.

At the Spanish traditional Christmas celebration on Thursday the War Minister, General Aranco, presented a Marshall's baton and an address in the name of the three branches of the fighting services to General Franco. The address was a symbol of loyalty by the Spanish forces to their War Chief. The presentation was made in the presence of many officers of high rank.

WHEN MEN AND WOMEN KNITTED IN GUERNSEY

In the Report and Transactions for the year 1942, Major S. Carey Curtis, in his report of the Antiquarian Section of La Société Guernesiale, gives a fascinating peep into the conditions of industry in Guernsey and Jersey during the 17th Century.

Knitting was a main industry in each Island. A report of the Privy Council dated May 23, 1657, shows that there were 6,000 knitters in Jersey making 6,000 pairs of stockings weekly using 100 tons (tod=28lbs.) of uncombed wool, and that "this allowance was not sufficient for half their needs", so they petitioned for more.

It is noteworthy that the ration of wool was increased to 4,000 tons for Jersey; 2,600 tons for Guernsey, 400 tons for Alderney and 200 tons for Sark. This by Order-in-Council dated July 2 of that year. Sark's allowance, therefore, came to 2½ tons of wool—an allowance that would be halved with confused delight owing to its bounty could it be allocated to Guernsey to-day! It certainly points to the fact that Sark knitters were busy 256 years ago! And what about Guernsey, with its allowance in 1657 of 2,000 tons of wool, or in other words, 25 tons of combed and uncombed wool? As for Jersey knitters, their allowance that year was 4,000 tons—50 tons! And the 6,000 knitters were not satisfied even with this allowance for they petitioned the Mother Country for an increased ration of wool on the plea that this allowance was not sufficient for half their needs!

Well, these are days when we hear of young Guernsey men plying knitting needles during evening hours.

Really, they are only following a very old custom of their sex, for Major Curtis throws an interesting sidelight on the industry by quoting an Ordinance of the Royal Court passed on October 11, 1635. It is in the French of the period. Here it is, as we translate it, for the benefit of those who do not know French:—

"It is hereby ordered that all young men above 12 years of age who are engaged in knitting ('à faire de l'œuvre de laine avec les aiguilles') shall cease from this trade, and will employ themselves in other ways to earn their living, under penalty of a fine of 10 livres, half to the Crown and half to the informer, which fine shall be levied from the fathers and mothers or the masters who employ them."

Major Curtis adds: "The record gives no reason for this, and it would be interesting to discover it."

Then the writer comments on the revival of knitting at the present time—but there are not 1,000 tons of wool available, so the industry cannot flourish as it did in the Middle Ages.

We make but slight extracts from this most interesting publication of the Report and Transactions, and we advise interested readers to obtain a copy on loan, for they will find it full of very interesting information.

Pork for All

There will be pork for all as a meat ration this week. The ration will be one of 4oz., including bone.

Last year, it will be remembered, many enquiries were made respecting what became of the halves of pigs which were surrendered to the Essential Commodities Committee by persons who had fattened pigs and were allowed to retain the other half for salting for their own use.

The answer to that is that these supplies were duly issued to retailers as received. It was found, however, that a desired fair distribution was very difficult. So, in order to overcome this, the E.C.C. decided to conserve the 1943 stock in Cold Storage until sufficient was available for everyone to have a small ration. This is now available so distribution of pork from Cold Storage will take place this week-end.

RECITAL FOR LOVERS OF MUSIC

Lovers of music should make a point of attending a recital of unusual attraction to be given in The Little Theatre at 2.30 p.m. to-morrow and at 7 p.m. on Friday.

It is a select recital. Two grand pianos will be used, and the pianists, of local front rank, are Mrs. Mildred Bond and Miss Lillian Walker Clarke, who will play pianoforte duets, including Troisième Suite pour deux Pianos, Opus 33 (Arensky), Andante and Variations, Opus 46 (Schumann); Deuxième Suite pour deux Pianos, Opus 17 (Rachmaninoff); and Symphonische Variationen, Opus 14 (Kronke).

The vocalists will be Mrs. Enid Chilcott (soprano), and Mr. Martyn Dorey (tenor), who are each to favour with four songs. Mrs. Chilcott's numbers include "Softly awakes my heart" ("Samson and Delilah"), and Mr. Dorey's selection has that ever-welcome number "Hark, hark the lark!" (Schubert). Mrs. Winifred Dorey will accompany.

The recital commands attention, and it also deserves worthy financial support, for the proceeds are on behalf of the St. John Ambulance Brigade.

Press Pans

Bullet in Finger

A 15-year-old boy from the Jersey Home for Boys, George Masterman, has been admitted to the General Hospital with a bullet in his finger. It is surmised that he procured the cartridge and exploded it.

Jersey A.D.C.'s New Show

The Jersey Amateur Dramatic Club is to stage the Noel Coward comedy: "I'll leave it to you," at the Opera House on January 17 and for the week. It will be produced by Mr. R. E. Vardon.

Scholarship

Deima Joan Du Mont, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Du Mont, of "Pine Grove," Houmets Lane, Castel, has obtained a scholarship from the Castel School to the Intermediate School, overseas.

440 Outer Covers Supplied

We are glad to hear that 440 cyclists have been selected for permits to receive outer-covers for their cycles. These covers have been imported by the Essential Commodities Committee and made over to the Labour Department for distribution according to need shown by applicants.

The Sick Room

At the Emergency Hospital:—Mr. W. Frampton passed a fairly good night and was comfortable this morning. P. Sergt. Kimber's condition is satisfactory, following his operation yesterday. P. Sergt. C. Le Lièvre continues to make good progress toward recovery.

Florist's "Plane" Stolen

A well-known florist was the victim of an audacious day-light theft early this week, when one of a pair of model aeroplanes, used and displayed as an advertisement, was stolen. Needless to say, the owner has removed the other model.

Rev. A. Jackson Writes

The Rev. G. S. Dunk, Doyle-road, has received a message from the Rev. A. Jackson, a colleague, informing him of his new work in a prisoner-of-war camp in Germany. He has met three Guernsey young men there; also two Elim Crusaders all very interested in news from Guernsey.

Jersey Pianiste Injured

Miss Maud Glendewar, the well-known Jersey pianiste, recently sustained severe facial injuries in a cycling mishap. It is surmised that her machine struck a hole in the road and flung her off. She was reported to be quite comfortable at the General Hospital.

An Act of Charity

At this time, when everything is scarce, a generous gift is even more appreciated than in better days. Recently a working man had the misfortune to lose his bicycle. A few days after, a sympathetic lady, who had heard of the workman's loss, called on him and gave him a bicycle to replace the one he had lost.

Soccer Sidelines

Len Duquemin is making good progress, but will be unable to play in the Vauxbelets encounter with the Playboys to-morrow afternoon. This will be the first game he has missed for the V.O.B. since the Occupation. Bob de Garis was registered as a member of the Rovers at the recent S.F.A. meeting.

Birthday Greetings

We have pleasure in offering greetings to Mrs. John Gardner, Old Government House Hotel, whose birthday is to-day, and are glad to hear that she is keeping well. Mrs. Gardner is a brilliant pianiste, and in her earlier years was a well-known personality in the musical world of London, and a friend of Scotty Clark, whose compositions for the organ are so popular.

Jersey Embezzlement Case

Raymond Francis Girou, of St. John, has appeared before the Jersey Police Court to face charges of criminally embezzling and appropriating to his own use various sums of money totalling £950 0s. 6d., the property of his employer, Advocate Philip W. O. Briard; further with embezzling and appropriating to his own use the total of £254 16s. 5d., the property of the parish of Grouville. Advocate J. F. Le Cornu defended Girou, who was remanded in custody for a week for further enquiries to be made.

Camp S.O.S. for Chess Sets

Mr. Louis G. F. Arnold, late employee of Messrs. Boots, The Chemists, writing from the single men's camp at L—, in Germany, makes the following comment and appeal to Islanders through Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Warry, of 14, Commercial Arcade: "The chess season is in full swing now, and there are a great many new players. I'm hoping you might be able to make up some sets and boards for us." Anyone who can in any way help, especially chess enthusiasts, can do so by handing in their spare sets and boards at Mrs. Warry's Arcade shop, or to the Editor of the "Evening Press."

Police Court

THIS DAY.

Before Jurat Quartier Le Pelley, Magistrate.

SEVEN BASKET THIEVES FINED

Wilfred Gallienne, 50, a greenhouse hand, of Le Coudré, St. Peter's, was charged with stealing on January 11, 1943, from vineries at "Paisance," St. Peter's, about seven chip baskets, value 7s. 8d., the property of Messrs. Timmer, Ltd.

Inspector A. Lamy, outlining the case, stated in all cases the men were employed by Messrs. Timmer. Mr. Timmer suspected that some baskets were being stolen. Observation was kept and men were seen taking the baskets.

Mr. G. Timmer declared that a book of chip baskets was kept at Paisance for future use and had gradually been disappearing.

The Magistrate imposed a fine of 10s., or four days' imprisonment, plus the cost of the baskets, and the same fine, or alternative, was imposed on the following accused:—

Joseph Henry Carré, 45, a greenhouse hand, of Le Belial, St. Peter's; Alfred John Le Prevost, 20, a greenhouse hand, of "May Cottage," Rocquaine, St. Peter's; Ronald Raymond Le Prevost, 17, of the same address; Percy Gallienne, 24, a greenhouse hand, of Rocquaine, St. Peter's; Alfred De La Mare, 47, of Le Frie, Torveval; William John Jehan, 56, of "Hexston," St. Martin's, charged with stealing 14 chip baskets.

Local Soccer Spotlight

Although the Vale Recreation are now in a commanding position at the head of the First League, they are not shaping as champions.

On Thursday last, when they defeated the Centrals by three goals to nil, the forward line wasted scoring opportunities and the defence was very ragged. The Centrals' forwards, who, incidentally, have only one goal to their credit so far this season, often had the Vale defenders worried. Especially so, when having robbed Jeffreys, L. Smith struck the cross-bar. The custodian was unreliable throughout the game and reserve 'Steve' Le Maître, who is playing well, may be seen in the first team shortly.

The Vale Recreation reserve side dropped their first point on Saturday when in opposition to Torveval Rovers. The game was a good one, being remarkably fast and very even. Torveval took the lead early in the second half, when Broad deflected a free kick, well placed by H. Gallienne, into the net; but Houchard equalised shortly afterwards. A draw was a fair reflection of the play.

The Centrals—Vauxbelets fixture, played the same afternoon, was a triumph for the Town side's second string. They scored three times in each half, while their opponents' solitary success was registered from the penalty spot. Mellanby, from the left-wing position, was a constant danger to the V.O.B. goal. All the goals notched in the first period of play were the results of his efforts, and, after the interval, further successes were recorded from his centres. The forward line as a whole were an elusive combination, although at times guilty of attempting to walk the ball into the net. The Vauxbelets, as on previous occasions, started without a full side and not until ten minutes before the interval was the side completed. There certainly appears to be a lack of enthusiasm in this section of the "Old Boys" camp—a condition evident in the displays of the reserve side and which has gained for them the position at the foot of the table.

Jersey Football

A number of soccer enthusiasts have recently made enquiries concerning football in Jersey. For the benefit of these people, this brief resumé of the current league tables will, I hope, satisfy their curiosity. The first four teams in the Jersey First Division are: Beeches O.B. (played 6, points 9); Corinthians (played 7, points 8); St. Paul's (played 5, points 7); St. Clement's (played 7, points 7). First Tower are placed fifth (played 4, points 4); followed by Old Modernians (played 7, points 4). Casuals (played 6, points 3) complete the table.

In the Second Division: Old Modernians lead (played 5, points 10). St. Paul's are second (played 4, points 8), and the Corinthians (played 4, points 5) are third. Grouville follow (played 5, points 4), and St. Clement's (played 3, points 2); Casuals (played 4, points 1), and Beeches O.B. (played 5, points 0), are the remaining clubs in this league.

The Wanderers head the "Under 18" League (played 5, points 9), and are challenged by St. Paul's (played 5, points 7). Beeches O.B. are bottom having been defeated in their six fixtures. The "Under 16" League is contested by St. Paul's (played 5, points 7), Y.M.C.A. (played 6, points 7), and Beeches O.B. (played 7, points 4). On January 6, J. Berry (Casuals) scored his side's five goals, thereby allowing this club to record their first victory in the First Division.

Amherstians' Next —"Ghost for Sale"

I am to-day able to inform theatregoers that the next presentation by the Amherstian Players is to be the well-known comedy-thriller by Ronald Jeans, "Ghost for Sale", which is to be staged at the Lyric Theatre on Thursday, February 3rd.

This, their chosen vehicle, should well suit the capabilities of the Amherstian group, who have strengthened their cast by the introduction, in an important part, of that polished actress, Molly Hampton, making a welcome stage return after a long absence.

Production of "Ghost for Sale" is, as usual, in the hands of Eric Snelling, with competent Irene Rose as stage manager. The full cast is as below:—

Martin Tracey ... Reg. Warley
Pope ... Ted Boile
Eleanor Tracey ... Eileen Lander
Geoffrey Tracey ... Lionel Taylor
Sir Gilbert Tracey ... Eddie Mann
Fluff ... Eve Hamon
Jody ... Marion Miller
Pleasant Amberton ... Marguerite Carey
Marina ... Peggy Lander
Basil Pennycock ... Len Winterlood
Hermione Proudfoot ... Molly Hampton
M. Quail ...
M. Whiteside ... Frank Hubert
M. Wilberforce ... Peter Campbell

The thrilling and ghostly atmosphere of this play should draw appreciative audiences but I would warn playgoers that the play is not all ghosts.

The story is not without its humorous side, which is introduced via a radio commentator, a reporter, a lawyer, and a prospective house buyer; it, too, has its spot of romance.

"Ghost for Sale" was last produced in Guernsey by the G.A.D.O.C. at the end of December, 1939, at the Central Hall, production being by A. T. Hopkins. Mention of this prompts me to remind theatregoers that amongst the names in the G.A.D.O.C. cast were those of Leonard Pearson (who gave an outstanding performance), Captain Eric Chambers, Grace Torode, Peter Campbell, Gwen Pearson, Joan Lloyd, Mary Laine, F. W. Thomas, May Sherwill, Ivor Lloyd, Roger Richard, Chas. Mace, Freddie Clarke, Mark Bright.

FUNERAL

MR. JOHN B. MAHY

The funeral took place on Monday afternoon of Mr. John B. Mahy, of No. 5, Norman Terrace, Amherst.

The service was held at Brock-road Church. The Rev. S. E. Beaupré, M.A., officiated and Mr. A. P. Le Pelley presided at the organ.

The hymns sung were "Rock of Ages" and "O Love that wilt not let me go."

The mourners were Messrs. C. Mahy and H. Mahy (sons); Mr. L. A. Ross (son-in-law); and Mr. W. Halls. A representative gathering of relatives and friends attended.

The interment was at the Foulon Cemetery, and was private. The grave was lined with artificial grass.

Twenty beautiful floral tributes were sent by the following: "In loving memory of dear Father, from his loving wife, children and grand-children (overseas). Au-Revoir; Mr. and Mrs. W. Halls; Mr. P. F. Cherry and family; Mrs. Sparkes, sen., and Mr. R. Sparkes; Ansley and Doris Renouf; Harry and Edna; The Trustees of Victoria Road Methodist Church; Directors of Lovell and Co., Ltd.; The Badaire and Chapin families; Amy; R. G. Luxon; Mr. and Mrs. W. Collins, Vale-road; Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Le Pelley and Mr. and Mrs. D. Le Pelley (overseas); no name; Mrs. Ross and Ivy; Mr. and Mrs. C. Renouf and Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Tippet; Staff and Employees Guernsey Gas Light Co., Ltd.; Lillias and Basil Martel; The Employees of Lovell and Co., Ltd.; and Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Ellis.

The undertakers were Messrs. Lovell and Co., Ltd., Smith-street, whose Mr. W. D. M. Lovell personally supervised.

BEST VOICE-BLENDED QUARTET

A well-known concert promoter sends us his opinion of what he considers would form the best blended vocal quartet:—Miss Gertrude Duquemin (soprano), Miss Doreen Prieux or Miss Joan Robilliard (contralto), Mr. Denzil La Farge (tenor), and Mr. Jack Ogier (baritone). If bass required, either Mr. J. Upham or Mr. Collas.

This musician comments, very truly, that best blends of voices can be found as a rule in families of singers, and he gives as instances of this the singing of the three Misses Le Lacheur, sisters, who sing trios on occasion at Brock Road Church; also Mr. K. and Miss A. Falla, son and daughter of Mrs. A. Falla, herself a very fine singer, earlier known to us as Miss Dorothy West.

We have received a number of other selections from interested vocalists and concert goers; several of them ostensibly not meant to be taken seriously. The above selection, however, is one that merits attention.

Successful Lyric "Hits"

The best Lyric highlights of 1943, grouped under the heading of "Hits," were accorded a full house on Monday evening, the opening night.

Memories of such successful shows as "Bull and Bush," "Café Continental," "Village School" and others, are revived in a grand non-stop entertainment. Rounds of applause greeted each item but encores were not forthcoming.

To jog the memories of patrons, the following are a few of the good things in store for islanders who visit this theatre during this week and next.

Douglas Luckie's interpretation of "Old Man River," with the whole company as chorus; Gertie Duquemin's "Il Bacio" and "Break a Day"; Jessie Marriette and Douglas Luckie's dance "Blue Danube"; and the Smith Sisters' comedy number, "You can't play in my yard." Other Lyric stars also contribute to the show, but it is impossible to mention them all.

The Brache Sisters were unable to perform as Daphne was indisposed, but this charming artiste is expected to be well enough to take part during the remaining performances.

An illustrated second anniversary souvenir programme is on sale at the theatre. The holder of the lucky number programme will receive the "Lyric Cup," which is now on view in the "Press" window.

Farmers' Notes

SONDERFUEHRER RICHTER ON
CROPS AND MANURING

The following are extracts from a very interesting series of Agricultural Notes written by Sonderfuehrer Richter, and forwarded to us for publication by Mr. R. O. Falla, Agricultural Officer, Hirzel House:—

TO OBTAIN GOOD CROPS

The plants which should be selected for economic cultivation are those which, on the available soil and with the existing climate and high winds, will give the highest and safest yield.

In view of the insular situation, special consideration should be given to those food-stuffs and fodder for man and beast which are most difficult to import.

Among the numerous varieties of the same plants, the yields of which are usually widely different, one should choose those best suited to the nature of the soil and to the climate and with which the highest production may be obtained under the given conditions.

NATURE OF SOIL

The fertility of a soil mainly depends on its capacity to retain the necessary moisture, on its ventilation, its temperature and the nourishing substances it contains. On a moist, well ventilated, warm and rich soil, plants will always thrive; a badly ventilated soil ("three times well ploughed is as good as once manured," as the saying goes, and quite rightly too), a dry, cold soil with little nourishment in it, will only yield a poor harvest. This is why a loamy soil is more fertile than a sandy one, a soil rich in humus and lime more fertile than one lacking such matter. A damp and deep crust is richer than a dry and shallow one.

CROP ROTATION

Under otherwise equal conditions the harvest will be all the better for a favourable preliminary crop, in fact it depends on a correct crop rotation.

Crop rotation is governed by the following principles:—

Each crop must, as far as possible, be preceded by the most favourable preliminary crop.

First, green plants (roots, potatoes or vegetables), then wheat, then oats or barley. Foliage plants only are fully worth the spending of stable manure. Cereals will thereafter be grown as second and third crops. An intermediate growing of leguminous plants will also enhance the productivity of a field, mainly by increasing the natural nitrogen content of the soil which is also accompanied by an improvement of the soil crust.

When setting up your cultivation plan, consideration should be given to the fact that most plants will suffer from being grown too often on the same spot; the yield will fall notwithstanding any measures taken as regards manuring, sowing, etc. The most sensitive in this direction are wheat, peas, red clover, roots and vegetables; potatoes and rye are less affected.

Wherever possible, the intermediate crop should, to a large extent, take the form of clover and pods. This improves the fodder position; through the digestive organs of cattle this provides for more manure, by which, in turn, the field will benefit. Now in war-time it would be a waste of nourishing material if such intermediate crops were ploughed in without having been used previously as fodder. So let the intermediate crop pass through the stomach of the cattle; a double advantage invaluable in times such as ours.

The rotation of crops must also be so arranged that weeds may be destroyed during the cycle of operations. Here also attention should be paid to the fact that it is much more difficult and costly to keep a field free from weeds if the rotation of leaf crops and cereals is not correct.

One should also see to it that all necessary draught and handwork be correctly distributed from spring to autumn, so that it may be carried on smoothly with the means at one's disposal.

MANURING

The best results can only be obtained with proper and adequate manuring. The cost of manure is repaid many times over.

The high fertility of the islands may possibly be attributed to the use of seaweed as a fertiliser of great value. No one should shrink from spending time and labour in getting it, for it is fully worth the while.

CHILDREN'S ALLOWANCES

Mr. Ambrose C. Robin, Insurance Administrator, on the day the States met, and widened the scope for the payment of Children's Allowances, sent a letter to those Compulsory Contributors whose claims had been disallowed and to those whose awards were at reduced rates.

In an interview Mr. Robin expressed the hope of re-assessing all such cases before claims begin to be received from those who are to benefit under the new law.

No letter has been sent to Voluntary Contributors and uninsured persons, who will be invited to send claims as soon as the new Law of 1944 has been approved by the German Authorities. An advertisement will then appear in the newspapers, inviting such persons to send claims on a special form.
