GERMANY HAS MORE SUBMARINES THAN A YEAR AGO

Grave Shipping Crisis Cramps Britain's Efforts

Criticism of Mr. Churchill's second speech to Parliament after its reassembly—a review of the situation in India—was one of the features of Edward Roderick Deedshoe's broadcast from Bremen yesterday afternoon. At the outset, he observed that the news contained in the latest communiqué from the German Supreme Command marked further steady progress on the Eastern Front. In the area of Stalingrad, strongly-defended fortifications had been taken by the German forces supported by the Luftwaffe. All relief attacks made by strong Soviet forces were again repulsed, and 59 Soviet tanks were destroyed.

"The activity of the Luftwaffe," proceeded Mr. Deedshoe, "was marked by attacks on harbour installations and supply centres on the Archangel front. Aerodromes to the east of the Volga were also bombed. South-east of Novorossisk further heights were captured which were strongly fortified by numerous bunkers. The B.B.C. has not yet admitted the fall of this last Soviet naval base of importance in the Black Sea, but they have at last said that fighting was already in progress on the outskirts of the town. In a day or two, I suppose, we shall hear the full truth. Mr. Churchill, ably supported by men such as his son, Randolph Churchill, seems more intent in winning the battle of headlines rather than those in any actual theatre of war.

"Whilst German successes continue on the Eastern Front, news comes of a British offensive which may, indeed, invite sarcastic comment. They have launched an attack upon Madagascar, whose Governor-General the British Government hoped would yield to further pressure; but he has remained loyal to Vichy, no doubt influenced by the curious interpretation of the Atlantic Charter by the British authorities in India. These further military operations, although directed against a force fighting at a great disadvantage, must have an unfavourable reaction upon the British war effort, since it means a further dispersal of their forces.

"Mr. Churchill has announced that more reinforcements have been sent to India, and such movements mean dispersals, although, however, the shipping situation continues to be grave. In spite of Mr. Churchill's statement, British naval circles have been issuing warnings to the people of Britain against regarding shipping problems with optimism. Mr. Churchill had said that the outlook was secure so long as the rate of sinkings did not exceed the construction of new ships. The naval view, however, was confirmed by the 'Financial News' of September 7th, which admitted that shipping still remained the most vulnerable point, in spite of all reassuring statements to the contrary. There was, said the newspaper, still not enough shipping available to transport aircraft, tanks, guns, munitions and troops in sufficient numbers to all the various theatres of war, and particularly for the establishment of a second front. All the indications, concluded the 'Financial News,' pointed to the fact that the gap between losses and construction had still not been closed.

"This view was confirmed on Wednesday by Reuters' agency, which declared that Germany had more submarines at her disposal today than she had a year ago, and the spirit and morale of those submarines' crews would have to be broken by intensive attacks. So far, said Reuters, that stage had not yet been reached. There are, indeed, many anxieties besetting the British Government at this most critical stage of the war. One of these continues to be India, and Mr. Churchill's statement in the House of Commons on the situation there has failed to make any more satisfactory impression than his speech on the general war situation did two days previously.

"It is significant that he reserved India for a separate statement, which rather refutes his assertion that the situation is, on the whole, reassuring. If that really were the case, so adroit a propagandist as the Prime Minister would have included India in his general statement. Ambiguously enough, he admitted that large reinforcements of troops had arrived, and also said that volunteers in India itself had come forward in great numbers. If the latter were the case, and loyalty to the British cause was beyond any doubt, why then was such reinforcement of troops needed at all? Are they to be used to prevent further disorders? That is indeed most probable, as is indicated by the fact that Mr. Churchill admitted that a number of trained troops had to be moved about to quell disturbances. Mr. Amery even spoke of open rebellion when he stated that negotiations were impossible at the present stage.

"It is, of course, merely ridiculous for Mr. Churchill to assert that only 500 Indians have been killed recently over the entire sub-continent. The real number of victims will probably never become known. Mr. Churchill said that in the situation on the whole there was no cause for undue despondency or alarm, but let it be noted that he qualified his reassuring statement by the little word 'undue' and his well-known elastic term 'on the whole.' The position of the British Government in connection with India throws characteristic light on their action in Madagascar. I wonder whether this British attack on Madagascar will be regarded in Moscow as an adequate substitute for that second front which the Soviet newspapers continue to clamour for, even after Mr. Churchill's speech, which has entirely failed to satisfy the men of the Kremlin.

"It is interesting to note in the Soviet newspapers that the praise given by Churchill to Stalin is passed over with only very brief comment. Great stress, however, is laid by those newspapers upon the differences of opinion which Churchill was forced to admit existed between Stalin and himself concerning the amount of aid given by the United States and Great Britain to the Soviet Union. Evidently the Bolsheviks intend to be impressed only by deeds, and not by words."

The Armament Board

Reich Minister Speer, Dr. Todt's successor at the head of the Ministry for Arms and Ammunition, has set up an "Armament Board," a special council for wartime economy, to assist him in his comprehensive tasks, which is composed of eight outstanding personalities in Germany's heavy industry.

To this Board belong:

Geheimrat Bücher, one of the leading figures in the Allgemeine Elektrizitäts-Gesellschaft (commonly known as the A.E.G.), who is chairman of that Company's board of directors;

Philipp Kessler, manager of the Bergmann Elektrizitäts-Werks A.G., Germany's big electric concern;

Director General Pleiger, at the head of the "Hermann Göring" works, the big Government mining and smelting concern, who has made a name for himself at smelting ores poor in iron;

Director General Poensgen, chairman of the board of the Vereinigte Stahlwerke A.G. (United Steel Trust) and, accordingly, manager of the biggest steel trust in Europe;

Hermann Roebling, a man of international standing who as general manager of the Roebling Eisen- und Stahlwerke G.m.b.H. (iron and steel works), runs this family concern;

Director General Hellmuth Roehner, manager of the Rheinmetall-Borsig Armament concern;

Director General Albert Voegler, Dr. Ing. Dr. Phil., Dr. mont.h.c., who formerly managed the United Steel Trust and now presides over the boards of various leading German iron and coal concerns, in all of which he has an influential say, and is as well the President of the Kaiser-Wilhelm-Gesellschaft, the well-known German research institution.

Director General W. Zangen, manager of the Mannesmann-Röhren Werke, who as Leader of the Reich Economic Group Industry, has a great influence on Germany's industrial life.

All these men occupy numerous other positions in industry and commerce besides those indicated, and for years past, if not for decades, have shown themselves industrial leaders of considerable merit.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Channel Shipping Bombed

Patrol Boat Sunk

The R.A.F. on Thursday made incursions into Belgium and Northern France, but did not develop any attack. The British aircraft turned back westwards as soon as German fighters tried to intercept them.

While German light bombers were reconnoitring over Britain on Thursday they attacked shipping in the Channel, and sank a patrol-boat.

In the Rshew area of the Eastern Front, the Soviets on Thursday launched an attack which surpassed all previous attacks in intensity. Large infantry and tank formations advanced behind a steel screen of artillery, but all attacks were repulsed by the German troops, who inflicted heavy losses on their adversaries. A height which was temporarily lost by the Germans was regained, and a strongly-fortified village changed hands several times until remaining firmly in German possession in the end. All Soviet attempts to break through the German defensive positions were driven off with heavy losses in men and material, including the destruction of 67 tanks. On the Volga German patrols were very active and penetrated a strongly-fortified Soviet position, inflicting heavy losses on the enemy, who defended himself stubbornly to the last. German bombers dropped heavy and heaviest calibre bombs on numerous Soviet gun emplacements and supply lines, which were repeatedly attacked. The Russians lost heavily, and German fighters shot down six Soviet planes. Southwest of Kaluga the Soviets on Wednesday did not carry out any major attack, but there were local thrusts by infantry and tanks. Soviet working parties were effectively shelled. While German bombers and destroyer planes attacked military installations and objectives of military importance in the neighbourhood of supply harbours on the Bolsheviks on the Arctic Front, fighters within 48 hours shot down 42 Soviet planes. The supremacy of the Luftwaffe in this area is especially significant, since most of the Soviet planes are of British or American manufacture.

Boston radio stated on Thursday that it was obvious during the preceding hours that the Germans had approached nearer to Stalingrad. The B.B.C. stated that the threat to Stalingrad had not decreased, and there were no signs of the attack slowing up or stopping. The difficulties of the Russians in the Western Caucasus were said to have increased, and on the Stalingrad front the German advance continued.

Arsenal of German Education

This year the Reclam-Universal-Library at Leipzig, which one of Germany's Gauleiters rightly called an "arsenal of German education," is celebrating the 75th anniversary of its foundation. In November, 1867, Anton Philipp Reclam, a Leipzig publisher, together with his son Hans Hinrich Reclam, founded this penny edition, at first regarded with not a little disdain, with the object of providing good literature and education at little cost.

Each year some 100 volumes are published of these small, paper-bound booklets, which at first cost but 2 silver pence and are to be had now for 35 pfennigs (about 6d.). No. 7500, published in the jubilee year, will be Holderlin's "Empedokles." Today this penny edition comprises all German literature and the works of many other authors in German. At first its founder adhered strictly to standard works, but later on, encouraged by this success, included copyright and royalty publications, and extended his activities from the German classics, with which he had begun, to educational writings of all kinds. Publishers' figures for the German classics are almost inconceivable. Schiller's "Wilhelm Tell" leads with 5.3 million copies, then come Lessing's "Minna von Barnhelm" with 2.3 million, Goethe's "Faust" Part I. with 1.8 million and Part II. with 1.1 million copies. As in the Great War, the Reclam books have had widespread influence. Thousands of copies have been brought and are bringing diversion and entertainment to the men at the front, helping to spread that spirit which is so aptly expressed by one man on active service in a letter to the publishers which reads: "As long as Goethe's verses can still be heard above the din of exploding shells, we know on which side victory lies."

MORE FORTIFICATIONS OF STALINGRAD PIERCED

Soviets Lose 25 Boats in Bid to Cross Neva

From the Fuehrer's Headquarters, September 11, 1942.

The German Supreme Command announces:

The attacks launched by German and allied troops near Novorossisk and in the Rerek sector are progressing favourably despite heavy fighting.

In the area of Stalingrad fighting is being continued. The fortified positions south of the town were pierced after fierce fighting and the Volga has also been reached at this point. Relief attacks of the enemy were repelled.

German bomber forces carried out heavy attacks against the centre of enemy resistance and bombed Soviet troop deployments.

In the area of Rshew German thrusts were locally successful. Enemy counter attacks were repulsed with heavy losses to the Soviets, who also lost 22 tanks during these engagements.

South of Lake Ladoga and in the Leningrad area renewed enemy attacks collapsed.

During attempts to cross the Neva 25 Soviet boats were destroyed.

After occasional nuisance raids by day, units of the British Air Force last night attacked several localities in Western Germany. In residential quarters, especially in Duesseldorf, numerous fires were started and some damage caused to property. The civilian population suffered casualties. According to reports so far to hand, 61 of the attacking aircraft were shot down by German night-fighters and anti-aircraft artillery.

Over the Channel, the North Sea and the German Bight, German naval forces and naval artillery brought down another three British planes.

On the English south coast German light bombers severely damaged a British patrol boat which was left lying motionless after having received bomb hits.

In the course of an attack of British E-boats on a German convoy in the Channel German escort vessels damaged one of the enemy's boats so badly that its loss is probable. Further boats were damaged.

Last night a night-fighter Corps of the German Air Force scored its 1,000th air victory.

National Mourning in Eire Thomas Williams Executed

The recent execution of the 19-year-old Williams in Belfast has, as was expected, charged the already heavy atmosphere as well in Eire as in Ulster to its full capacity. In Eire a general day of mourning was ordered. In Dublin great excited crowds gathered in front of those business houses which had not complied with the orders re mourning, and smashed their windows. Traffic stopped between 11 and 12 o'clock, public buildings had set their flags at half-mast and masses were said in many churches.

In Belfast itself a great number of people gathered before the gaol and women knelt in prayer at the hour of the execution in the street, while tanks were rushing through the streets laden with police in order to maintain perfect discipline. Two persons were arrested and condemned in a quick trial to three months' gaol. They belonged to a crowd who stopped the traffic near the City Hall and yelled in the streets and sang songs. When the police went over to arrest the two men they were interfering with by the crowds, who were throwing bottles and other things out of the garbage cans. The people followed the police and tried to free the arrested men.

It is to be noted as of special interest that the American troops were ordered to stay in their barracks, in order to avoid unfortunate happenings. In addition the order was given that no American soldier was allowed alone in the streets, especially during black-out time.

The British News Service reports that the car of an U.S.A. officer was stoned recently in Belfast. Two U.S.A. soldiers who had lost their way in Belfast and had gone to the forbidden streets were insulted by the crowds of people protesting against the execution of Williams. They were yelled at: "Why don't you go home?" The demonstrating people were dispersed by the police after they had been making fun of the two American soldiers as British Allies.

The News Service continues to state that there was no explanation for the presence of the soldiers in these streets, because it had been forbidden to all American soldiers to enter the streets of Belfast for 48 hours, in order to avoid any clashes on account of the execution of Williams. The minister who was with Williams during his last hours said that he had been very calm and his last message had been: "I thank you all for your worthy efforts to save me. I resign myself to God's will if this shall happen for the glory of Eire."

Mass was said in the cathedral at Dublin for the executed Irishman, Thomas Joseph Williams. Public officials, members of the Dail and the Lord Mayor attended the mass. A huge crowd of people gathered in front of the cathedral while mass was said for Williams.

The Irish Execution Strikes and Riots

From Stockholm, the London correspondent of "Nya Dagligt Allehanda" reports that thousands of workmen laid down their work in Dublin recently as protest of the execution of the 19-year-old Irishman Williams. The correspondent continues that as a further reaction to the execution, the Irish population has come to clashes with the Ulster police. The garrisons of the U.S.A. regiments in Northern Ireland are going to be guarded with more precaution in order to prevent eventual Irish action. All the churches of Dublin have been overflowing with praying people. The longshoremen of Belfast have gone on strike. In Londonderry the female workers left their work in order to participate in the demonstrations.

Williams is supposed to have received a cable from his father, who is sergeant in the Irish Army, saying: "Brave to the end, my son. God bless you."

According to provisional figures the French exports in 1941 amounted to about 14 billion francs, compared with 31 billion in 1938. The import figures are 24 and 46 billion francs respectively.

The large French banks experienced an increase in deposits in 1941 amounting to 25%, and an increase of owners of current accounts amounting to 10%. This is double the number registered prior to the war.

As in 1941, France will also this year continue to extend credits and guarantees to agriculture and to all important industrial plants.

France intends to declare certain banknotes—mainly the 5,000 franc notes—invalid. This is in order to render hoarding ineffective.

Now that her farming has been mechanised, France has made a law for redistribution of all holdings. The total area to be redistributed amounts to more than 22 million acres.

ROYAL COURT

2 Years' Hard Labour for Vengeance Crimes

The trial began at the Royal Court this morning of a case in which a Guernseyman was accused of robbing his wife and mother-in-law and setting fire to other goods in the house where the two women were living, and into which he was said to have broken.

The Bailiff and eleven Bench of Jurats were present. The prosecution was conducted by the Attorney-General (Advocate A. J. Sherwill), and Advocate W. H. Langlois appeared for the defence.

In the full indictment, Conrad Joseph Bouwmeester, aged 35, of 3 Trinity Square, was charged with burglariously breaking and entering a dwelling-house known as "The Hill," Castel Hill, St. Andrew's, and stealing therein a vast quantity of clothing and effects, the property of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Mary Louise Le Page, and his wife, Mrs. Nora May Bouwmeester. The total value of the goods was £70.

It was further alleged that Bouwmeester maliciously, illegally, and with intent to cause harm, had, in a bedroom in the said house, set fire to a mattress and a quantity of clothing and other effects which he had heaped on to the mattress—the latter and part of the clothing and effects belonging to his wife, and the remainder to his mother-in-law.

PLEA CHANGED.

Advocate Langlois announced that Bouwmeester now withdrew his original plea of "not guilty" and pleaded guilty.

The Attorney-General put in a plan of the house where the robbery and the fire occurred. The man, he said, gained entry to bedrooms from a balcony, and the fire was started in the room in which Mrs. Bouwmeester slept. Mr. and Mrs. Bouwmeester were separated in March of this year.

On the day of the robbery, Bouwmeester was seen leaving the premises and soon afterwards the fire was noticed by a little girl. Mrs. Le Page—Bouwmeester's mother-in-law—was warned, and German soldiers assisted to put out the blaze.

On his way from the scene, the man dropped certain articles which were later found by the police. Other goods he took into a field, where he set them on fire.

When questioned by the police, Bouwmeester made a statement admitting the robbery and starting the fire. "I set it alight," he said, "to get my own back on my mother-in-law, and so that my wife should have nothing to lie on. All this trouble has arisen through my mother-in-law interfering with our married life."

A jeweller, added the Attorney-General, rang up the police to say Bouwmeester had sold two rings to him. He was paid £3 15s. for them. The property was recovered. Later Bouwmeester was searched by one of the prison warders, who found a wrist-watch belonging to his mother-in-law.

"The motive of all this," said the Attorney-General, "was vengeance of some kind. The sale of the jewellery was an afterthought."

A formal verdict of Guilty was returned.

PERSISTENT CRUELTY.

Acting-Inspector Lamy proved a number of previous convictions against Bouwmeester, including one of persistent cruelty to his wife. He had also been sentenced to 3 months by a German court.

The Attorney-General said whatever grievance the man might have against his wife and mother-in-law, that was no excuse for crime. "If the fire had taken greater hold and not been got in hand in time, it is probable that the whole of that house would have been burned to the ground," he added.

Bouwmeester's history, added the Attorney-General, showed some lack of balance, but, taking all the facts into consideration, he felt justice would be met by a sentence of 2 years' hard labour.

"MARRIED LIFE UNBEARABLE."

Advocate Langlois, pleading in mitigation of "a bad record," said he was married in August, 1941, and the marriage had not turned out a success. "This man," added counsel, "has a weakness, although I am insane."

It on Advocate Langlois' husband, and spent of her time with her to cook his own meals he could.

"Double of the lot," said was the interference of w. It made the marriage couple unbearable." home was sold up and Bouwmeester were separated on the grounds of his cruelty.

There had, added counsel, been provocation, extending over a period, and he asked for leniency.

Summing up, the Bailiff said the charges were very grave ones, and Bouwmeester had admitted them. "It was really a miracle," he observed, "that that house was not entirely destroyed. Bouwmeester may have wished to avenge himself on his wife and mother-in-law. His record is a bad one and he was only in his teens when he began to break the law."

The Bailiff made reference to "these crimes which were going on persistently all over the island," and said he did not think the sentence asked for by the Attorney-General was excessive.

BY THE UNANIMOUS DECISION OF THE COURT, BOUWMEESTER WAS SENTENCED TO 2 YEARS' HARD LABOUR.

LATEST BOXING NEWS

FULL BILL FOR MONDAY WEEK'S TOURNEY

In Thursday's issue of "The Star" I promised Guernsey's boxing enthusiasts full details of the programme for the Regal tourney to be held on the evening of Monday week. Well, here are the bouts: 1: N. Chippendale (Town) v. Nic. Guille (T.), (a novice contest); 2: L. Gauvain (Country) v. W. Langlois (St. Sampson's); 3: J. Le Pafourel (T.) v. F. Renouf (C.); 4: Tim Allen (Town—Bantamweight Champion) v. Don. Gallienne (C.—Flyweight titleholder); 5: R. Dawe (T.) v. J. Gauvain (C.); 6: J. Lanyon (T.) v. F. Rogers (C.).

7: Henri Frans (Belgium) v. Dick Periam (Guernsey), a professional bout of six 3-minute rounds; 8: M. Gartell (T.) v. R. Wallbridge (St. Sampson's); 9: S. Butler (T.) v. W. Batiste (C.); 10: Roy Smith (C.) v. R. J. Le Page (C.)—this latter bout is for the Lightweight Championship. Should time allow additional contests to the above will be started.

10 WELL-BALANCED BOUTS.

With the 10 matchings named we have a very promising bill and if the bouts go full length boxing fans will have little to quarrel with. The names of many of the island's popular fighters are conspicuous by their absence, but there are many reasons for this. I know for fact that harvesting has prevented some very promising country boys from appearing in this tourney, and amongst those I include young Norman Froome, winner of the Federation Road Walking Race and an able, all-round athlete, who is also showing great promise as a boxer. With other enthusiasts I keenly anticipate his ring-debut at a not-far-distant tourney.

RE "BLOCK-BOOKINGS."

Recently in these columns I have tried to elucidate some of the difficulties the G.A.B. Committee encounter relative to booking. Here is a typical example of the trouble emanating from their attempt to restrict to a minimum the number of seats allotted to those entitled to book prior to the opening of the plan. Henri Frans, not unnaturally wishes to have some of his own co-frie to support him in his bout, and insists on the reservation of a certain number of tickets for his compatriots who, because they are working, are unable to book for themselves. He must have these seats—or he will not fight! Therefore the G.A.B.C., in the interests of the island's boxing fraternity, have no option but to accede to his demands. Believe me, it is not all "beer and skittles" being a member of the G.A.B.C.!

I hear, too, that public "block bookers" who when they queue and eventually get to the Regal box office between 2.30 and 5.30 this afternoon are in for a disappointment if they want to book anything above a maximum of 12 seats per individual! I may be wrong, but I do believe the days when queuers could book 20, 30, 40 or 50 seats at a time, are gone for good!!

Oh, by the way, Monday week's tourney will give all fistic followers the opportunity of renewing acquaintance with popular Regal Cinema organist W. Kennedy Bott—he'll be at the console.

S.O.S. to Housewives

[To the Editor of "The Star."]

Sir,—In the present apple harvest can any housewife, with the acquired knowledge, kindly pass on the tip how to preserve cooking apples, under these war-time conditions, with little or no sugar?

It would be an appreciated and valued service.

Belmont Road,
September 11, 1942

No Sugar.

Playgoer.

"OUTWARD BOUND" PRODUCER

For the presentation of "Outward Bound" at the Central Hall during the week beginning October 19, Mr. Basil Meikerdid has secured the services of Mr. Anthony Arrol as producer.

Mr. Arrol, who has had considerable stage experience, particularly with Gilbert and Sullivan opera, will also take the part in the play of The Examiner, one of the most important roles.

CANDIE ATTRACTION

A new variety show, entitled "Candie Capers," and featuring Frank Martel with his accordion, Mildred Wilson, Maurice, Barrie Williams, Doreen Keyho, Loraine Corbin, Molly Finnigan, Bill Solway, Stella Farnham and Olive Heaume, and the Rhythms, is the attraction at Candie Gardens next Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

NO CHILDREN'S EXTRAS NEXT WEEK.

Retailers who approve forms and applicants who request aid from "The Star" Fund for their children should particularly note there is no issue of specific extras for the youngsters next week.

No applications for help will thus be entertained, except those from parents whose retailers are in the late delivery areas. In the latter cases grants will be made for the recent issues of extras.

Guernsey's No. 1 Comedian

Cyd Gardner's 100th Lyric Appearance

Tonight's Lyric Theatre audience will give Guernsey's No. 1 comedian—Cyd Gardner—an especially "big hand" and warm reception, for he will be making his 100th appearance on the stage of the island's home of variety at New Street.

I think I express the sentiments of literally thousands of variety patrons when I offer congratulations to Cyd Gardner on his fine feat and, while lauding his many qualities, would praise him as the artiste who, in recent months, has given us more hearty laughs and brought more cheer into our lives than any other individual. Ungrudgingly do all his fellow-artists admit this fact.

TRUE ARTISTRY.

The true artist in Cyd has evidenced itself time and time again with that rarest of rare gifts: spontaneous wit. It is all very well for the stage artiste to give you laughs when you feel like them, but how few people possess the quality that Cyd Gardner owns—that of cheering you and making you laugh when you are blue, down in the dumps, and feel like anything but laughter.

Eight months ago—to be precise, on January 12th of this year—variety enthusiasts witnessed the first appearance on the Lyric stage of "Our Cyd." We laughed with him and at his antics then, and we've been doing so ever since—more, we hope to do the same for many a day to come. We'll need all the laughs he can give us.

KING OF LAUGHTER.

Cyd's record of 100 appearances at the Lyric does not include his duties as "drummer-boy" with the popular quartet in the "pit"—he's put in some good work in this department, too. His century includes appearances in two of the Amherst Players' plays—"Tons of Money" and "It Pays to Advertise."

But his variety performances have proved the best metier for his talents, and the Lyric building has literally rocked with his mirth-provoking antics and wit that is as bubblingly funny as it is original. Think of many of the Lyric's biggest successes—"Old-Time Music Hall," "Crazy Gang" and "Variety Pie" (you'll not easily forget his epical portrayal of "Epoch"). These are only a few of the shows whose very mention conjures up memories of Cyd Gardner at his wittiest and best.

At the moment the perfect foil to Cyd's witticisms—Peter Campbell—who has a big share in Cyd's success, is ill at the Emergency Hospital. We hope he'll make a speedy recovery to join his compatriot Cyd in combining to give us more laughs.

EARLY DAYS.

While Fred Williams, Peter Campbell and others may claim to have brought out the best in Cyd Gardner and unstintingly shared his talents with the variety-loving public, I modestly close my tribute to Guernsey's No. 1 Comedian by claiming to be the first to have recognised the potentialities of this star way back in the peaceful days of 1935, when "Drummer Boy" Cyd was the shining light of the island's premier dance band—the Versatiles. He was grand in those days, but he has grown bigger, brighter and funnier since—and we of the entertainment world owe him a big debt of gratitude for all he has done to lighten our lives. More power to your elbow, Cyd!

St. Sampson's Harvest Festival

On the occasion of the harvest festival at St. Sampson's Methodist Church on Sunday evening at 6.30, there is to be a shortened service followed by a vocal recital.

The full choir will contribute an anthem, and two items are promised by a male voice chorus consisting of Messrs. M. Dorey, G. Symons, J. Duquemin, W. Mahy, J. A. Upham, T. Nicolle, A. V. Dorey and H. Collas.

Others taking part are Miss Florence Martel, Miss Ena Bisson, Miss S. Bisson, Mr. H. R. Williams, and Mr. Martyn Dorey. The organist will be Miss E. D. Upson, the address is to be given by the Rev. P. Romeril, and a collection will be made for the church funds.

ANOTHER FREAK 'SPUD'!

We (and probably you) have seen many freak potatoes, but farmer-grower Mr. James Le Page, of Hougue-du-Pommier, Castel, has "beaten the band" by bringing in to "The Star" Editorial Office the freakiest of freak "spuds" which weighs 2lb. 2oz. and has the appearance of a human bust of a somewhat prehistoric character.

Two Women Rescued from Drowning

THREE MEN SAVE LIVES AT VAZON

On Thursday afternoon two young Guernseywomen were rescued from drowning by the prompt action of Dr. B. S. Collings, Mr. Rex Priaux and Mr. Leonard Down.

The young women, Miss Clara Machon, of La Grève Farm, L'Ancrese, and Nurse Duquemin of the Emergency Hospital were bathing in Vazon Bay when they were taken out by the dangerous sea which runs in the centre. Miss Duquemin, unaware of the current soon found herself over her height. Nurse K. Webber, swimming also in the vicinity, soon realised Miss Duquemin's plight and immediately summoned assistance.

EFFECTIVE RESCUE.

Mr. Leonard Down, 29, a male nurse at the Emergency Hospital swam out in an attempt to rescue Miss Duquemin and, arriving at the spot, found her in an exhausted condition. With the assistance of Mr. Rex Priaux he eventually succeeded in bringing her safely to shore.

Meantime Dr. B. S. Collings had swam out from the shore and brought Miss Machon safely in. "The Star" commends the prompt action of Dr. Collings, Messrs. Down and Priaux for without their effective rescues both young women would undoubtedly have lost their lives.

We would here like to draw the attention of the public to the fact that part of the bay opposite the race-course is unsafe for bathing and anyone who gets involved in the currents there will find it hard to get out unless they are strong swimmers.

CRICKET

The G.L.C.C. gained a comfortable victory over the Casuals at the College Field on Thursday afternoon. Batting first, the Casuals were all out for 50, a total which their opponents passed for the loss of only two wickets.

Of the Casuals, only E. T. Bailey, who played a fine defensive innings of 28, could stand up to the G.L.C.C. attack. H. F. Rich, O. E. Hutton and C. Wood were all in fine form with the ball. Rich, in 19 overs, did particularly well to take six wickets for 30 runs. Hutton—who, like Rich, bowled eight maidens—captured three for eight in 12 overs. Wood took three for 20.

After winning the match, the G.L.C.C. went on to make 142 for three wickets. This was due mainly to A. E. Martin and M. C. Allen, who together made a stand of 95. Allen made 58 while Martin finally carried his bat for 49. Perhaps the most notable feature of the game was the fact that in one over by S. Guiton, Allen hit 20 runs, which included three sixes!

Island's Oldest Porter is 79 Tomorrow

"The Star" offers hearty congratulations to Mr. W. J. Wheaton, of "Grangeclaire," Capichers, who tomorrow celebrates his 79th birthday.

Mr. Wheaton is still hale and hearty, and goes out daily for short walks, but much of his time is spent in his garden, which he works entirely on his own. He has been married twice, his first wife being Alice Elizabeth Le Page, eldest daughter of James Le Page, of Les Cornus, St. Martin's, whom he married at St. John's Church in 1887. Then in 1901 he married Louise Kathleen Orson, who died in 1922. Mr. Wheaton has since resided with his son, Mr. W. J. Wheaton, jun.

Mr. Wheaton has been a licensed porter at the White Rock for over 55 years, and is now the oldest porter to hold a badge.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Substance" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read tomorrow in all Christian Science churches.

The following passages from the Bible, and from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures", by Mary Baker Eddy, are included in the Lesson:—"My thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your ways my ways, saith the Lord" (Isa. 55: 8). "Eternal things (verities) are God's thoughts as they exist in the spiritual realm of the real. Temporal things are the thoughts of mortals and are the unreal, being the opposite of the real or the spiritual and eternal" (page 337).

Funeral of Mrs. L. A. White

The funeral of Mrs. L. A. White, widow of Mr. Frederick White, of Nock Road, St. Sampson's, took place on Thursday afternoon. A service was held at the St. Sampson's Methodist Church, the Rev. P. Romeril officiating. Two of Mrs. White's favourite hymns were sung—"Jesus, Lover of My Soul" and "Now the Labourer's Task is O'er."

Miss E. D. Upson was at the organ and played requiem music before the service began. As the cortege left the church for private interment at the St. Sampson's Cemetery she played the Dead March in Saul.

Mourners were Mr. and Mrs. H. Neville (grandson and granddaughter), Mr. J. Falla (son-in-law), the Misses F. and L. Murley (nieces), and Mr. P. Warley (nephew).

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. F. Johns, Mr. and Mrs. W. Waters, Mr. J. West, Mr. T. Roffey, and a large number from the St. Sampson's Sisterhood.

THE WREATHS.

The list of floral tributes is as follows:—

"To the dearest and best of grandmothers, from her loving grandchildren Amy and Henry and all overseas"; "In loving memory of our dear mother, from all her children, Bill, George, Frank and Florrie, and families overseas"; "In loving memory of dear mother, from Jim and Mary"; Florrie and Lily; Mildred, Hilda, Percy and Reggie; Jean and Gwen Falla (great-grandchildren), also Winnie and Francis; T. Roffey; The St. Sampson's Sisterhood; Mr. and Mrs. Hamon (Calais); Mrs. R. Johns, Mrs. H. Withers and Mrs. S. Johns; "To dear Gran, from all At Home Friends"; Mrs. Burnard; Mr. and Mrs. Waters; Mr. and Mrs. J. West; Neighbours, Roland Road and Nock Road; Little Mrs. Pattimore and Hobby; Eileen and Jean (opposite); Mr. and Mrs. Wilkins, Henry (overseas); Georgie, Una and family; Kath and Clint.

The funeral arrangements were carried out by Mr. John Parsons, of Swansea Villa, Vale, who personally supervised.
