IT'S OFFICIAL: JAPS GIVE UP

EXTRA

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14 (U.P.).—President Truman announced tonight that the Japanese Government has accepted the surrender terms without qualification.

He made the announcement at a press conference at 7 P. M. He read a statement which said:

"I have received this afternoon a message from the Japanese Government in reply to the message forwarded to that Government on Aug. 11. I deem this reply a full acceptance of the Potsdam declaration which specifies the unconditional surrender of Japan. In the reply there is no qualification.

"Arrangements are now being made for the formal signing of surrender terms at the earliest possible moment.

"Gen. Douglas MacArthur has been appointed the supreme Allied commander to receive the Japanese surrender.

"Meantime, the Allied armed forces have been ordered to suspend offensive action. The proclamation of V-J Day must wait upon the formal signing of the surrender terms by Japan."

Reds Drive 93 Mi. Over Manchuria

London, Aug. 14 (P).—Russian armored forces burst 93 miles unchecked across western Manchuria today, wrecking key Japanese communications and threatening to split 1,500,000 Japanese troops on the Asiatic mainland, the Soviet command said tonight.

There was no let-up in the fury of the Russian punch in Manchuria. The Red army, with lightning blows, was tearing up Japanese lines at points along a vast 2,300-mile front, needless of peace talk. The Khabarovsk radio exhorted Red army men to increase their attacks and mercilessly break the enemy's resistance.

Moscow, confirming reports previously broadcast by Tokyo, announced a seaborne invasion of Korea. Russian naval forces and marines captured the Japanese port of Seichin, the Soviet communication said.

8,000 Captives Counted.

Moscow also said 8,000 Japanese prisoners had been captured in the five first days of the Russo-Japanese war which began Aug. 9.

The Russians also announced they had invaded Karafuto, Japanese-occupied southern half of Sakhalin Island, which lies only 26 miles north of the Japanese homeland. Besides landings on the west coast, they smashed nine to 12 miles over frontier defenses, Moscow declared.

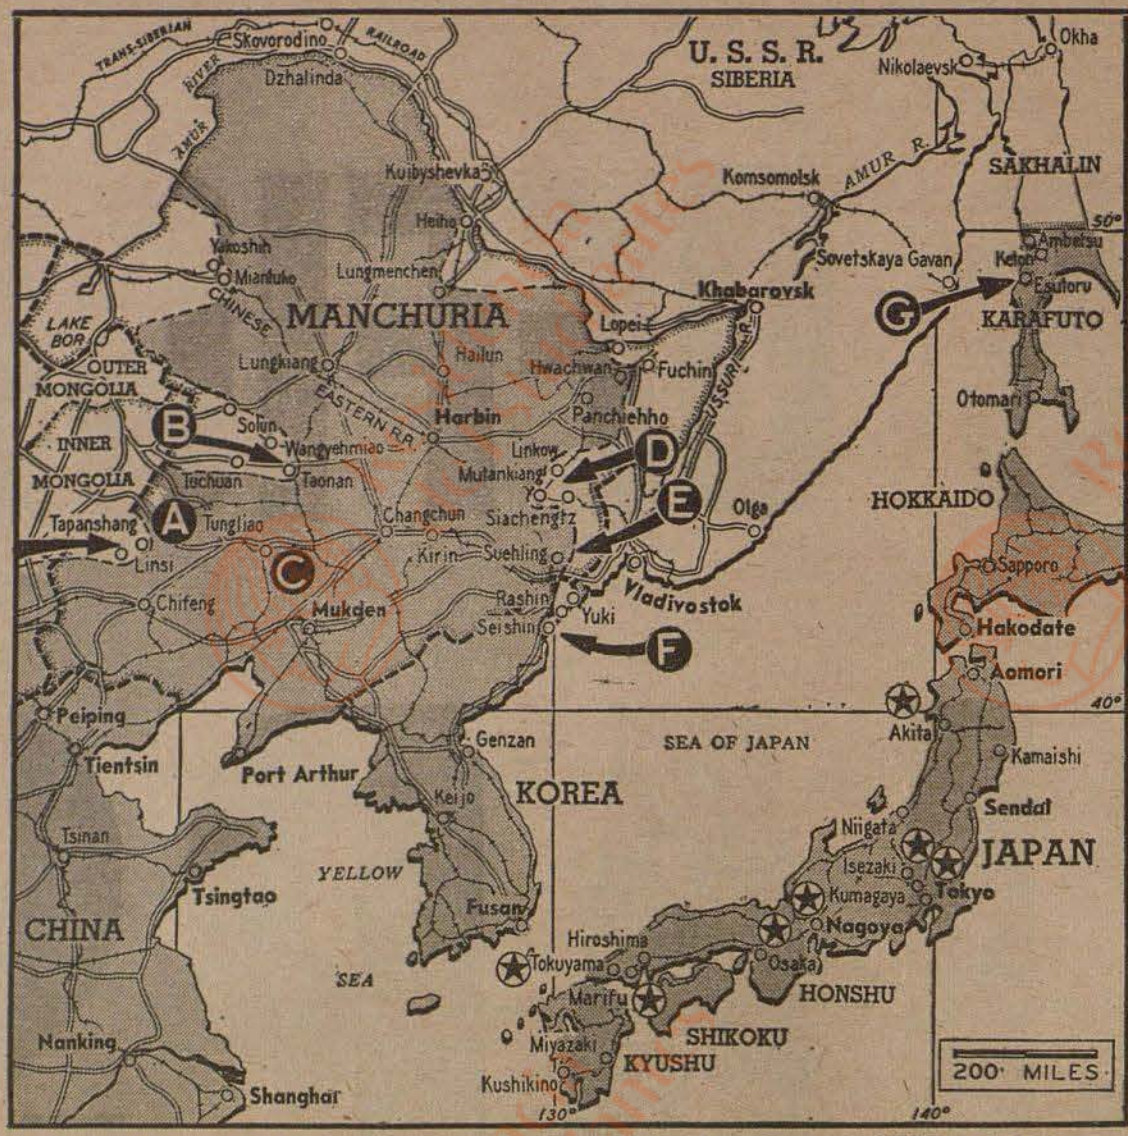

The Soviets rushed toward Harbin from the west and east. On the east, they captured the key rail junction of Mutankiang, after forcing the Mutankiang River and capturing four other towns. This blow, which carried the Soviets to a point 165 miles east of Harbin, was made by Marshal Kirill A. Meretskov's 1st Far Eastern Army.

Rail Line Cut.

On the west, the mighty Trans-Baikal Army severed the vital 950-mile-long railroad linking Dairien with extreme Manchuria by capturing the key rail town of Taonan, 185 miles west of the war production city of Harbin. Taonan was taken in a 60-mile advance.

Gaining speed as they hit flat country after breaking across the great Khingan Mountain range, the Russians advanced up to 93 miles on a 160-mile front in southwestern Manchuria and, among other towns, captured Linsi in the former Chinese Province of Jehol.

Superforts Hammer Honshu

Russians report capture of Linsi and Tapanshang (A), Taonan and Tuchuan (B); Japs say Reds reached Tungliao area (C). Mutankiang (D) fell to Russians, and Japs report bitter fighting near Suehling (E). Soviets landed at Seishin (F) and smashed deep through Jap defenses on Karafuto (G). Almost 1,000 Superforts and fighters bombed and strafed seven Jap home island targets (starred).

Guam, Wednesday, Aug. 15 (U.P.).—Almost 400 B-29 Superfortresses, attacking 12 hours after Japan had broadcast that its capitulation message was en route to the Allies, rocked three targets on Honshu today in an assault designed to shatter any Jap hopes of stalling off unconditional surrender.

Following quickly upon another 400-plane fleet which struck at mid-day yesterday almost at the same time the Tokyo radio was sending its surrender "flash," the night raiders raised to more than 6,000 tons the weight of fire and explosive bombs heaped on Japan in 14 hours.

Grounded for a Time.

The assaults broke a four-day lull in Superfortress attacks on Japan. Gen. Carl A. Spaatz' 20th Air Force had grounded its aerial battleships after Tokyo broadcast its first peace offer last Friday.

It was emphasized, the B-29s will keep striking on schedule until Japan yields.

Targets battered by fire and explosive bombs this morning were: The Nippon Oil Co. in the "death list" city of Akita, on the northwest coast of Honshu 290 miles north of Tokyo; and industrial areas in the "shadow factory" cities of Kumagaya, 43 miles northwest of Tokyo, and Isezaki, 55 miles northwest of Tokyo.

Since issuing their first of three warnings on July 28, the Superfortress men now have hit 17 of 31 Jap cities marked for destruction.

1,000 Planes in Day.

Gen. Spaatz announced that more than 1,000 of his planes were over Japan in the past 24 hours. They included more than 200 Iwo-based fighter planes which escorted the Osaka daylight raiders and also hit airfields in the Nagoya area yesterday afternoon.

The 20th Bomber Command announced that all its men had been ordered to put their "maximum effort" into the six attacks, which marked the opening of a 10-week campaign to reduce Japan's war factories to ashes if Nippon does not give up.

Nurses' Aids Needed

The need for nurses' aids in city hospitals will continue for the next six months or a year, Hospital Commissioner Edward M. Bernecker said yesterday. He said that there are less than 3,000 professional nurses presently on duty, compared with the 6,200 which are needed.

Jury Gets Petain Case

Paris, Aug. 14 (U.P.).—The fate of Henri Philippe Petain was handed over to 24 of his countrymen tonight after the trembling old marshal in a dramatic last statement told the judges and jurors, "My life is in your hands, but my honor you cannot take away from me."

The treason trial of Marshal Petain went to the jury at 8:55 P. M. (3:55 New York time) after 20 days of testimony and summations.

The 89-year-old former head of the Vichy government tottered to his feet in the darkened courtroom when defense attorney Fernand Payen finished his summation, and said: "Do with me what your consciences dictate. My conscience reproaches me with nothing, for in an already long life and standing on the brink of the grave, I never had any other ambition than to serve France."

The jury may find Petain innocent, permitting him to live out the few remaining years of his life in peace; find him guilty but recommend clemency, which probably would mean imprisonment, or decide that his guilt calls for the ultimate punishment—death by firing squad or guillotine.

If the verdict of the jury is guilty and the sentence of the court is death, Petain will be the 12th marshal of France to die at the hands of his own government.

Pearl Harbor Hearings Demanded Immediately

By THURSTON PORTER
of THE NEWS BUREAU

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14.—Demands for immediate open hearings to establish the guilt or innocence of Rear Admiral Husband E. Kimmel and Major Gen. Walter C. Short, Pearl Harbor commanders at the time of the Jap sneak attack, will be made as soon as Congress reconvenes, probably next month.

Senator Homer Ferguson (R-Mich.), and Representative Dewey Short (R-Mo.) will lead the fight in both houses to bring out all the facts in open hearings.

Senator Ferguson said today this entire question should have been cleared up right after the report was received from the Roberts investigating commission holding Kimmel and Short to blame for the success of the Jap assault in Hawaii.

"Military secrecy should not have delayed it a day," declared Ferguson, who was contacted in Detroit. "This is a republic we are living in, and it is not right, in our open government, for anybody to hide behind the cloak of military necessity."

"But now, with the war practically over, they can't start too soon for me.

Representative Short thinks it only right that the military have "a few days" to get settled after actual fighting against Japan stops, but believes "the trial should follow quickly thereafter."

"I want Kimmel and Short freed of guilt if the evidence shows them to be innocent, or punished if they are guilty. This goes for any other person whose guilt is shown," he said.

White House Has Jap Answer

By Jack Doherty and Ted Lewis

of THE NEWS Bureau

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14.—The long delayed Jap reply to the final surrender terms reached Washington tonight and was delivered to Secretary of State Byrnes. Byrnes immediately left his office, delivering the note to President Truman at the White House at 6:15 P. M.

Official announcement of the note's contents—reported from Switzerland as accepting our total-surrender terms—was held up by President Truman so that there might be simultaneous release in the capitals of the other great powers.

Byrnes left the State Department suddenly by automobile at 4:20 P. M., at which time he had received a fill-in by transatlantic telephone of the note's contents from our minister to Switzerland Leland Harrison.

It later developed that Byrnes had gone to the worldwide communications center at the Penta-

Here is an hour-by-hour account of peace developments from the moment Tokyo radio announced Japan had accepted Allied surrender terms early Tuesday morning. All times are New York time:

1:50 A. M.—Tokyo radio flashed: "The text of an imperial message accepting the Potsdam proclamations will be forthcoming soon."

8:50 A. M.—President Truman reached his office and conferred with Secretary of State Byrnes.

9:50 A. M.—Press Secretary Charles Ross told reporters at the White House the Jap reply to the Allied note "is now in the hands of the Swiss... It looks as if we're at last nearing the end of our long vigil."

10:27 A. M.—Domei Jap news agency broadcast that "the imperial decision was granted" and that weeping people has assembled before the Emperor's palace.

11:15 A. M.—Swiss Legation in Washington told newsmen that it had not received word from Bern to indicate any Jap note was in Swiss hands.

Peace—It's Wonderfully Noisy!

By NEAL PATTERSON

Peace-hungry New York sizzled yesterday like a champagne bottle with the cork not quite drawn. We had victory over Japan shortly before 2 A. M.—or so we thought. Hours passed, and we weren't so sure. It was a day of excitement, premature, but determined celebration—and also of prayer and anxiety for many—as the city eagerly awaited official news of Nippon's surrender.

In Times Square, as the bright lights took over from Old Sol, a merry, steadily increasing throng of guys and gals crowded the pavements, blowing horns and swinging noisemakers. There were soldiers and sailors—many of them with faces smeared with lipstick—and there were platoons of bobby-soxers adding a little more to the paint jobs of every military man they met.

News Must Be on Way.

There were war workers and plain citizens by the thousands. All day they had stuck to the job, one ear tuned to the radio in the boss' office. Now—confident that the big news must be on the way—they had come to Times Square to do their bit in helping the city's bottled emotions to pop.

During most of the day a crowd of 100,000 to 200,000 had kept the ball rolling in Times Square, while there were many spontaneous local demonstrations elsewhere.

A storm of paper had fluttered down from office buildings; the famous papier mache dragon of Chinatown had paraded through

United Armada Prowls Off Japan

Guam, Aug. 14 (AP).—The American 3d Fleet and the British Pacific Fleet, working together as history's greatest sea force, prowled off Japan today waiting for the Mikado to make good on the Tokyo radio's broadcast promise that the Emperor's word of surrender would be "forthcoming soon."

Admiral Nimitz' headquarters here gave no immediate hint of the part which the fleets, under Admiral Halsey's command, would play when Japan officially says, "We're had enough," but the armada was the Allied force nearest Tokyo.

Airfields Blitzed.

American and British carrier planes ripped up airfields in the Tokyo area yesterday. The flat-tops were operating less than 200 miles off the Nipponese coast, said Associated Press correspondent Richard K. O'Malley, with the fleet.

Halsey told newspapermen Sunday his force would have a "pretty definite job" when the Japanese surrender. Read Admiral Robert B. Carney, Halsey's chief of staff, indicated that plans for the fleet's part to be played when Japan capitulated had been under preparation since July.

the past few months to seal off Nipponese harbors.

Since Admiral Halsey's fleet was reported so close to Japan, the assumption here was that Halsey, who once said his great ambition was to ride Emperor Hirohito's white horse down Tokyo's main street, was ready to fulfill orders to enter Tokyo Bay.

Nearest American ground forces to Japan are the 10th Army and other units on Okinawa, 325 miles south of Nippon's southernmost Island of Kyushu.

Godivas Frolic for GIs

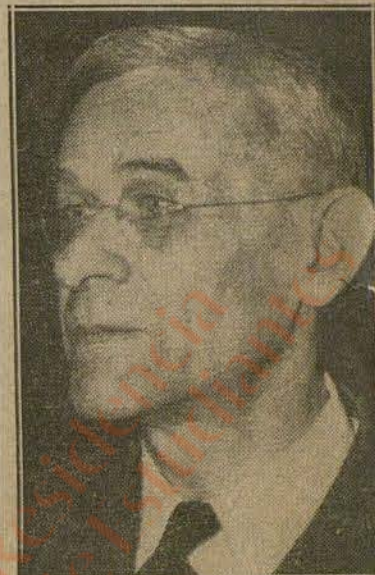

San Francisco, Aug. 14 (U.P.).—At the height of San Francisco's celebration of the approaching end of the war, two nude beauties late last night stopped a taxi near the Civic Center service man's dormitory, stepped out—a bit untidily—and plunged into the Center's lily pond.

Service men tumbled from their bunks and lined the pond, applauding the cavorting nudes. When the girls emerged, some of the men offered towels which were gratefully accepted.

The nocturnal Godivas then entered the taxi and were seen no more.

2 GIs Hanged For Killing, Rape

Marysville, Calif., Aug. 14 (AP).—Two Army privates were hanged at Camp Beale today—the first death penalties, it was believed, to be inflicted by the Army in California. They were Pvt. Clinton Stevenson, 30, of Vallejo, Calif., found guilty of knifing another soldier to death, and Pvt. Herbert W. Reid, 21, of Philadelphia, convicted of rape.

gon to contact the Kremlin, 10 Downing St., and the Chungking residence of Chiang Kai-shek.

"I won't be back for awhile," Byrnes said tersely as he drove away. Only a short time previously he had left the White House after his third conference of the day with Truman.

The Jap note, the Swiss radio said, was cabled from Bern to the Swiss Ministry in Washington at 9:05 P. M. Swiss time (3:05 P. M., New York time). It was obtained by Harrison at the Swiss Foreign Office only a few minutes after it was deposited there by the Japanese Minister.

Terms Drastic.

Late today Max Grassli, Swiss charge d'affaires, left the Swiss legation to motor to the State Department. He declined to comment when asked if he had the Jap reply. The state Department had asked him not to give out any information, he explained.

By accepting our final surrender terms Japan pays to the utmost for her Pearl Harbor sneak attack and her wanton cruelty to American prisoners. She is stripped of all her empire, her Emperor becomes a puppet under the thumb of an American Allied supreme commander, her fleet remnants, her armies capitulate and she faces occupation under Allied troops for years to come.

The climactic hours of the peace negotiations in this capital came after a hectic day during which hopes swung first high then low—until late in the afternoon authentic word came from Switzerland that the Japs had finally answered

FBI Nabs Wife to 4 In Services

Mrs. Margaret Mary Whalen Buckley, Yonkers waitress and mother of two children, showed no partiality among the services in marrying four men since 1939 without bothering to divorce any of them.

One is a Navy seaman, another is in the merchant marine and two are soldiers, according to E. E. Conroy, agent in charge of the local FBI office. He arrested the 27-year-old woman yesterday on a charge of fraudulently receiving service men's dependency allowance checks.

The Marriage Record.

According to the FBI, Mrs. Buckley married Charles H. Buckley, now in the Navy in the South Pacific, in 1939, and they split up temporarily in 1942. During this period of domestic misunderstanding, she married Edward A. Connolly, an Army private, in Great Neck, L. I. He was transferred soon after and is now stationed in the South Pacific.

In July, 1944, she was said to have met Albert Ferraro, a merchant seaman, and married him a week later in Elkton, Md. Eight days later she went to Fort Bragg, N. C., and married Pvt. Clifford J. Kaiser, Conroy said.

Collected $150 Monthly.

From May through December, it was charged, she received monthly allotment checks of $100 as the wife of Buckley and monthly checks for $50 as the wife of Connolly.

It was the Fort Bragg marriage that tripped her, said Conroy. Pvt. Kaiser became suspicious after finding correspondence from the three other men in his wife's possession and held up his own application for dependency allowance.

Arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Garret W. Cotter, Mrs. Buckley was held in $1,000 bail pending investigation.

Jap-Chasers Near Toungoo

Calcutta, Aug. 14 (U.P.).—British Indian troops, pursuing retreating Japanese along the west-east highway in lower Burma, have reached a point 36 miles east of Toungoo, Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten announced today.

Fighting raged sporadically up and down the banks of the lower Sittang River, the communication said. Spitfires closely supported British ground action, shooting up enemy gun positions and troop concentrations.

In the Penwagon area, 114 rail miles northeast of Rangoon, British forces pushed through enemy-infested jungles and killed or wounded stubbornly resisting Japanese trapped along the Sittang.

Keitel to Pass Atrocity Buck

Frankfurt, Aug. 14 (U.P.).—Field Marshal Gen. Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the German General Staff, will base his defense at the coming war criminal trial on the argument that he had nothing to do with concentration camps and atrocities but was simply a soldier following his profession, it was learned today.

A Czechoslovak liaison officer said Keitel claimed he knew nothing of the Nazi murder camps until he was taken prisoner by the Allies. He said he never made the decisions anyway—that Hitler alone was responsible.

Matson Surrenders, Calls Wife Too Dear

The in-and-of-court squabbles of the battling Matisons were apparently ended yesterday when 66-year-old Isadore Matison, millionaire hosiery firm executive, said "enuf" in

Sallie Matison

Supreme Court. The long litigation between the manufacturer and his 42-year-old wife, Sallie, resulted in Justice Samuel Null awarding her $150 weekly temporary alimony and $1,500 counsel fees in her separation suit.

Isadore, who explained that he was in poor health and sick of the whole business, didn't contest the action for a separation decree but did file an affidavit in opposition to her petition for $350 weekly alimony.

Began with Lockout.

The Matisons have been warring since last March 3, when Mrs. Matison charged her husband with locking her out of their 16-room terrace apartment at 930 Fifth Avenue, near 75th St. Sallie demanded a court order to get from the apartment her personal belongings, which she valued at $10,000. A bevy of lawyers and a police sergeant spent a couple of days trying to inventory her list, but no one ever did find out just what belonged to whom.

And Another Thing.

In his affidavit Isadore stated yesterday: "I frankly have had enough of court proceedings. The fact is that my wife and I can no longer live together. Although it is not true, as my wife claims, that after our marriage I suddenly developed a preference for what she describes as a monastic existence, it is true that I did develop a strong dislike for her riotous way of living."

The affidavit also said he was tired of her continuous drinking, to her coming home at 1 and 2 A. M., and to her cursing and berating him, to her riotous spending sprees, and to her ultimate demand that he pay her $100,000 or "she would lock me out of the apartment."

Sallie, a former career woman in the dress business, in turn called Isadore's affidavit "reckless" and said he was lying about his health. "The man is so constituted," she said, "that he would get off his death bed to fight this action if he thought it would save him money."

She also disclosed for the first time that she previously had been wed to Michael E. Reiburn, former state senator representing the Washington Heights district, who is currently serving a five-year sentence in a Federal pen for using the mails to defraud. She told the court they were married in 1930 and divorced in 1939.

Case Going by Default.

She will get her separation decree by default. And the courts and police breathed a sigh of relief.

Mrs. Matison, who was represented by the firm of Hartman, Sheridan & Tekulsky, currently lives at the Essex House.

Profiteer in Poultry Jailed for 16 Months

"The war is won at this moment but the victory may be a shallow one unless profiteering in foodstuffs is ended," Judge Gaston L. Porterie declared in Federal Court yesterday as he passed out the heaviest sentences imposed for food ceiling price violations in New York City.

Ben Bergman, bookkeeper for a poultry commission house at 2308 Twelfth Ave. was sentenced to 16 months in federal prison. His boss, Maurice E. Soblen, 54, was sentenced to 10 months and fined $7,500.

Both pleaded guilty to indictments containing 33 counts, which charged they sold 23,898 pounds of dressed poultry between January and May this year for $13,239, representing $3,727.85 overcharges. Bergman drew the longer sentence, the court said, because of his past record, including convictions for grand larceny.

A $15,000 fine was also meted out to the Arrow Packing Corp., of 2283 12th Ave., and George Newman, its 50-year-old president, was jailed for 10 months and fined another $7,500 for selling pork over ceiling. Newman, father of three men in the armed services, was accused of taking approximately $50,000 in unrecorded profits.

In imposing the sentences, Judge Porterie, visiting from New Orleans, said he believed that price controls on food will continue for several years.

"I'll make the prediction that sentences of two years will become ordinary within a few months," the Judge continued. "Heavy sentences will become routine unless people in this city desist from their unlawful practices." He also blasted parents who operate black markets here at home while their sons are away fighting.

CAPITOL STUFF

By JOHN O'DONNELL

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14.—This Washington day was one of confusion hourly worse confounded. At one moment, peace threatened an immediate outbreak. At the next, the capital lapsed back into the routine of war.

The befuddling experts of diplomacy, codes and world communications managed to mess up the business of ushering in peace as thoroughly as they had messed up the business of keeping it.

If we had to have things snarled up on a global scale, the boys had picked a good day for it. Today marked the fourth anniversary of the birth of a famous so-called document which seemed to say one thing, meant another, and finally didn't exist at all. We have in mind the birthday of the so-called Atlantic Charter, that bit of international folderol dreamed up by the late Franklin D. Roosevelt to hide from the citizens of the republic the real purpose of his famous shipboard conference with the now politically deceased Winston S. Churchill.

Real purpose of course was to get the secret pledge from F. D. R. that this nation would declare war on Japan whether we were attacked or not, once Britain became embroiled in the Far East.

In case you may have forgotten—we doubt if the people of the Baltic republics and Poland have—Roosevelt and Churchill in article 1 of that merry compilation of diplomatic gag lines, proclaimed "their countries seek no aggrandizement, territorial or other," and in article 2 stated: "They desire to see no territorial changes that do not accord with the freely expressed wishes of the people concerned."

A Short History of an Unwritten Document.

On Aug. 14, 1941, the White House gave the "text" of the charter to a waiting world as F. D. R. rushed back to the White House.

Then, four years ago this week, with great pomp and ceremony and ecstatic hosannahs from the Roosevelt world savers, the Atlantic Charter, as a formal signed document, was sent from the President of the United States to the honorable members of the 77th Congress of the United States of America. The distinguished lawmakers were given copies of the Atlantic Charter "signed" by Franklin D. Roosevelt and Winston Churchill.

The zealous OWI ordered hundreds of thousands of charters printed and declared global psychological warfare on all doubters and skeptics.

Then on Dec. 19, 1944, F. D. R. pulled the rug from under the charterites. At his White House press conference he announced the charter never existed as a document, was never signed, and there could be no copy of it because there never was an original.

Thus World War II departs this life as it entered—amid confusion, befuddlement, double-talk.

How the Common Soldier Lives at Versailles.

From the pile of overseas service mail, we've found one particular letter that is interesting for two reasons: It contains the first gripe that the wife of the particular GI has heard from her soldier husband since he donned a uniform, and it voices, among other things, a rousing blast at U. S. Army living conditions in beautiful Versailles, once the royal playground of the Bourbons and such lovely doxies as Pompadour and Du Barry, now our headquarters for the Seine section base.

The letter comes through censorship and the soldier has written us permission to use it, provided we withhold his name until he gets home—and he thinks that will be some time off.

"You know this Army is playing in cahoots with parties at home," he writes, "and we are all inclined to believe that they don't want to let us get home too soon. We reason on this basis: they shipped us like cattle and the same type of ships that took us over with 3,000 men aboard are going back with 500 men. It stinks to high heaven. It's up to you people back home to get after the Congressmen to investigate this rotten business."

"All we can do is to keep this deal in mind and when we are once again in civilian status to make those dirty blanks responsible for all this business pay through the nose. . . ."

"We are across the street from the Versailles Palace, in buildings as old as the palace itself and where they once billeted the palace guard. The place is unsanitary and a firetrap if I ever saw one. Our latrine is a cesspool out on the grounds with a tent for a cover. I've lived lots cleaner out in the field. Our washroom and showers are down in the cellar and when you wash or take a shower the stink of the sewer drain is nauseating. Of course, the generals and the officers don't live like this."

"Today, the service paper Stars and Stripes had big headlines about the critical discharge point score remaining at 85 points."

"Well, it sure fooled the hell out of us."

"The Army and the War Department had us all hopped up about going to lower the score and now they pull this one on the boys overseas."

"Know what I think?"

Well, I believe that they could let plenty of us guys out of the Army right now, but that they are afraid to do it, because they are not ready for us back in civilian life."

A Farce That Congress Does Nothing to End.

"By that I mean that they have been promising all the GI Joes their jobs gack and all that stuff, and now that they have been called face to face with those facts, they know that they can't fulfill their false promises and realize that they would have more than they could handle if they let the men out now and there were no jobs for them."

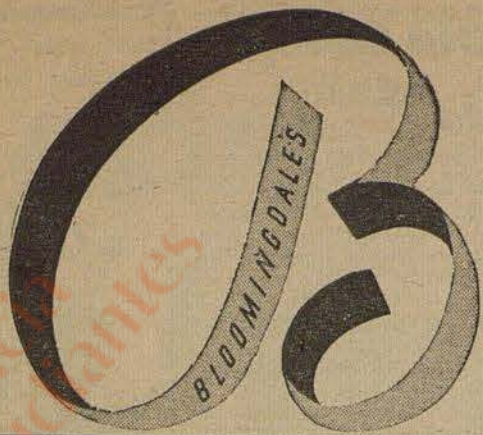

"Believe me, sweetheart, Congress and the people back home are faced with a very serious crisis. It seems that the Army has taken to dictating to both Houses on Capitol Hill and the people."

"You mark my words. Something real serious is going to come of this, if things are not taken in hand real soon. You realize that even though the great majority of us fellows are civilians at heart, we are under the iron rule of the Army, and the very fact that we still have a war on with Japan prevents us from speaking out or perhaps in even taking action as seen fit."

"Do you, or anyone else, for one moment believe that England is throwing her full resources into the war in the East? Is France contributing toward ending the affair? No, my pet, it is all a big farce and Congress is doing nothing to put an end to it."

"Why, if we would only send the Chinese troops one half the aid we sent to Russia the Japs would have been finished before the krauts. Boy, am I sure hot tonight?"

"I guess I sound radical but I can't help it, for it's just how I feel about the whole matter. I want to get home to my family and so do seven million other Joes."

Cops Uncover Guns Cached By Hoodlums

Police announced yesterday a phone tip had disclosed the hiding place of 10 guns from the arsenal of the four hoodlums held in the slaying of Patrolman Howard Hegerich in a stickup attempt July 30 in Queens Village.

Eight other guns are still being sought by a diver at Hell Gate. Police said the weapons were stolen from a City Patrol Corps arsenal at William Cullen Bryant High School, 48-10 31st Ave. Long Island City.

The 10 guns, all unloaded, were found in a valise in a parking lot at 41st St. and Roosevelt Aves., Corona, Queens, after Detective George Mitchell of the Glendale Precinct got a phone call from a man who did not give his name.

Gets Break in Court.

The accused killers are Victor (Vici) Gelson, 26, of 35-11 103d St. and Raffaele Pelegrino, 23, of 103-92 52d Ave., both Corona; Louis A. (The Lip) Boyce of 45-75 158th St., Flushing, Queens, and Robert (Big Fish) Fish, 23, Navy deserter from Jamestown, N. Y. Joseph Mancuso, 41, barber, of 90-01 Roosevelt Ave., Corona, was held on a charge of receiving stolen goods, consisting of several of the revolvers taken from the school.

Yesterday Anthony Navato, 23, of 31-72 35th St., Astoria, Queens, charged with possession of a stolen auto, got a break in Felony Court for giving the cops information that aided in arrest of the four hoods. His bail was reduced from $25,000 to $2,500 pending hearing next Tuesday. Bail for Joanne Ross, 20, of 23-10 Steinway Ave., Long Island City, Queens, who was in the car when Navato was arrested, was cut from $1,000 to $500.

Tennis-Playing Eunice Dean Is Star in All-Love Match

By NANCY RANDOLPH

It's a love-match for tennis-playing Eunice Dean, niece of Vice Admiral John S. McCain, commander of the 2d Carrier Task Force, and George Christian Grote of New York and New Orleans.

Any day now Eunice, daughter of Col. Elmer A. Dean and Mrs. Dean, will marry George, son of

Eunice Dean
On way to altar.

Mr. and Mrs. ohn C. D. Grote. A nationally ranked tennis player, Eunice recently arrived here from California where she had been helping out the war effort by serving with Consolidated Aircraft.

Lost to Helen Jacobs.

Onetime holder of the women's North and South championship, Eunice lost the title to Helen Jacobs in 1940.

It was through their mutual interest in tennis that Eunice met George. He has been working for the British Purchasing Commission. He attended Collegiate School and now is studying for his B. S. degree at New York University.

Although Eunice is here with her mother, it is expected that the wedding list of guests will be limited to members of the families and a few friends, due to the absence of Col Dean.

Mother Slain, Baby Wanders Naked in Rain

(Special to The News)

Chicago, Aug. 14—A 3-year-old boy, wandering naked in the rain early today, led to the discovery of the half-nude body of his mother, raped and beaten to death in her basement apartment.

The mother, Mrs. Mildred Bollenbach, 21, tiny, pretty and red-haired, was the wife of Sgt. Ray Bollenbach, recently returned from Germany on furlough and now believed to be at Camp Gruber, Okla.

According to police, Mrs. Bollenbach was clothed only in the top half of a playsuit. Her hands were tied behind her back and her head and face bore the marks of a severe beating.

There was no clue to the killer. A neighbor told police that during the night she had heard sounds as of furniture being moved and later "something like moans," but had paid no attention.

The board said that following an official announcement of Jap surrender employers may:

WPB Will Get 'Out of Way' of Industry Soon

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14 (AP).—A government promise—"to get out of industry's way as soon as possible"—came today.

A high official of the War Production Board said his agency would drop out of the picture as soon as industry was safely on a peacetime footing.

President Truman has given WPB a major role in getting the country changed back to a peacetime basis. The official stressed that WPB would follow to the letter the president's program for safeguarding the national economy during the transition period.

WPB Chairman J. A. Krug ordered "immediate steps to see that wide-scale civilian production is not impeded by excessive stockpiling, preemptive buying or hoarding of scarce materials by a few."

It will be necessary, the WPB official added, to retain only a few controls for the immediate postwar period.

He said most of these will be restrictions on use of scarce materials, such as tin, lumber and crude rubber, and on manufacture of products made from such materials.

By John Crosson and Al Binder

Demand that governmental post-war reconversion keep the small business man as well as national industry in mind was made last night by Gen. William O'Dwyer, Democratic - ALP candidate for Mayor. He addressed a dinner given in the Hotel Commodore by a committee of the Hebrew Butchers' Union, AFL.

"If we can maintain the economic health of small individual enterprises, we can also maintain the economic well-being of big business," the Democratic candidate, who formerly headed the War Refugee Board, told the kosher butchers.

Navy Transport Docks Here With 1,827 Pacific Vets

The first troopship to arrive here from the Pacific docked yesterday with 1,827 veterans of the Jap war—some bitter that the Japs were getting any kind of deal but unconditional surrender and atomic bombs.

It was a long voyage for the 13,000-ton Navy transport Gen. Charles H. Muir, which was 45 days en route from Leyte because of repeated breakdowns.

"Kill the Emperor."

The troops, veterans of tough campaigns in New Guinea jungles and the Philippines, took Jap peace reports without any show of excitement, according to the Muir's skipper, Capt. J. D. Conway of San Francisco.

Nine other transports arrived from Europe with 7,000 troops—and Hirohito didn't have much of a following with them, either. Typifying GI comment on Jap peace terms, Sgt. Earl W. Wagner of Frackville, Pa., observed succinctly: "Kill the Emperor and keep the bomb formula."

No Peace Excitement.

Some thought Hirohito could do no harm as a closely watched figurehead. They weren't particularly demonstrative over peace reports, one European vet expressing the general attitude with the remark, "We've won this war three times during the last week."

He referred to Friday's Jap peace offer, Saturday's reply to us, and Sunday's erroneous peace flash.

Yesterday's arrivals included the Marechal Joffre, the hospital ship Milne, the James F. Rhodes, Robin Tuxford, Anne Bradstreet, Thomas Sumter and Caribia. Due today with 3,187 European campaigners are the Frederick Victory, James W. Barbour, John Mitchell, Fort Royal, Edward M. Hurley, John S. Williams and Guadalupe.

High Point Vets In Europe Due To Get Priority

Paris, Aug. 14 (AP).—A month after a Jap surrender is signed, a complete reversal in the present European troop deployment procedure will take place that will bring the high point man into his own, a U. S. spokesman said today.

Officials said it would take at least 30 days to put the reversal into effect.

Orders were expected to grant priority to high point men on homeward bound ships. At present the low-score men have been given top billing, as they were rushed to the Pacific either directly or by way of the United States. These low score men now will be pushed to the end of the line, while 85-pointers and above go home.

Highway Flooded By Water Main

A break in a 30-inch water main at 10:40 A. M. yesterday flooded the Harlem River Speedway between 174th and 181st Sts., forcing vehicular traffic to detour and damaging a section of a concrete retaining wall between the highway and the west embankment.

At one time the water was four feet deep. A repair crew shut off the main and started repairs.

Writers Free Of Spy Charge

Complaints against writers Mark Julius Gayn and Kate Louise Mitchell, charging conspiracy to violate the espionage code were dismissed yesterday by U. S. Commissioner Garret W. Cotter.

Miss Mitchell, coeditor of the magazine Amerasia, and Gayn, a free lance writer, were arrested June 6, with Philip J. Jaffe, Amerasia's publisher, Lieut. Andrew Roth of Naval Intelligence, and Emanuel Sigurd Larsen, Far Eastern specialist for the State Department. Last Friday a federal grand jury in Washington returned conspiracy indictments against the latter three.

Harvest Moon Prelim On Tonight

By WILLIAM MURTHA

The first in a series of colorful Harvest Moon Ball preliminaries in which the winners will go directly to the finals in Madison Square Garden on Sept. 5 gets under way at 8:30 tonight in the air-cooled Roseland Ballroom, 51st St. and Broadway.

Joe Belford, Roseland manager and the night's master of ceremonies, will give the signal for band leader Randy Brooks to swing his tune-smiths into the strains of "Shine On Harvest Moon" and the eleventh annual edition of the Summer's greatest dance festival will be on.

Judges Well Known.

After a grand march the contestants—all competing in the fox trot—will dance in groups under the critical eyes of three nationally known dance teachers: Oscar Dur-yea, director of one of the oldest dance studios in New York; Alma Morgan, chief assistant at the Sawyer Studio, and Herbert Lee, well-known Manhattan ballroom instructor.

Survivors in the preliminaries will compete later in the evening in the semi-finals and the winners there will go right into the finals at the Garden.

While the civilians are actually competing in the next two weeks of preliminaries, entries are still being taken in the service division,

Attention, Service Men

Entries in the service division of the 11th annual Harvest Moon Ball will be accepted at the following places:

MANHATTAN:

Tenth Floor, The News Building, 220 E. 42d St. (9 A. M. to 5 P. M. daily); Ground Floor (5 to 10 P. M. daily, 2 to 10 P. M. Sunday).

an exact duplicate of the civilian portion of the ball.

All preliminaries in the service division will be held on one night, Aug. 30, and entries will be taken up to the start of the first of those preliminaries. Winners go directly to the Garden.

Free to Service Men.

Ask State Aid For All Roads

The proposed program of highway state aid for incorporated villages should be extended to include not only mileage of concrete roads as a basis, but the mileage of all types of roads.

This is the substance of a letter sent by the Patchogue, Suffolk, Village Board to the State Controller's office.

The action was taken on recommendation of the Suffolk County Village Officials Association. Public Works Commissioner Salvatore Lotito reported that as far as Patchogue is concerned, state aid based on concrete road mileage would be negligible.

White House Has Jap Note On Surrender

the Big Four note bluntly establishing Hirohito's puppet status.

The fifth day of "the long vigil," as Press Secretary Ross put it, began earlier than usual. Although there was an official "lid" or blackout on White House news from midnight until 9 A. M., some newsmen stayed all night in the lobby of the Executive Mansion on the chance that President Truman might announce the peace.

At 9 A. M., the lobby and press room were filled to capacity with reporters, photographers and broadcasters. Ross called them into his office at 9:50 and started three times to read a statement before everyone had squeezed in. "Hold it a minute, Charlie," he was told. "Wait'll everyone's in."

Ross looked up wearily from his desk. "It looks as if our long vigil is coming to an end soon," he said. "That is, some time today. The Japanese reply is now in the hands of the Swiss, where it was received at Bern. It has to be decoded and again coded for transmission to the Swiss Legation here. That may take several hours. It will then be delivered to the Secretary of State, and then to the President."

Long-Awaited "Yes."

"Does this mean you expect the Japanese reply to be delivered here today?" he was asked.

"Yes," he answered.

Ross said Truman had been at his study at 7:15 A. M., had breakfasted with his naval aid, Commodore James K. Vardaman, at 8, and had walked over to his office to confer with Secretary of State James F. Byrnes at 8:21 for 15 minutes. Vardaman, who had been up all night, told the President of developments, Ross added.

Asked if he assumed the Jap reply was favorable, Ross replied: "I am assuming nothing."

Little Is Definite.

"Does the President know the substance of the Jap reply?"

"He didn't tell me," Ross replied.

The press corps rushed from his office, eager to reach telephones.

Outside, hundreds milled through Lafayette Park across the street from the White House. Littered with newspapers, pop bottles, sandwich wrappers and cigaret butts, the park today drew the largest crowd of the "long vigil."

The crowd was more restless than at any time during the five-day wait for the war to end, except for the short-lived celebration there Saturday night, when the false United Press peace flash electrified the nation.

Crowd Is Facetious.

But the crowd was in a good humor despite its restlessness. Two typical observations were:

"What's a matter with them Japs? Don't they know there's a peace going on?"

"This ain't a war of nerves. It's a peace of nerves!"

At a 12:15 P. M. press conference, Ross read "without comment" the memorandum from the Swiss Legation revealing that at 10:59 A. M. the political department in Bern had sent the following open cable:

"Very urgent: Japanese Legation reports that coded cables it received this morning do not contain the answer awaited by the whole world."

Byrnes Calls Again.

Byrnes, who evidently had informed the President of this startling news during a hurry call at 11:15 A. M., called on Truman for the third time at mid-afternoon. He left after 15 minutes. At just about that time the Jap Minister in Bern had been reported en route to the Foreign Office.

Jap People to Learn Tonight, Tokyo Hints

San Francisco, Aug. 14 (U.P.).—Tokyo broadcasts said today that the Jap government had sent its fateful note on surrender negotiations to the Allies via Switzerland. It was indicated that Tokyo was preparing to let the Jap people know tonight, four days after the first surrender note, that their government was seeking peace.

Public Told to Listen.

A broadcast of the Jap Domei agency to bureaus said that an announcement of unprecedented importance, to which every Japanese must listen closely, would be broadcast at noon tomorrow, which is 11 o'clock tonight, New York time.

Tokyo announced also that electrical current would be stepped up in power-rated areas so that all radio listeners could hear the statement.

Shame Recounted.

An earlier Jap broadcast that the Emperor had "granted his decision," and indicating that final surrender might be near, described how a weeping crowd before the palace "bowed to the very ground" in shame because their war efforts were not enough.

This description was broadcast in Japanese to bureaus of the official Domei agency in the Far East. It stopped in the middle of a sentence and editors were instructed to hold it. There seemed reason to believe that it might have been sent in advance of the facts—that the crowd might gather at the palace when the Japanese people finally are told they have lost the war.

American Blood

Federal Judge Mortimer W. Byers in Brooklyn swore in 364 aliens as U. S. citizens yesterday and then asked if any would donate blood to the blood bank of Brooklyn Chapter, American Red Cross. Forty five said they would.

ceived the Jap note and had sent it to the Swiss Legation in Washington.

Billion in Benefits

On the 10th anniversary of the signing of the Social Security Act, Peter Kasius, regional director of the Social Security Board, announced yesterday that total payments of about $1,000,000,000 had been made in New York State from 1935 up to last June 30. Recipients were retired workers, the survivors of deceased workers, unemployed persons and some destitute.

Ike at Banquet

Moscow, Aug. 14 (U.P.).—A banquet honoring Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower at which Premier Josef Stalin was official host took place in a "warm, friendly atmosphere," Soviet newspapers reported today.

Peace! It's Wonderful— Noisy to Celebrants

the twisted streets of that little community to the sound of the drum and cymbals; and 25 persons were taken to hospitals suffering from intoxication or injuries received during the celebrations.

But most New Yorkers remembered the false-report celebration of V-E day, one day too early May 7 and also flareups of celebration here last Friday and Sunday over early reports that the Nips were knocking under. So they quietly went about their business.

Large numbers of worshipers went to churches and synagogues to pray for men who fought and fell, and to offer thanks for the safety of loved ones who survived the conflict.

A Corporal's Emotions.

"I saw too many wounded, too many dead," said Corp. Louis Carney, 32, of the Air Transport Command, who knelt in St. Patrick's Cathedral within three hours after arriving at LaGuardia Field from Europe. "I don't feel like yelling and getting drunk because something horrible has ended. I can only be thankful and pray to God."

But there was disorder, too. Merry-makers hurled paving blocks through a number of windows early yesterday. At 255 Canal St., where a novelty shop's window was smashed, looters carried off horns, confetti, flags and noise-makers.

A score of fire alarms were turned in before dawn—13 of them false, others for bonfires started in the streets by celebrants. Glass from broken bottles tossed out of windows littered 116th St., between York and Second Ave.

New York's street sweepers again bore the brunt of the city's outbursts on their brooms. By noon, the Department of Sanitation estimated 2,560 tons of paper had been showered into the streets.

Mayor Asks Public to Wait.

Mayor LaGuardia sounded a note of caution in a broadcast over several radio stations at 9:45 A. M. in which he asked the city to remain calm and wait for official word before celebrating.

"We have every reason to assume that fighting is still going on in the Pacific," he said. "Not until the surrender terms are signed and delivered will the order 'At ease' go to the Army, Navy and Air Force fighting in the Pacific."

"New York City has behaved so well since Dec. 7 that we do not want to mar this record. After the President proclaims the cessation of hostilities, I will have further word for you."

War Plants Stick to Job.

Work in the New York Navy Yard in Brooklyn and in war plants throughout the metropolitan area continued as usual, though workers frequently asked each other: "Has it come yet?" Radios and loud speakers in a number of plants carried up-to-date minute news to the employees.

Virtually all plants and business firms said they would remain open until the official V-J announcement, and then take a holiday.

Members of the Greater New York Wholesale Liquor Dealers Association were a partial exception to the business-as-usual program. Their deliveries to stores and bars in the city's most congested areas were halted yesterday morning "as a precaution against unruly elements," upon advice of their counsel, Morris O. Alprin.

Draft Goes Marching On

State Liquor Authority Commissioner George P. Butterly made clear, however, that no restrictions would be placed on the sale of liquor, either in bars or package stores, unless city authorities proclaimed a state of emergency.

One place where it definitely wasn't V-P Day was the induction center in Grand Central Palace. There, Uncle Sam was still taking them into service. Most of the inductees were glum.

"I was willing to go before, but I don't particularly care to go now," said 20-year-old Edmund L. Beaumont of 545 W. 111th St. "I wanted to fight, and now I'll just be in an occupation force."

Another prospective inductee saw matters differently.

"I won't mind if they take me; it may give a real veteran the chance to come home," said Murray Schwartz, 19, of 750 E. 172d St., Bronx.

Celebrate a Bit Early.

New York's premature celebration was touched off around 2 A. M. when late listeners—of whom apparently there were plenty—heard of the unofficial Tokyo broadcast declaring that an Imperial message accepting the Potsdam terms would be forthcoming soon. Most of the jubilation was in Times Square, but there were also many high-powered neighborhood celebrations, notably in the Little Italy sections of the East Side.

Windows filled with laughing, cheering residents. Firecrackers popped downtown around Mulberry St. Radios blared everywhere. Few got any sleep—and nobody had any complaint about it.

In the Italian section of the upper East Side, children organized impromptu parades after daybreak. Men and women sat on the stoops drinking wine, wondering when Giuseppe and Valentino would come home from the Pacific. Already the day was hot and muggy; nobody cared.

Free Food and Wine.

Tables were set out in the street at 4 A. M. and food, wines and liquor were offered to passersby, in front of homes in Brooklyn's Italian-populated areas of the Gowanus and Park Slope sections.

The Times Square crowd increased rapidly from a few thousand determined celebrants to 25,000 a few hours after daybreak. Night owls in evening dress mingled with men in work clothes.

Dozens of young women were kissing every service man they met, and many service men—not slow at getting the idea—were stopping girls and kissing them. Few seemed to mind.

Elliott, Faye Greet Sailors.

Brig. Gen. Elliott Roosevelt and his wife, the former Faye Emerson, Hollywood star, were two of the daybreak merry-makers. They were greeted by two sailors, and Mrs. Roosevelt put her arm around one of the tars, 20-year-old James Reynolds, of Flushing.

"I wish your father could be here to see this day," one of the seamen told Elliott.

At 8:15 A. M., Police Commissioner Valentine ordered the mid-night-to-8 A. M. shift back on the streets. It had been held in reserve. Soon, two-thirds of the city's 14,000 cops were out. Vehicular traffic in Times Square was shut off at 10 A. M.

WAC, 22, Cited For Hero Medal

Pfc. Marie Lavrich, 22, WAC member of the motor pool at Camp Upton, L. I., was recommended for the Soldier's Medal yesterday for heroism in saving S/Sgt. Velma Bippin of the WAC from drowning July 22 off West Hampton Beach. The recommendation was made by Lieut. Isabell Welch, commanding officer of the WAC detachment at Upton.

Plane or Bazooka Uncoils New Wire

The U. S. Rubber Co. announced yesterday that it has been producing, for the Army, telephone wire that can be uncoiled from a container at high speed without backlash or knotting. It can be fired from a bazooka or spun from an airplane at two miles of line a minute, officials declared, and can be adapted to civilian use.

Deflation in China

Chungking, Aug. 14 (U.P.).—The price of gold on Chinese money markets has fallen from more than 200,000 Chinese dollars per ounce to 90,000 dollars in the four days since Japan's surrender was offered.

How Jap Reply Is Being Transmitted

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14 (A.P.).—At least four coding and decoding operations and three radio-telegraph transmissions are bringing Japan's expected surrender reply to Washington.

These steps probably are being taken:

1. Japs translate the reply into English.

2. Message is transcribed into diplomatic code.

3. Tokyo contacts Radio Swiss and the message is transmitted.

(An RCA spokesman said the transmitter can be operated at an accurate speed of from 50 to 60 words a minute, but a message can be divided among a number of operators, speeding transmission.)

4. Jap officials in Bern, Switzerland, receive the message and decode it.

5. Message is delivered to the Swiss Political (State) Department.

6. The Swiss code it and deliver to RCA.

7. RCA transmits it to the New York RCA office.

8. New York transmits it to RCA in Washington, where it is speeded by messenger to the Swiss Legation.

9. The Swiss Legation decodes the message and delivers it to our State Department.

It was thought by officials in position to know that the Tokyo reply would be in English because English is Japan's second language.

Swiss reports indicated that last Saturday's message from the U. S. to Japan moved out of Bern approximately seven hours after it was delivered to the Swiss Legation in Washington by our State Department, and that the Japs (after requesting that the message be repeated) acknowledged receipt about 10 hours after the transmission began in Bern.

HOW ABOUT UNIVERSAL TRAINING?

Diplomatic maneuvers in connection with ending the war have been nerve-racking and time-consuming. But if it isn't over by the time you read this editorial, it is at least on the homestretch—this war which most of us are calling the greatest war in the history of the world. In one sense, it was not as great as that. Some wars have ended with the destruction of one nation or another. This one is not ending that way. But it has been a great and terrible conflict nevertheless.

Now that we have skinned around this perilous corner in our history, the question becomes of immediate importance: How about universal training of young people as a form of insurance against the next war? We omit the word "military" from that question.

Reaction Sets In

There has been vigorous agitation during the war for adoption of a straight-out system of universal military training to go into effect soon after the war. This plan would affect all able-bodied American males between the ages of about 17 and 21, and would require each of them to take a year's real military training in a real military camp.

Already a reaction is setting in against that. We're hearing from more than a few people that universal military training is foolish, too expensive, a breeder of militarism, and a producer of wars. We've had plenty of first-class wars of our own without ever having had universal military training, but the objectors to this proposal habitually slide around that fact and go on objecting, loudly.

Well, if we can't have universal military training, how about a compromise scheme, to operate roughly as outlined below?

We could assign the trainees to what would amount to boot camps each year, for nine to 13 weeks per man. They would be young men from all environments and localities—from the backwoods, the farms, the slums of big cities, and the homes of the wealthy, if there are any wealthy people after the war is liquidated. They would all be working along together in true democratic fashion; and a good thing, too, if we're to go on practicing the democracy we preach.

These young men would learn to brush their teeth daily, to stand up straight, to watch their diet, bowels and general health. They would collect some valuable ideas of discipline, obedience, alertness, initiative. Those who couldn't read or write (and we still have more than a few illiterates in this country) would learn how. Venereal troubles would be remedied.

Improvement On the CCC

After this initial training, the organization, subdivided all over the country, could do the same kind of work as the Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC) used to do—fight or prevent forest fires, build up-country dams for flood control, show farmers how to plow their land according to its contours, etc.

The CCC rolled up a fine record in that kind of work, and there is need for a lot more of it.

But to this program should be added training in the elements of warfare. These trainees, of course, could not be turned into experts at handling the more intricate weapons, such as tanks, B-29s, or atom bombs. But they could be taught to shoot, hit the dirt, dig foxholes in a hurry, care for guns and equipment, and otherwise act like partly trained soldiers instead of greenhorns.

If another war should come along, we would have this big, partially trained reserve to draw from, rather than having to start from scratch.

If all human history should be confuted and we should never have another war, we would still have this big yearly investment in the health and character of our young men, in better farming, in flood control, and in soil and timber conservation. Obviously, the investment would pay big, varied and unending dividends.

Our experience with the WACs, WAVES, SPARS and lady Marines in this war has shown that young women can benefit by such training as markedly as young men.

Training for women might well be made a voluntary affair at first; then, if it worked well, it could be made universal.

Training For Girls

It would include study of household science, cooking, hygiene, antiseptics, care of babies, and so on. The general idea would be to invest in the mental and physical health of our young women, and in their equipment for life, and thereby improve the stamina of the American people as a whole.

We still think straight-out universal military training would be the most sensible plan for the United States in the world we are now barging into—a wild, wily and vengeful world by all the signs. But if we can't have that, the compromise plans outlined above would seem to be workable and worth while.

THE QUESTION.

Is it true that the most skillful flattery is to be a good listener?

THE PLACE.

Along 10th Ave.

THE ANSWERS.

Mrs. Gene Fowler Jr., Astoria, Queens, film editor: "No, not necessarily! Of course we are taught when young to be good listeners, but it is better to contribute something to the conversation to bring out the better thoughts of the one you wish to flatter."

The better he thinks he has talked, the more you flatter him!"

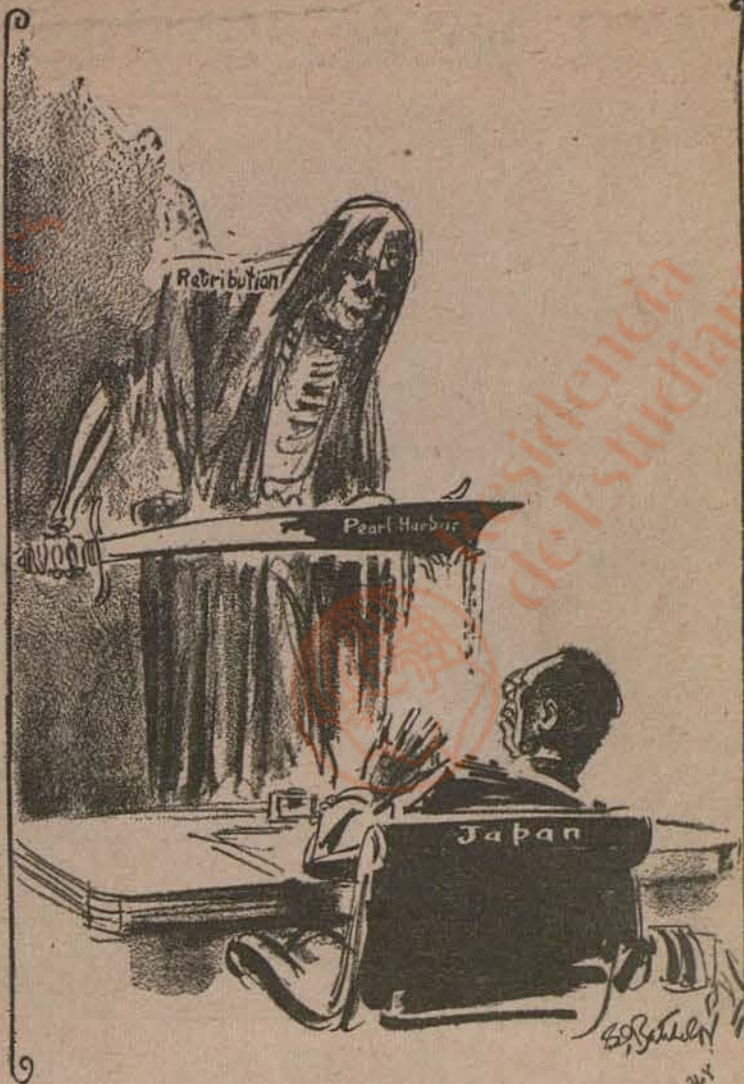

Leonard E. Anderson, Far Rockaway, N. Y., supervising executive: "Yes. If you do a lot of talking, the other fellow is quite apt to think that you are a bore, but if you let him do the talking, you might be bored, but you'll flatter him no end and, at the same time, avoid being considered a bore yourself!"

Gladys Brothers, Manhattan, film editor: "Yes. Just imagine this situation: A man is telling you something and you exclaim, 'wonderful!' He continues, obviously pleased, and you say, 'Gee, you know so much!' Yes, girls, let him think he knows it all and you'll have him eating out of your hand, if he doesn't chew your arm off!"

Ben Caffina, Bronx, certified public accountant: "I'm sure that being a good listener is very skillful flattery, but it should never be carried to the point where the other fellow might mistake your silence as being an indication of stupidity. Yes, agree with him, but put in a skilful two-cents worth at the proper moments!"

Sam Morgenstern, Horatio St., composer and conductor: "Definitely! Being a good listener implies that you have complete respect for what the other person is saying. It also means that you are intent on his thoughts and words and are not thinking of what you would like to say. In other words, if it's worth while talking with him, it's worth while listening."

Joseph D. Peppe, Ovington Court, Brooklyn, section keeper, Sanitation Dept.: "No, not entirely. Listening may be good strategy at times and good flattery, but more skillful flattery is to praise him and his ideas with obvious sincerity. Few people can resist flattery when they feel that it is sincerely given!"

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Please give name and address with your letter. We will withhold both on request.

DISGRACED AGAIN

Mountain Lakes, N. J.: Your unfair policy of hate against the late Franklin D. Roosevelt reached the latest high point in your editorial on the late Hiram W. Johnson. Still stinging under the rebuke of having your slur and mud campaign against Mr. Roosevelt during his life, and the disgraceful comment made in your usual bad taste at the time of his death, used as a boomerang of public sentiment, you now have the colossal rottenness to insinuate that Mr. Roosevelt brought about Pearl Harbor. "He might not have become our first four-term President," say you, "and we might have stayed out of World War II." This type of intellectually dishonest editorial writing is a disgrace to American journalism.

GEORGE C. WILLIAMS.

LONG HITCH

Dutchess: The war is about over, and the draft soon will be. O.K.—but what about those armies of occupation for Germany and Japan for maybe 10 or 15 years? It looks as if some of the men now in the Army will still be in it and overseas 10 years from now. More men will have to be drafted if there is to be a regular turnover of personnel.

ONE ANNOYED CITIZEN.

TEARS INTO TERMINAL

Manhattan: Mayor LaGuardia's planned new terminal in Washington Market, Manhattan, would be a horrible waste of taxpayers' money. It will serve to give jobs to politicians and to place this market business under political control with its attendant evils. It is projected to cost $42,000,000; it undoubtedly will cost more than $52,000,000. In reality, the whole idea is one of the present Mayor's pets. He had decided that the city needs this terminal, and as far as he is concerned that is all there is to it.

HOW MUCH TO TIP?

Brooklyn: This is for those Six Waitresses, whose Voice letter scolded service men for giving them only 10% tips, and to all other crums who hoped to get rich on the war. The proper tip is 10%—far too much, in my opinion, for some of the service we've been getting. A lot of you waitresses have been making more than you ever made in your whole lives before, so quit squawking. And as for complaining about a soldier's tip, that is the last straw. You should be tipping him instead.

GENEROUS OFFICE WORKER.

AIN'T SEEN NOTHING YET?

Manhattan: The first World War made the world safe for democracy. The second one has made the world safe for mobocracy. In the next war, nobody will be safe. World War II was just a preview. The next one will be the big show. Prepare!

WM. GOLDBERG.

EVIL VS. EVIL

Manhattan: So you tell the Voice, Elizabeth Dwyer, that our atom bomb was an atrocity. All right, so it is. But to fight evil you must fight it with itself. Who knows what atrocities our entering troops may find to have been committed in Japan? Remember what we found when we went into Germany? As for the United States becoming "the most feared and despised nation on earth," I beg to remind you that we aren't the only nation in the atom bomb business. Even if we were, we should trust our Government enough, and our military leaders, to know that they wouldn't have used the atom bomb except in a case of sheer need.

ALYCE M. ANDERSON.

FEARS DRAIN ON US

Dutchess: I have watched President Truman's acts ever since he unfortunately took office, and regret very much that he is making tragic mistakes which may cost health and lives in the coming Winter. How does he expect to feed our ex-enemies, and send fuel to them, when our own deserving soldiers, who have fought bitterly for our very existence, will need every bit of food and warmth they can get? If ruthless Japan or Nazi Germany had conquered us, what nourishment or shelter would they have provided for us? And Hoover ought to hush up and stop collaborating with Truman, thereby possibly avoiding a serious crisis here in America. I'm not cruel; I'm just cautious.

MRS. J. COOPER.

RABIES AND REVENGE

Manhattan: Now that the mayoralty election is coming up, I hope all you veterans and dog lovers know how to vote. Don't forget what this city administration and its Board of Health stooges did to your pets and a lot of defenseless little animals that were unjustly blamed for a rabies outbreak—a disease that is as rare as leprosy. These city loafers had to do something to make out that they were useful, so they took it out on these helpless creatures. A FRIEND.

Stocks yesterday got back on terra firma, with gains of large fractions prevalent.

Automobile, radio, hosiery and civilian goods industry shares rose 1 and 2 points, but volume held to a moderate 910,000 shares as investors found it impossible to concentrate strongly on anything but the awaited peace news. In sharp contrast to Monday's weakness, old line leaders came out with the peace babies to give the whole session a good tone.

3-Point Gains Registered.

Carrier Corp., a leader in air conditioning; Caterpillar Tractor, Case and International Harvester among the farm implement manufacturers; Gotham Hosiery, Phoenix Hosiery and Kayser in the stocking group, and building shares such as Johns-Manville, Alpha Portland Cement, and U. S. Gypsum, showed the largest gains, some ranging to 3 points.

Virtually all motors were active and higher. Radio Corp. led in volume and equalled its high of 13 3/4%. American Radiator reached for a new top and almost made it. Aircrafts were mixed. Steels added

U. S. Gives Radar Secrets, 'Major Reason' of Victory

By REUEL S. MOORE

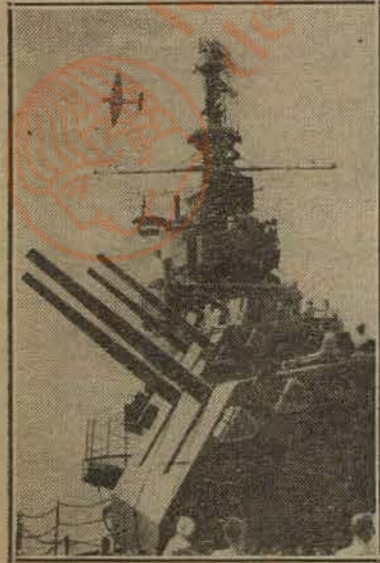

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14 (U.P.).—The Army and Navy tonight unfolded the long-secret story of radar, second only to the atomic bomb as the war's most revolutionary scientific development, the margin of victory in the Allies' darkest hours and a springboard to the perfection of television and other far-reaching changes in postwar living.

Radar is an amazing "seeing eye" electronic device capable of cutting through the blackest night and the thickest fog unerringly. It enables fighting men to track down, chart and destroy a target they never see.

Obscured by the atomic bomb in sensationalism, radar possibly has been more valuable because it was

No Death Ray—But Good!

London, Aug. 14 (U.P.).—British scientists, working on orders of the military, were seeking to perfect a death ray as a weapon of modern warfare four years before Germany attacked. They failed, but their experiments resulted in the discovery of radar—the magic eye that turned the tide of World War II.

at work for the Allies when they might have lost the war without it. It turned the tide in the Battle of Britain, helped win the long struggle against German submarines, made possible the precision blasting of German industry and helped U. S. ships and planes drive the Jap navy from the seas.

Laboratory Victory.

Like the atomic bomb, the story of American and British radar is the story of victory in a laboratory race against the enemy. Both Germany and Japan used it, but they never caught up with the Allies. As one Army spokesman put it:

"In the technical field, where so much of this war has been fought, the failure of the Nazis and the Japs to keep pace with Allied radar has been probably the major single reason for defeat."

In peacetime, radar is expected to make air and sea navigation foolproof, regardless of night or weather. Its immediate use in land transport is less sure. In its present form, it is not very useful on automobiles or locomotives.

A joint scientific board of the Army, Navy and the Office of Scientific Research and Development said its greatest benefit will be its effect upon the electronics industry.

"Radar has made the electronics industry one of America's major ones, now comparable in size to the prewar automobile industry," the board said. "This new industry, through its enormous laboratories, can be expected to find innumerable applications in a wide variety of fields."

Television Around Corner.

"If television is still around the corner after the war, economic factors, not technical ones, will have kept it there. Communications, especially radio, will have a tremendous flowering."

"Altogether, it is fair to say that radar, as radar, will have a mild immediate beneficial effect on all our lives. But the impact on electronics generally of techniques developed during the war because of radar will have profound and far-reaching effects on the shape of our daily life."

Radar's name is coined from the words which tell its function—radio detection and ranging. Here is a typical picture of how it works in naval warfare:

An enemy fleet approaches. Radar plots its range and direction. Open fire is ordered. An observer watches a screen bearing a panoramic replica of the entire area. He watches the shells move across the screen. The salvo appears to land squarely on the leading ship. Its replica fades slowly from the screen. The vessel was discovered, identified, tracked down, fired upon and sunk without a man seeing it visually.

How It Works.

Here, in principle, is the way radar works:

Unlike other communications, the transmitter and receiver are at the same place. The transmitter sends out intense bursts of energy called pulses. They may be only one millionth of a second in duration. During the interval between pulses, the receiver is receiving "echoes" which a pulse produces when it contacts a nearby object. Echoes from the nearest objects form soon after the pulse is sent. Those farther away give later returns. The interval between the transmission of the pulse and the reception of its echo measures the distance of the object—ship, plane, mountain or building.

Direction of the target is determined by a rotating antenna which sends out pulses in a narrow beam, like a searchlight. When the antenna is pointed toward the target, a "pip," or direction indicator, is flashed back. The strongest pip is returned when the antenna is beamed directly at the target. The bearing of the antenna then is used to point a gun, to set the course of a bomber, to direct a fighter plane, or for innumerable other uses.

IFF Tells Foes.

The reflected radio pulses are recorded on a "scope," a cathode ray screen similar to that used in television. One of the most ingenious of the scopes is the PPI—"plan position indicator." The antenna rotates in a full circle. A luminous line moves commensurately around the scope, like the hand of a clock. It leaves a map-like reproduction of the surrounding area.

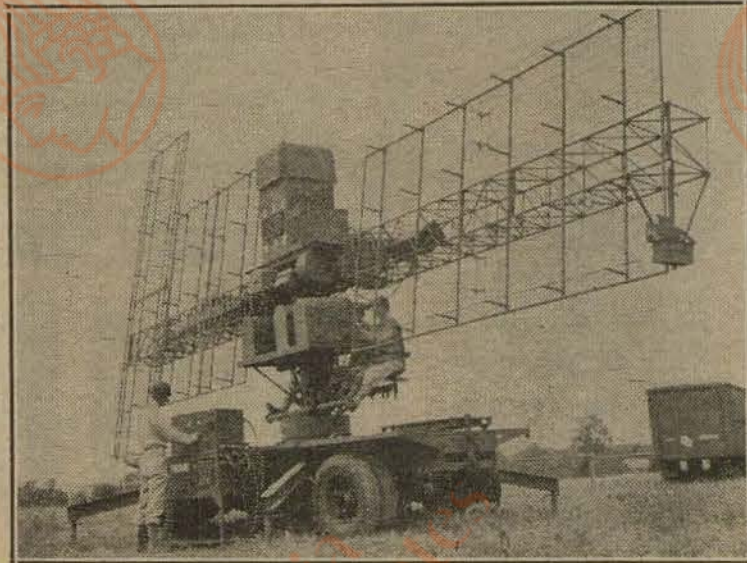

Another device is IFF—"identification of friend or foe." It sends out a signal which brings an automatic coded response, identifying friendly craft. Still another set automatically warns a fighter pilot when another plane is approaching.

On a radar screen, water reflections are black. Flat solid surfaces, ships and buildings show up white. Land masses vary from gray to white. The resultant image is not unlike a black and white halftone reproduction of a relief map. All waterways, shorelines and bridges are clearly defined.

The idea of using radio pulses for detection occurred simultaneously in the United States, Britain, France, Germany and possibly Japan. Preliminary work began in this country in 1922. Congress appropriated $100,000 for naval research in 1935, and a year later the Army perfected a set to detect aircraft. The first shipboard radar was operated from the destroyer Leary in 1937. Two years later, the Army had long-range detector equipment that could record the approach of a bomber 100 miles away.

After 1940, research and development was carried on cooperatively by the United States and Britain.

Production in this country was given top priority and a new industry was born. Non-existent in 1940, radar factories by July 1 of this year had delivered $2,700,000,000 of equipment to the Army and Navy.

Scientific Pioneers.

"The scientific pioneering, engineering skill and plain hard work that these figures represent has been paid for over and over by the accomplishments of radar in giving new eyes to our forces on land, in the sea and air," the joint board said.

Radar permitted Allied fliers to track down and destroy German submarines by the hundreds at a time when the U-boat campaign was threatening to choke off supplies and equipment for beleaguered Britain. Later, it was used to pinpoint German industrial targets in daylight precision bombing despite the most unfavorable weather. And last Summer, when German V-bombs were pounding Britain, it led Allied fliers to the launching sites.

Radar showed its work in naval warfare back in 1942 when the battle for Guadalcanal still was undecided. With its aid, the cruiser Boise sank three Jap cruisers and three destroyers in 27 minutes.

In the same campaign, the famous cruiser San Francisco sailed into the midst of an entire Jap fleet, its guns blazing. The Japs fired at each other in confusion. The entire enemy fleet was sunk.

Among the U. S. scientists responsible for its development are Dr. A. Hoyt Taylor, chief consultant of electronics at the naval research laboratory; Leo C. Young, his associate since 1922; Dr. Gregory Breit and Dr. Merle A. Tuve of Carnegie Institute; Louis A. Gebhard and Matthew H. Schrenk of the Navy laboratory; Dr. Roger M. Page, formerly of Hamline University, and Robert C. Guthrie of the University of Montana.

Scheme to Spy Out Atomic Bomb Foiled

Oak Ridge, Tenn., Aug. 14 (U.P.).—It was revealed today that a planned attempt was made to spy on the American atomic bomb project here and that it was thwarted by a specially trained unit of the Army's Counter Intelligence Corps.

Military agents were assigned to this home of the nation's top secret weapon and formed the nucleus of an organization which successfully protected the secret, an Army release disclosed.

Key scientists working on the development of the bomb were constantly guarded, the Army said.

"All attempts to obtain vital information were thwarted," the announcement said. It did not disclose whether the person or persons involved had been previously identified as having been apprehended in this country as enemy agents.

End of Draft, Early Out For All the Boys Asked

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14 (P).—The cry for quick suspension of the draft and early release of men from the armed forces rose in volume today.

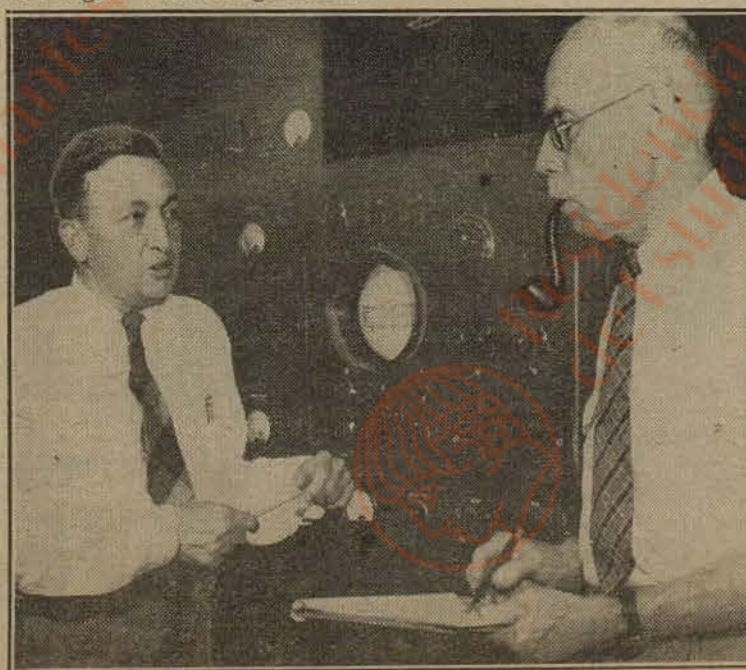

At the same time the official fixing of V-J Day became a matter of vital concern not only to soldiers and sailors but to government contractors and officials dealing with them. The date affects not only the service liability of most now in uniform but the duration of many contracts.

Draftees and most who enlisted voluntarily are in service for the duration plus six months. Numerous contracts, as well as many wartime government powers, expire a specified time after the end of the war.

These were the day's main developments:

1. Chairman May (D-Ky.), of the House Military Affairs Committee said that he will introduce legislation as soon as Congress reconvenes for an end to all draft calls. He said he also wants draftees released as soon as it can be done.

2. Attorney General Tom Clark said he is preparing an opinion on the legal date of the end of the war.

THIS NETTLE DANGER

WILLIAM MACLEOD RAINE

Copyright 1945 by William MacLeod Raine

SYNOPSIS

In the feud between homesteaders and cattlemen, Bruce Sherrill, leader of the homesteaders, is wounded. Bruce shot Ben Randall, son of old Jeff Randall, owner of the Diamond Tail ranch. Trapped, he rides to the ranch of Cliff Applegate, his chief enemy, and brother-in-law of Jeff Randall. Linda Applegate hides him. When her father and brothers return, Linda learns Ben was shot in a fight—not ambushed. Because Bruce is wounded she insists he be given shelter until he is able to travel, then they may turn him over to the law. Cliff feels they are betraying their friends. Linda quarrels with Bruce when he accuses the cattlemen of tramping down the homesteaders, and in the night he slips away. When Linda and her father tell Jeff Randall what they have done, Cliff and Jeff quarrel bitterly. Bruce suspects Flack is a spy for the cattlemen. Bruce, a former Rough Rider, makes a trip to Washington, lunches with the President and obtains his promise to investigate the feud. On his return, while having dinner with the Sheriff, Bruce's horse is shot. Ben Randall quarrels with his father and visits the Applegates. He suspects Linda has more than a humane interest in Bruce. Two government men arrive. While Bruce is rounding up his cattle, Rod Randall orders him off the Randall property. A shot misses Bruce. He is anxious to find out who tried to kill him. In self defense he shoots Wally Jelks. Rod finds them. Bruce suggests that together they get Jelks to his ranch and that Rod send one of his riders for the doctor. Rod will advise the government men, now guests at the Randall ranch, of the shooting, giving his own version. He admits to Linda and Ben that Jelks got what he deserved but his fight is with Bruce. Linda flays him for his unfairness, and Rod realizes she is too independent to be his wife.

Persuasive

BILL CAIRNS tied at the far side of the Diamond Tail corral and walked around it as quietly as he could, keeping an eye alert to make sure no rider of the outfit saw him. The lights in the bunk house were already out. It was nearly eleven, and in the ranch country men go to bed early.

The big house was dark too, except for a lamp in the room Jeff called his office. Cairns tiptoed across the porch and knocked. When he opened the door he saw the ranchman's shapeless body slumped down on a chair. He had been reading the Redrock Beacon by the inadequate light of a cheap, little kerosene lamp.

"Sit down, Bill," the old man invited, and pushed a chair with his foot toward the visitor. "Anybody see you?"

"Hell, no. It's the middle of the night."

"Good." Jeff shoved a bottle and a tumbler in the direction of his guest.

The Pitchfork foreman reached for the bottle and poured the glass half full and drained it. "I've been in the saddle most of the day," he complained. "You've shot my night's sleep to pieces, but that makes no difference to you. When you whistle you expect us to come on the jump."

"Nothing like that, Bill," Jeff demurred. "I've got a piece of business to talk over, and I thought it best not to tell the whole world. What people don't know won't hurt them."

"All right. Shoot."

Randall took a little time to come to the point. He thought he had Cairns sized up correctly, but if he was making a mistake it would be a very serious one.

"I'm giving you a chance to make a hundred dollars, Bill, with very little trouble," he said.

"That's fine," jeered the foreman. "Right generous of you."

"Fact is, we've got to do something to make these government snoopers see what skunks the sod-breakers are. Maybe you don't know it, but they are moving over to stay two-three days at the Pitchfork."

"So I've heard. What about it?"

"My idea is to give them a sort of an object lesson, one they won't forget. Jolt them, kind of."

"Talk turkey," Cairns said impatiently. "This ain't a guessin' contest, is it?"

Randall tapped the table with the edge of the folded newspaper.

"Let's suppose somebody slashed Pitchfork wires, then went in and shot down a bunch of cattle, say about a dozen. Wouldn't that convince them, so they would give hell to the nesters in their report?"

Cairns stared at the humped-up ranchman with unbelieving eyes. "Goddammit!" he cried. "I'm foreman of the outfit. You askin' me to do this?"

"I'm not suggesting you throw down yore boss, Bill. This would be the best thing in the world for him if you would do it." The voice of the cattleman was suave and wheedling. "What are a dozen steers to a man who has thousands? It won't mean a thing to him. But it will mean a whole lot to Daly to have these two birds get the right idea about these nesters. You can see that."

"Why don't you shoot some of yore own stuff?" Cairns wanted to know. "You got more than the Pitchfork has."

"It ain't in human nature, Bill, for a man to destroy his own stuff," Randall explained, his manner making a virtue of it. "I thought of it, but I just couldn't do it. But if I pay you a hundred dollars Daly and I will be bearing the loss together. That's reasonable, isn't it?"

"Ask Daly if he thinks so," Cairns barked. "You're proposing

"I sell my saddle—for a hundred plunks. I can lose that much at the wheel in twenty minutes. Every man may have his price, but I'm not going to throw down my outfit for chicken feed. You must figure me cheap."

Randall moved noiselessly to the door, flung it open to make sure nobody was eavesdropping, shut it, and shuffled back to his chair. "Keep yore voice down, Bill," he admonished. "I'm not advertisin' the contract for this job." The old man leaned forward and wagged his thick forefinger at the Pitchfork foreman. "Listen. If this report goes to Washington the way I want it there is going to be a new shuffle of the deck out in this neck of the woods. Quite a few homesteaders are bound to throw up their hands and quit. I don't claim to be a prophet, but it wouldn't surprise me if one or two of them weren't missing about that time, if you know what I mean."

Cairns nodded. He knew very well. "Go on," he said. "Finish sayin' yore piece."

Randall's voice fell almost to a whisper. "How would you like to own the Quartercircle D C? It's a fine little ranch. The right man could get along fast on it. He could run a nice bunch of cows and have plenty of feed and water for them."

"I'd like it down to the ground," the dull eyes of Cairns held fast to the gross face of the ranchman. "But far as I know it isn't for sale."

"It would be—if anything happened to Sherrill. He has no near relatives. It would be flung on the market and sold for a song."

"And who would buy it?" Cairns answered his own question. "Cliff Applegate of course. He needs it bad."

"It wouldn't suit me to have Cliff get it," Randall's strong jaw clamped. There was a vindictive glare in his eyes. "I'll see it goes to a man I can trust—like you. Don't worry, Bill. I know how to pull the strings to get what I want."

The foreman did not doubt his last statement. The question was whether he would want Cairns to have the ranch. He had sons of his own he could put on it.

"Why don't you get Quint Milroy to pull off this cattle killing?" Cairns asked suspiciously.

"A fair question. I'll tell you why." The bull-necked old man's face was twisted for a moment to an expression of amused contempt. "When Quint was a boy his father ran cattle. Now get this, Bill. The doggoned fool is sentimental. He likes cows. Rubbing out a man is just business, but pumping lead into a bunch of stock is gosh-awful. He isn't tough enough for that."

Cairns rubbed his unshaven chin with the palm of his hand. It helped his slow brain to think.

"If there was a scoundrel who was dangerous to you, who went around dusting off men on our side, maybe Quint's conscience wouldn't keep him from doing a little dry-gulching," he suggested.

"I think Quint could be persuaded," Randall answered. His eyes were as cold as glacier ice.

There was no longer need to tell Cairns to keep his voice down. Both men were talking in whispers. Each looked at the other with un-winking eyes that searched for assurance. Neither trusted his fellow conspirator as far as he could throw a rope. But their interests marched together, at least for the present.

"Of course, like you say, I would be doing Daly a service if I helped bring this fight to a head in his favor," the foreman said.

"Sure you would," Randall realized the man wanted to be persuaded of this in self-justification. "No doubt about it, Bill. You have to take a long view in a matter like this. Everybody but you and me would think the nesters had shot the stock."

Cairns thought that a good idea. He developed it further. "You could have Flack warn us of the raid and I could lay a trap for the night riders. I could have some of our boys stationed near, and they could show up after the shooting. It would look as if Sherrill had to make his getaway so fast he couldn't stop to pick up the hat he had dropped."

"Fine," Randall approved. "You could work that easy. There's no moon now. Not the least bit of danger for you."

"Easy for you to say that, with you sitting here reading the Beacon while I pull off the job," Cairns grumbled. "You're always gettin' other fellows to pull yore chestnuts outa the fire. And coming down to cases, when would Quint get busy taking care of Sherrill?"

"Soon as it is safe. We'd better wait till those men go back to Washington and turn in their report. Don't worry about Sherrill. He's as good as buried right now." (Continued tomorrow)

"My beer is RHEINGOLD — the DRY beer!"

says PAT BOYD, Miss Rheingold 1945

PHOTOGRAPHS BY PAUL HESSE

1. "With this hat, I guess I should say, 'Oo-la-la!'" smiles Pat Boyd, Miss Rheingold of 1945. "But what I feel like saying after cooking over this hot fire is, 'pass the Rheingold!'"

2. "That clean, clear flavor of Rheingold—the DRY beer—is so refreshing! Rheingold is never bitter—never sweet. It's beer as beer should taste!"

Lager Beer

BREWED BY Liebmann Breweries
BREWERS FOR OVER 100 YEARS EST. 1837—IN NEW YORK 1855

It's beer as beer should taste!

DRY tells you WHY!

Rheingold is light but hearty—not bitter, not sweet. Its quality of DRYNESS lets the clean, clear, real-beer flavor come through.

Also notice Rheingold's pale crystal-clear color. This paleness is another symbol of the superior quality brewers strive for.

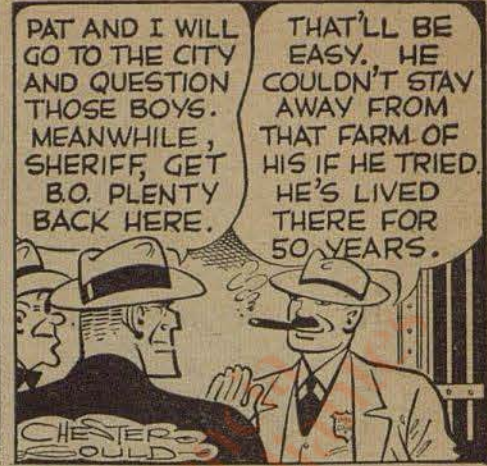

If you can't always get Rheingold remember that, until restrictions are lifted, to increase the quantity, we'd have to decrease the quality. And that we will NEVER do. Rheingold will always be beer as beer should taste.

Sugar Strike By 1,800 Called

A strike affecting nearly 1,800 sugar refinery workers in this area was scheduled to start today, but a union spokesman said yesterday that maybe "we will be able to reason with them" after they do a little V-J Day celebrating. The spokesman was John R. Owens, secretary of Local 1476 of the Sugar Refinery Workers, unit of the International Longshoremen's Association, AFL. He appeared at a War Labor Board hearing at 299 Broadway. The workers decided to strike at 8 A. M. today, against the advice of union leaders. A stoppage would affect employees of the American Sugar Refining Co.'s plant, the American Molasses Co., Brooklyn, and Refined Syrups and Sugars, Inc., of Yonkers. The workers were said to be dissatisfied with a WLB panel recommendation against any general wage increase in negotiations between refineries and union. A meeting of union shop stewards is scheduled for 10 A. M. today. Why buy two when one will do? Mail YOUR copy of The News to your family on vacation; to a son in service. Hope Emerson, one of the funniest gals in radio, who plays Mrs. Topper opposite Roland Young's "Topper," has been signed for the "Cimmarron Tavern" and "Glamor Manor" programs.

The whole world sweated out the news of Japan's surrender as rumor followed rumor over the radio that word of the war's end had been finally received. Throughout the fifth day since the first official indication through diplomatic sources that the Japs were ready to sue for peace, millions—probably the greatest listening audience in history—stayed close to their dials tensely awaiting confirmation from the White House of the Tokyo radio surrender flash.

While official news was still delayed, the Allied world went wild, and broadcasters, themselves jittery over the danger of spreading false reports, described scenes of joyous celebrations from Okinawa to Times Square. The report from Presidential Press Secretary Ross shortly after noon that the Swiss had not, as the Japs led us to believe, received the answer the whole world was waiting for cast gloom over dialers and broadcasters. Commentators tried hard not to convey their disappointment over lack of definite word, but it was plain. The nation's gaiety was tempered by doubt. As one analyst put it, "Radio Tokyo doesn't know whether it's coming or going." And that was somewhat the feeling here. We had been prepared for V-J Day, but not for five V-J Days in a row.

Penicillin Proves Effective In Chronic Bone Infection

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Many are familiar with the story of Johnny, who bumped his shin against the desk while squirming about. Since the immediate soreness subsided quickly, and there was no bleeding, he forgot the incident. In time he developed a mild aching in this region, which increased in severity until throbbing was present every time he let the leg down. Soon the surrounding tissues became puffy, red, and tender to the touch.

A physician was consulted. He arranged for X-rays which revealed a difficulty within the involved site. The bad news was "osteomyelitis"—infection in the bone.

No one knows exactly how this malady comes on. Perhaps in this case the lad was suffering from a cold or infected tonsils. On striking the leg, the resistance in that part was lowered and germs, escaping from the throat, found the bone a suitable location in which to grow.

Once the microbes have settled they begin to multiply and eventually form an abscess. Since this structure is hard and cannot swell, tension within mounts, which is responsible for the agonizing pain. If the pus is not released, infection spreads, destroying a large amount of bone. Occasionally nature provides an opening to the outside and many small pieces of decayed osseous tissue may be observed in the discharge.

Many individuals suffered for years with recurring bouts. They were operated upon and the area packed with petroleum jelly or maggots until the lesion apparently healed. All went well for several months until pain recurred, indicating a return of the disorder. The procedure was repeated over and over again until one of the operations worked, or more drastic measures were taken. One can well imagine how renewed hope was kindled with the discovery of the sulfa compounds and, later, penicillin.

The choice depends upon the causative organism. The physician may select sulfathiazole when one type is the offender; or penicillin in another. The use of these preparations does not eliminate the need for surgery, as widespread deterioration demands a combination of the two plans.

Recently, Anderson and his colleagues reported success with penicillin in 70 per cent of their cases. In some, this was done in conjunction with operation.

MISSING ACID

G. S. writes: What causes a defi-

REPLY

If the secreting glands are not stimulated properly by the nervous system, a subnormal amount may be manufactured. The condition is associated frequently with anemia, gastritis, and wasting diseases. A small percentage of the population has no hydrochloric acid at all.

REPLY

These are separate disorders and do not resemble each other except that there is nerve involvement. The former is due to lack of vitamin B and the other is an infection.

Do you feel headachy and upset due to poorly digested food? To feel cheerful and happy again your food must be digested properly.

Each day, Nature must produce about two pints of a vital digestive juice to help digest your food. If Nature fails, your food may remain undigested—leaving you headachy and irritable.

Therefore, you must increase the flow of this digestive juice. Carter's Little Liver Pills increase this flow quickly—often in as little as 30 minutes. And, you're on the road to feeling better.

Don't depend on artificial aids to counteract indigestion—when Carter's Little Liver Pills aid digestion after Nature's own order. Take Carter's Little Liver Pills as directed. Get them at any drugstore. Only 25¢.

marsh grass and marsh elder. Of these ragweed is by far the most prevalent and the most dangerous. The dwarf ragweed and the giant ragweed, out of about 20 species of ragweed, are the ones that occur in great abundance. The dwarf ragweed is a freely branched, pyramid shaped plant two to three feet high, with finely divided leaves fernlike in appearance. It grows in vacant lots and roadsides, usually in dry soil. About the middle of August the plants bear numerous greenish yellow flower spikes from which the pollen is shed. The giant ragweed, which prefers a moist soil, grows five to eight feet tall and seldom branches extensively. It has a broad leaf deeply divided into three or sometimes five lobes. It produces small pollen bearing flowers in great numbers in long spikes at the end of the stem and its branches. The simplest method to control ragweed is to cut it with a scythe or sickle. Cocklebur have broad thick leaves and short inconspicuous spikes of blossoms. Goldenrod is well known to you, I am sure, and is next to ragweed the worst hay fever annayer in the vicinity.

Housing Project Pact Is Signed

An agreement whereby four Manhattan savings banks will finance postwar construction of a $5,172,800 cooperative apartment project on the lower East Side was signed yesterday by bank representatives and city officials headed by Mayor LaGuardia at the Mayor's office. The project, to be known as the East River Co-operative Apartments, will be bounded by Grand, Willett, Delancey and Lewis Sts. and provide space for 710 family units in five 10-story buildings with 2,260 rooms.

Garden Guide

By ALVA TAYLOR

Just about now hay fever victims are in for it. A communication from the New York Botanical Garden lists the weeds which are the chief sources of this ailment and advises that steps be taken to eradicate the offending vegetation. So, even if you are not subject to this most unpleasant affliction, have pity on your fellow citizens and do what you can to rid the countryside of the weeds that are responsible for hay fever.

Plants causing the most trouble in New York and its environs are ragweed, cocklebur, goldenrod,

"MICKEY," the secret Radar Bombsight...

built by PHILCO

THE sensational story of "Mickey", the miraculous Radar Bombsight used by the Army Air Forces to demolish the Nazi industrial and war machine, has just been released. And with it, the secret war research and production story of Philco, its manufacturer.

When the need arose for large quantities of this new, secret radar bombsight, a complex device that has over 80 tubes and weighs over 300 lbs., our Army and Navy came to Philco. And Philco research engineers, working with the Radiation Laboratory at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, completed the design in record time. Philco production engineers devised the first moving conveyor lines for radar to speed the urgently needed production of "Mickey".

Mickey is a miraculous product of electronic science. It makes possible pinpoint precision bombing, day or night, in any weather, through clouds, storms or fog. Month after month, from November 1943 to V-E Day, it did more to destroy Nazi industries, transportation, fuel and military installations than any other airborne device. Gen. "Hap" Arnold, Commanding the Army Air Forces, is reported to have called it "the most important piece of equipment used by the aerial invasion forces in the invasion of France". Other high officers credit it with saving "many thousands of American lives".

WHAT'S COMING IN RADIO from the laboratories that produced this miracle of electronics?

While Mickey, built by Philco, continues its mission against Target Nippon, the Philco laboratories are preparing to turn from radar research to radio for your home. Their vital contributions to the progress of electronic science will bring you the newest developments in the enjoyment of radio and recorded music... spectacular improvements in FM and television. Yes, Philco... the leader in airborne radar today... will resume its unbroken record of leadership in radio tomorrow!

How Mickey, the Radar Bombsight, Works

Mickey radar (1) maps the land or sea over which a plane is flying, even at night or through clouds and fog; (2) shows the target on an illuminated screen and tells when to drop the bombs; (3) provides special beacon information that makes aerial navigation easy, to and from the target; and (4) warns of approaching enemy fighter planes. Mickey radar sends out super-high frequency radio waves which bounce back from solid targets and are picked up by the radar receiver and transformed into a radar picture on a screen like the one in a home television receiver.

Sure-Fire Beauty Tip —Exploit Best Point!

By ANTOINETTE DONNELLY

Are you one of those persons who wish you were prettier, had more personality, were like someone else? Have you tried imitating the sophistication in mood and dress of women who have so much more physical beauty than you have? And have you discovered that, no matter how hard you try to be different, you only succeed in being yourself, after all?

Well, here's a little tipoff on how you can really be different than you are, yet be so much yourself that you will find others wishing they were more like you! Analyze yourself from head to foot. List the points you like and the ones you don't. You can't be such a freak that there isn't one redeeming feature about you that makes up for something you lack. And with all the beauty aids at your command today you can even improve on nature's bungling handiwork.

If you haven't pretty hair, have you pretty eyes, skin or teeth? If your hands and feet are too large, have you a nice figure? If you haven't a nice figure, do you know what dress lines and colors would improve it?

If your voice isn't as pleasing in tone as you'd like it to be, try to speak correctly and try to get a friendly, pleasant ring into it. Do you try to keep from saying catty, jealous things about others? Are you thoughtful willing to lend a helping hand, kind, forgiving, understanding, interested in others, generous in complimenting others, but not in an insincere, gushy manner?

Do you try to make up for what you lack by making the most of what you have in pleasing, physical and personality traits? If a fault can be remedied, do you try hard to correct it—and keep on trying?

What IS wrong with you? Can't you overcome it? Why not? Can't you at least compensate for it by improving in other ways?

A certain actress we know is not beautiful. Yet everyone thinks she is, because of her charm and lovely character. Another celebrity does not have lovely hands, but she uses them gracefully. Get the idea? Then why not make yourself lovelier by making the most of what you have—to compensate for what you lack?

Miss Donnelly will answer letters on beauty problems. Inclose stamped, self-addressed envelope to Miss Antoinette Donnelly, The News, 220 E. 42d St., New York, 17, N. Y.

Lace Trim for Woolen Suits A Novelty That Wins Acclaim

By BETTINA BEDWELL

Harry Shacter, designer who is famous for his young clothes, brings out dressy suits this Fall nice it can be, and to show you I have chosen one of his lace-trimmed wool suits for our sketch.

This suit has a fitted jacket with a flaring peplum, something that many of the nicest Fall suits have. The skirt is slim and simple. A neckline that boasts no collar helps further to give the jacket of this model a personal character.

The lace is applied in two bands around the peplum of the jacket, and is put in in a flat, tailored way. Rich black sequin embroidery over the lace makes it richer looking.

AT YOUR SERVICE: A jumper dress is one of the first and good choices for the school wardrobe. Here is one in black and white shepherd check wool with red binding on slit pockets. The high round neck is slashed to the waistline and the skirt is shirred in front and joined to bodice by a set-in belt, $8.95. This jumper can be varied with white tailored blouse or a long-sleeved crew-neck red wool pull-over sweater costing $3.95. A softer version of the jumper comes in aqua nubby rayon-and-wool mixture cut with flange shoulders and flared skirt. The set-in belt has small silver buckle, $8.75. A royal blue wool pull-over with round neck and long sleeves makes a bright color combination, $3.95.

Write Bettina Bedwell regarding items mentioned above or any clothes problems. Send stamped, addressed envelope to Bettina Bedwell, The News, 220 E. 42d St., New York, 17, N. Y.

CHATTER!

Not so long ago famous beauties feared travel which took them too far from their favorite beauty salons . . . that was before war demands packed singers, dancers, actresses with restricted luggage supplies into overseas planes . . . the gals today can use anything that comes to hand to maintain comeliness . . . for instance, take lovely singer Carol Bruce whose visits to Marine Air Corps Base at Cherry Point, S. C., are proudly hailed . . . (she's one military secret, men say, they'd like to keep to themselves). . . . Carol's brown locks owe their shine to plain old ordinary soap that she finds everywhere . . . men don't mind when they realize her singing of love songs directed now at new hubby, Milton Nathanson of Minneapolis . . . who is faithful listener at her radio show "Sunday on the N. K. ranch." . . . another hair shine recipe comes from radio's pretty Alice Frost who suggests: "Try stuffing hairbrush inside a stocking, to give sheen to hair and bring out color and lights." J. Don't Let Parents Break Up Romance, Advice to Sailor

By DORIS BLAKE

"Ever since my return from 26 months of overseas duty I've had a disturbing problem. My parents resent the attention I give my fiancée. When I was granted a 30-day leave I immediately became engaged. I tried to be fair, and divided my time. I spent 11 days with my fiancée and 19 days at home with my folks.

"At the end of my leave I was stationed nearby, was allowed subsistence, and so was able to live at home. This should have been a happy situation. But it wasn't. My parents continued to make disparaging remarks about my girl and didn't want me to see much of her. As the result, I developed a nervous condition and am now hospitalized again. I love my parents and I love my fiancée. What shall I do? Should I return home again, or live out? Puzzled Sailor."

If you have not overdrawn the situation, Sailor, we think you should arrange to live away from home. Your parents have fallen down badly by making you homecoming unhappy. Even though they may not approve of your choice for a wife they should try to like her, for your sake. Or are you just sensitive to the fact they don't like her as well as you do?

Analyze the entire picture well. Be fair. Maybe you will discover the antagonism your parents seem to feel is nothing more than a show of great love they have for you.

Getting Obedience By Punishment Is Futile Achievement

By GLADYS BEVANS

Perhaps of all the failures reported to me by parents, the one that outnumbers all others is the failure which follows the attempt to gain obedience through some form of punishment or unpleasantness. I get this report from the mothers and fathers and nurses and relatives of near babies—of young children—of those in-between from six to 12—and of young people in their middle and late teens.

Obedience gained in these ways is usually successful—if at all—only for the moment. Even then it's negative. Nothing is learned by it. And sooner or later, if you have succeeded in governing your child by a system of punishments and deprivations, you'll have to give this up. You can't very well go on spanking or scolding or domineering over the young girl or youth who is getting on toward young womanhood or manhood. It's all a short-sighted way of gaining or attempting to gain obedience.

On the other hand, the way of gaining obedience that we've been describing for some time past, is based on the long view. With the principles it uses it becomes a teaching process. Under it your child learns, grows, matures. Because of its principles, you can use that system of gaining obedience all through your son's or daughter's life—with of course some surface changes to suit his or her change in years.

We've been talking a lot about obedience lately because it looms so large in our correspondence. We've looked at it from many angles, but chiefly from that of the management of the young child. Before finishing today's talk I want to advise you who have teen age sons and daughters to apply some of these principles in gaining the cooperation (or obedience) of these older children.

"Understanding the Adolescent" is a booklet of interest to parents and nurses. Send a stamped, addressed envelope for it. Address Mrs. Gladys Bevans, The News, 220 E. 42d St., New York, 17, N. Y.

Questions about the draft and military service may be submitted in person, by letter or by telephone. All will be given personal answers, and those of general interest will be answered in this column daily. Address: Service Men's Service, The News, 220 E. 42d St., New York, 17, N. ACTIVE SERVICE

After being in active service about two and a half months, I was classified for limited service and have been in the Army about a year and a half. Does that exempt me from the GI Bill of Rights education plan, which calls for 90 days of active service?

Pvt. R. M.

Men in uniform who receive their monthly pay are considered on active military duty. The GI Bill of Rights requires 90 days of active service, that is, service in a pay status. Men who are assigned to limited service duties are not denied benefits under the GI Bill of Rights. If you were under 25 years of age when you entered service, or if your education was interrupted by your induction or enlistment, you are already entitled not only to a year's training, which you have earned by being in the service for 90 days, but also to additional training equal to the year and a half you have spent in service. The maximum amount of education offered is four years.

Suit to Avoid Tolls Beaten

A taxpayer's suit, aimed at stopping Westchester County from collecting a proposed 10-cent toll from motorists using the Hutchinson River and Saw Mill River Parkways, was dismissed yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Charles W. U. Sneed in White Plains.

However, dismissal of the suit, which was brought by members of the Automobile Club of New York, doesn't mean the County Park Commission will start collecting, it was said. Attorneys for the taxpayers already have announced appeal to the Appellate Division of the Second Department, Supreme Court, Brooklyn. The case may be tested eventually in the U.S. Supreme Court.

Justice Sneed held that the contemplated toll "is not such a charge as Congress intended should be prohibited by the Federal Highway Law" and that it would not discriminate against interstate commerce.

Taylor Doubts Wave of Strikes

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14 (AP).—War Labor Board Chairman George W. Taylor expressed confidence today that V-J Day won't touch off an epidemic of strikes. Taylor added his views to those of AFL President William Green and CIO President Philip Murray to the effect that expiration of the no-strike pledge with victory over Japan will not be followed by a strike wave.

HAPPY ENDING

By PAUL ELLERBE

(Copyright 1945 by New Syndicate Co. Inc.)

It was all over now and the two of them—Chris Vlakos and Stanley Trenton, buddies, ex-soldiers—were facing a strange city that once they had thought they knew all about.

They thought now that maybe the life of a city, human relationships, joy-and-sorrow, patriotism, love, things of that kind, were like the earth. Three years ago, when they had both been eighteen, all the earth they had bothered much about had been parts of this one place, but now that they could look back upon North Africa, Sicily, Italy, Normandy and several of the seven seas, they felt that the earth was a very large and variegated place they had barely begun to get acquainted with.

There was one part of this, their city, though, that one of them, Chris, really did know about, and that was his home, a decent little house, filled with decent little people, on a decent little street. Chris knew that, give him time, he could slip back into that and knit into his old self again, as the end of a broken bone knits into the other end. Stan, on the other hand, had really no old self to be rejoined. He had never succeeded in making a whole and integrated thing of his life. He had dreamed of a life like Chris', centering around a warm, little, important place where he was certainly expected, where he mattered a lot and which mattered to him.

ALL HE HAD WAS ORPHANAGE MEMORY

All he had had in place of a home had been the West Side Orphan Asylum, his entry into which at the age of four he dimly remembered. He had been placed there by a father who had just left Stan's mother, and whether that mother were living now he didn't know, nor even in what place she had been when he and his father left her. Nor anything else, clearly, about his infantile past, except that he had had two little baby sisters when he left home and that they had died. For his father, too, had died six months after the child's enrollment in the orphanage, leaving money enough for Stan's keep for ten years, but no information about the past.

At fourteen Stanley Trenton had stepped into the world, his first job and his first friendship. The job had been with the firm Chris worked for and Chris had been the friend. They had stuck together ever since. It had never been exactly Stan's world at any time, but it would have been immensely worse without the Greek boy; and then—as of a more recent date—no world at all, for Chris Vlakos had saved his life in Sicily. Which little debt had been handsomely liquidated when Stan saved Chris' life, and the lives of nine other men in Normandy.

They had indeed, been through hell and high water together. And now here they were.

Chris had had letters all through the hell-and-high-water, and Stan had read them too and dreamed constantly—because a fellow has to dream of something—of Chris's mother and father and sister, who had written them, and of their quiet little house on its quiet little street. Stan had only a friend's place in that set-up, but he had nothing anywhere else, and now he wanted to go home with Chris so bad he could taste it.

But Chris wasn't going home.

Principal Characters

It took the war and the help of his overseas buddy, CHRIS VLAKOS, to bring STANLEY TRENTON and his mother, whom he had lost in childhood, together again. Stanley had thought he was coming back to a typical lonely orphan boy's existence but instead he found the home he so desired.

Chris was changing trains here in his own home town and going straight through to Burrowsville, he said, because a G. I. who was still in Germany and who had served with Chris during the six months he and Stan had been separated had given him a photograph of his mother in Burrowsville (just to prove how nice she was) and asked him to go to see her. Chris wanted to do it immediately, so that when he did go home it would be off his mind. Stan didn't have to tag along, of course, but that's what he was doing.

"Chris," he said in the Union Station as they shouldered their way through the crowd for the Burrowsville train, "I got a funny feeling you're the only guy I know in the whole U. S. A."

Chris gave him that brilliant smile of his, that had remained undimmed through everything.

"Yeah. Lots of us are feeling that way. Take me, now, and Mom and Pop and Leda—if I phoned 'em up, they'd answer all right from over there on Grant St., but it wouldn't be real. Lookit all these people: None of 'em's real but you—yet. It'll be different later on."

The truth was that the only place where Stan ever had been really at home was in the other boy's heart, but both of them would have popped their eyes at the thought of such a thing.

On the street car in Burrowsville Chris showed Stan the photograph of the mother of the G. I. in Germany.

"She's nice looking," he said; and Stan said, "Umm-hmm."

But after a while Stan asked to see the picture again. There was something about the face that attracted him. He lost himself looking at it.

"What's the guy like who gave it to you?"

"I like him," Chris said. "Maybe some folks wouldn't, but I do."

"Is he sick or wounded or anything?"

"Nope. He's okay."

"I'm glad," Stan said soberly, looking again at the guy's nice mother.

"Put it in your pocket for me," Chris said. "I've pretty nearly busted mine, with all the junk I've crammed into 'em."

Stan put the photograph into his pocket.

"I won't go in with you," he said when they got off the car and were walking along a quiet street very much like the street Chris' people lived on. "I'll just wait outside."

"Aw, come on in and help me out. Me and a strange dame! What'll I say to her?"

"What did the guy want you to say? Haven't you got a message or something?"

"Just that he's all right. You know how women are about wanting to see somebody that's honest-to-God been with their son or brother or husband, and talked to 'em face to face. It's somehow different from letters, even if the fellow that comes is dumb like me and can't tell 'em much. Maybe you can help me think of something to say."

MOTHER LIKE THAT! STAN MARVELLED

God a'mighty! Stan was thinking. If a fellow was going back to a mother who looked like that! A mother of his very own, and she looked like that! He wanted to meet the unknown man's mother, and yet he didn't. He liked her face. But he knew he was likely to get to daydreaming about it and he thought he daydreamed too much anyhow. He had thought the war would cure him of that, but it had made him worse. He was lonely enough to die. He was lonelier than he had been overseas. The whole thing was over now and he had come back to—what?

To get his mind off that, he said he'd go in with Chris.

The first thing he saw in the pretty, neat, little parlor to which a servant admitted them was his own picture—the one he had had taken for Chris' mother when he enlisted. There was his writing across the corner of it: "With love for Mrs. Vlakos from Stan." He was standing there staring at it when the woman whose picture he had in his pocket came in, and suddenly—who can say how?—he knew why he liked her face so much.

"You're my mother, aren't you?" he said, pale as paper.

She nodded silently. She was pale, too, and her eyes were full of tears. She couldn't speak.

"I didn't tell him," Chris said. "I didn't tell him anything. Did I, Stan?"

"No," Stan said and sat down weakly on a chair.

And then Chris said that he had written to the Veterans' Administration for help in finding Stan's mother, on the chance that she was still alive, and that she had written them too, on the chance that her son was in the Army; and Chris ducked out and left them alone together.

How they worked their way toward each other across the years, the pain, the mistakes and the loneliness, the beginning of another story. A long story and a complicated one. It is still going on, but already it is plain that it is going to have a happy ending.

THE END.

Nancy's Daily Dish

For the Busy Housewife

By NANCY DORRIS

Sometimes that boneless piece of beef, the flank steak, shows up in the neighborhood butcher shop.

The steak is often thicker at one end than the other but the defect can be remedied by cutting the thick portion into two slices with a sharp knife. Cooking in moist heat, with a little acid like tomato, tenderizes the steak done en casserole.

Steak Rolls

One and one-fourth pounds flank steak, cut into portions
One and one-half teaspoons salt
One-eighth teaspoon pepper
One tablespoon fat, or more
Browning time: Ten minutes
Six small carrots, or more
One-fourth cup minced onions
One-fourth cup minced parsley
One cup tomato sauce or puree
One small leaf sweet basil

Simmering time: Two and one-half hours, or until tender
Servings: Six

Wipe the steak with a damp cloth; if quite thick at one end, cut into two thinner slices, using a sharp knife. Cut the steak into six or more squares or serving portions. Sprinkle both sides with mixed salt and pepper. Brown lightly in hot fat in a heavy skillet. Cool.

Wash the carrots and trim to fit the meat squares, reserving any leftover pieces of carrot. Put a trimmed carrot at one side of each meat square; sprinkle with minced onion and parsley; roll tight; secure with toothpicks and tie with cord. Place in a casserole with the tomato sauce or puree, basil and any pieces of carrot. Cover; simmer over a low flame, turning several times, until very tender. Taste; rectify the seasoning. If necessary, add a bit of hot water now and then.

Dress the meat rolls upon a heated platter; discard the cord and toothpicks. Pour the sauce around them. Serve at once.

Tenants Routed By Gas Suicide

A gas explosion which resulted when a 36-year-old waitress took her own life in the kitchen of her first floor apartment at 1650 Third Ave., between 92d and 93d Sts., shattered windows and knocked tenants out of bed in the five-story apartment house at 6 A. M. yesterday. Police said four burners of a gas range were found open in the apartment of the waitress, Anna Peterson, and that a pilot light had touched off the fumes. Miss Peterson's body, clad in nightclothes, was found on the floor.

Washington's wildest rumor, while awaiting official word on the surrender, is that Emperor Hirohito has committed hara-kiri, and the Japanese nation is in a state of uncontrollable confusion. . . . Didn't Secretary Byrnes on Aug. 10 make it clear that "under an agreement," the President in person would tell all the news on the surrender situation? . . . Now it is being said that Gen. Eisenhower may wind up as our Ambassador to Russia. . . . When the time comes for the U. S. to decide whether or not Russia is to get the atomic bomb secret, President Truman will sidestep the decision and put it up to Congress. . . . One oddity no one mentioned is that the bomb dropped on Hiroshima, if the figures are reliable, killed more people than the entire German blitz on England. . . . And no one has pointed out that the Land of the Rising Sun is headed for destruction via the power of the sun.

Police Commissioner Valentine will be the first to deny that he is due to resign right after V-J Day. . . . The black marketeers and other bigtime "cash" operators are quaking in their boots over the story, out of Washington, that currency over $10 will be called in after the first of the year and safety deposit boxes opened for investigation. . . . Gold Treasury notes, which were called in years ago, are suddenly popping up around town, brought back to this country by returning GIs. . . . Washington's population is expected to increase instead of decline after V-J Day because of the terrific influx of lobbyists who want to get on the postwar bandwagon. . . . One postwar problem is what to do with the $22,000 in royalties due Adolf Hitler on his best-seller, "Mein Kampf." . . . Princeton University goes on the air Aug. 19 for the first time with a weekly series of broadcasts on world topics, the broadcasts to take place from Woodrow Wilson's former office here. First subject: The Atomic Bomb.

Lieut. Bobby Melo, nephew of the Colony's Gene Cavallero and the father of a two-weeks-old son, has been killed in an air crash over Greenland. . . . Sam Barrymore Colt, just out of the Army, has joined the Edward Small talent agency, which handles his mother, and uncle, Lionel. . . . Luthero Vargas, son of the President of Brazil and just out of the Brazilian Air Force, is doing the town these nites with Gloria Youngblood. . . . The Tommy Dorsey's (Pat Dane) will adopt an infant. . . . Tennis champ Frank Parker, who has been stationed at Guam, will be back here in time to defend his title at Forest Hills. Parker is now a sergeant in the Air Corps. . . . A national advertising agency and a highly-publicized model may have to get legal advice on how to dispose of their contract since she is about to become a mother.

Hollywood is waiting until the atomic bomb sensation dies down to announce its own startling innovation—three-dimensional films, for which all the producers are vying to get exclusive rights. . . . While vacationing in Beverly Hills, Col. Serge Obolensky, born Russian prince, conferred with "Prince" Michael Romanoff, born Harry Gerguson, about opening a Romanoff restaurant in Washington, D. C. . . . One of General DeGaulle's reasons for coming to the U. S. at this particular time is to attend the graduation from pre-flight school in Chapel Hills, N. C., of his son 23-year-old Philippe, a lieutenant (j.g.) in the French Navy, who strikingly resembles his pappy. . . . A communication system from Alaska to Russia, started and abandoned just before Alaska became a U. S. territory, will now become an actuality, though under different auspices. . . . Emerson Radio is launching the largest newspaper advertising campaign in radio history, starting next week.

Broadway is due for a big face-lifting job, with five advertising agencies competing to get the best location sites for huge ads. . . . Second Avenue is due for a glamorizing treatment. . . . In the excitement of the phony peace announcement, bolts of expensive ribbon and even whole dresses were flung out of skyscraper windows in the garment district. . . . To get around the transportation restrictions, the advance agent for "Angel Street" is arranging for the show to go on the road next season by bus and truck. . . . "Package shows," a term hitherto applied to radio, are now being booked on the one-nite concert circuit. First, headed by Beatrice Kay, debuts in Boston next month.

Chapman's Post War World Calls for A Well-Made Theatre

By JOHN CHAPMAN

Each of us has his own postwar plan. We want a jeep, or a refrigerator, or an electric iron, or a television set. Yesterday, dreaming of the tentative new world to come, I decided I wanted a theatre.

Not a theatre for personal use, understanding; not a place in which to show off, but just a place to go and see a show. Comfortable, clean, properly heated and properly cooled, and giving the impression that it is so well designed that even the actors are living in luxurious dressing suites. I'm tired of actors coming on the stage looking dirty, sweaty and weary because they have had to change clothes in a roach-ridden, paint-barren closet that no two self-respecting brooms would sweep together in.

17-Year Shortage.

The theatre shortage has been upon us for 17 years to my personal knowledge. Our playhouses in this time have grown older and dirtier and less modern, and now there are only a half-dozen places in the Broadway zone which are pleasant to invade, regardless of what drama or musical may shortly be unveiled within.

But, I continued in my day-dream yesterday, who is going to put up my new theatre—or, better, two dozen of them? Who will risk the cost and the taxes, and the chance that his brave new joint will remain dark most of the time because of a long run of flops?

Upon arrival at the store yesterday I shucked out of the day-dream and prepared to go to work, and the first thing that turned up on the desk was a letter from Howard S. Cullman, best-known and most successful investor in the stage. Mr. Cullman, with no inconsiderable assistance from his wife, can be counted upon to have a share of most of Broadway's hits, and his purchases have given him more fun and possibly more profit in proportion than his tobacco and banking business.

Cullman Has Plans

Mr. Cullman, in addition to being an investor in stage productions, has also become a buyer of theatrical real estate. He is interested in the Hudson Theatre, and next year he and a group will take over the lovely Hammerstein Theatre at Broadway and 53d, which is now a home for radio commercials and their incidental attempts at entertainment.

"The average theatre," says Mr. Cullman, "is a real estate investment, and since the establishment of many of these theatres the motion picture has become increasingly popular. In many large cities theatres are being acquired for road-showing of feature pictures at extended runs, as well as by radio corporations. . . . As an investor in the theatre, obviously the best return can be received by twelve months of continuous revenue, without closing in the Summer.

"I believe the shortage of theatres will be accentuated unless those interested in the stage will construct theatres completely air-conditioned and plan productions which, from a real estate investment standpoint, can compete on a 12-month basis with motion pictures as well as sponsored radio programs.

Legit and Movies.

"In the final analysis, the theatre today interlocks in many ways with motion picture companies. It is not inconceivable that the interest of the motion picture companies in the theatre will eventually mean a dual policy as to availability of theatrical productions as well as screen fare intermittently, which to date has not been experimented with."

I think what Mr. Cullman means is that we must have new playhouses, and that we can, as real estate investors, make them pay off by switching from plays to movies as conditions indicate.

Perhaps we can—but I doubt it. Give a movie company an inch and it will take the Third Ave. El. But I do think that the legitimate theatre all by itself can support and make profitable a number of new houses—if these houses are built for complete comfort Winter or Summer.

Wouldn't it be nice, in the post-war world, to go to a show with live actors in it and not have to jostle through one little door where one little guy is trying to take all the little tickets all at once?

Wouldn't it be nice to have a seat you could recline in? And hang your hat under? And to be able to go have a smoke at intermission without being stomped on in the aisles going out? To be able to breathe? And, even, to be able to see and hear?

Hope for Increase In UNRRA Fund

London, Aug. 14 (AP).—Delegates to the third conference of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration expressed hope today that a greatly increased amount of relief supplies would be available after the war ends. Concern was expressed by officials of the international agency, however, over whether the difficulty of obtaining funds and materials would increase at the same time that huge new areas needing help were opened to the Allies. The United States has introduced a resolution calling for UNRRA aid to Korea and Formosa.

Betsy for Julie

Eddie Dowling and Louis J. Singer have signed Betsy Blair to understudy Julie Haydon in "The Glass Menagerie." Miss Blair, wife of the hoofing movie star, Gene Kelly, will have Miss Haydon's role in the West Coast company.

Van Druten's Next

John van Druten's new play, "The Mermaids Singing," goes into rehearsal at the end of September. The script, formerly known as "Home Ground," is on the Alfred de Liagre Jr. schedule.

A Friend in Need

SALLY JOY BROWN

Clothing You Can Spare Will Help Make This Group Happy

After trying to manage on a greatly reduced income for some time, Mrs. C. P. has been forced to ask for aid. If the clothing needs of her family were provided, her worries would be considerably lessened. She writes: "You have helped so many that I, too, am coming to ask for help. I am the mother of five children and my husband has not been working steadily because of chest trouble. He has to take so much time off and doesn't get paid. It has got to the point now that we are all desperately in need of clothing. My daughters wear 16 (2), 14, 8, shoes 8½, 8, 6½, 1; my son 12, shoes 2; my husband, 46, shoes 8½, and I wear 50, shoes 7½. If you can help us in any way, we would be ever grateful to you." Can you spare any apparel for this needy family? We'll be glad to send the address upon request.

Take This 7-Toed Kitty

A brown police-chow dog, obedient, not destructive, very good with children, needs space to romp, is the kind offer of M. F. ... "I have an adorable 3-month-old white kitten, clean, smart, playful, has seven toes on one front paw, six on the other, to give to someone who loves cats," writes H. M.

Be sure to address the DONOR (as given above) in my care, if either offer appeals. Do not address it merely to me—for letters are forwarded direct to the donors, who choose and notify the recipients.

If in need, I may be able to help you. If you have clothing or furniture you no longer use, let me place it with needy families. Do not inclose letters with packages unless they are sent by first-class mail. Names and addresses of applicants for aid provided. Send full name, News, 220 E. 42d St., New York, and address to Sally Joy Brown, The 17, N. Y.

Today's Watchword—An unexpected present is a grand thing—even if it is just a trifle. This is the meaning of today's message of giving freely. "I am in the habit of looking not so much to the nature of a gift as to the spirit in which it was offered," said Robert Louis Stevenson, and he was right. Why wait for stated days to give elaborate remembrances? It is more surprising and better remembered when you bring a small token of affection at a time when no one is looking for such deeds.

Little Old NEW YORK

By ED SULLIVAN

"Come to Nippon for the experience of a lifetime, one that will stand alone among your travel recollections." To that bid from the 1939 World's Fair magazine distributed by the Japanese Chamber of Commerce, ex-Corp. Elmer J. Cooper retorts, "We'll be there, suckers, we'll be there." . . . In that same magazine, Cooper notes, the Japs bragged: "Japanese scientists have invented the Cyclotron, an atom-smasher!" . . . Frontispiece of the Japanese Chamber of Commerce magazine showed Miss Japan presenting Grover Whalen with the Flame of Friendship. . . . B-29s threw it back at them!

Say, Harvest Moon champs may be booked into Loew's Tokyo and Loew's Berlin. . . . On this day, a letter from Mrs. Wendell Willkie, asking for support of the Riverdale Colored Children's Association. . . . As a follow-up to recent column requests from widows and mothers for pictures of the graves of their heroic slain, David E. Hoffberg, president Marine Fathers' Association, tells all Marine relatives to write to him, 77th Division Clubhouse, 28 E. 39th St., New York City. . . . Lieut. Frank Gandler, who escaped from a German prison camp, asks this column to continue to urge Congress to get photos of all United States graves; points out that German families received such pictures "and on the reverse side, a picture of the slain German soldier, all pertinent data about his death and a small prayer." . . . Mrs. E. A. Bosch says that her chaplain husband, Major Edmund A. Bosch, Yankee Division, made this same suggestion to chief of chaplains. No answer.

Whatever happened to the Congressional Medal of Honor suggested by U. S. S. Franklin's Capt. Gehres for Comdr. Joseph T. Callahan, asks Pfc. William T. Davis. . . . Golf balls by Christmas. . . . Luther Vargas, out of Brazilian uniform, dating Gloria Youngblood. . . . Darryl Zanuck first to announce an atom bomb flicker, disguised under an FBI slant. . . . Garwood Van clicking at Plaza Persian Room and doing O. K. with Miriam Lavelle. . . . Bill Saroyans (Carol Marcus) expect another Stork call in February. . . . Sigrid Lassen will become Mrs. Charles Eisman Jr. . . . Loretta and Col. Tom Lewis write me that the baby was named Peter Charles (the names of my dad and brother). . . . Japanese surrender news blacking out Montreal air con-fab of 20 Allied nations. . . . Government wires to stop war production already in delivery. . . . Army rejected Dick Haymes after that Governors Island siege. . . . Note to Brad Dresser: Call me.

Backstage at "Carousel," Jan Clayton shows me a letter from her Dad. The Clayton home at Tula Rose, N. M., was badly shaken by the atom bomb trial in the desert, second big explosion to rock the Clayton house. First shock came when daughter Jane, her right tag, scored an overnight smash in the Theatre Guild show in her Broadway debut. . . . How did it happen? On the Coast, at a cocktail party, Sid Herzig told visiting Theresa Helburn that the Clayton girl would be a natural for the Julie Jordan role and introduced them. . . . Miss Helburn asked Arthur Schwartz to render an opinion on Jan's voice and she sang "Smoke Gets In Your Eyes" as an audition. . . . Weeks later, Miss Helburn wired Benny Thau to send on Jan to N. Y., 1,000,000-to-1 shot that came through. . . . How'd she become Jan, instead of Jane? Warner's had Jane Bryant, Jane Wyman under contract, suggested Jan.

Atomic bomb developer Prof. H. C. Urey resigning from Columbia U. for a big Chicago assignment. . . . Despite the frantic denials, my scoop on the Winter Garden going to flickers has been confirmed, completely. . . . Ditto the prediction here that Frank Hogan, District Attorney, would take over Al Smith's spot in N. Y. War Fund. . . . Poles in the U. S. will snub Polish Provisional Government representatives when they arrive. . . . Trained observers say that the Spanish militarists, strongly royalist will force Franco to change the government (Separatists losing ground). . . . By a quick shift, U. S. redeployment centers could be stepped up to handle 1,000,000 discharges per month. . . . Latin Quarter busted all records this week. . . . Dick Brown weds Nancy Norman, of Sammy Kaye's crew, Sept. 6. . . . Correction, please: Irv Cahn coined Japanese first. . . . Honeymooning: at Oregon, the Cyrus Adlers (Caroline Berg); in New Hampshire, the Lieut. Bud Mayers (Nanette Steinhauser). . . . Daughter for the Capt. Cards Shade Dodgers, 2-1, on Kurowski's HR

By Jack Smith

The battle for second place raged to a bitter conclusion at Ebbets Field yesterday as 18,611 citizens of the rabid borough watched their favorites keel over, 2-1, before the Cards in the finale of the four-game series. Whitey Kurowski's home run, with two down in the ninth, made futile the brilliant efforts of young Ralph Branca. He allowed only three hits and struggled heroically to keep Dodger pennant embers aflame.

Following their knockdown, dragout struggle of Monday, this was a refreshing duel between Branca and southpaw Harry Brecheen. The

Giants Thrash Reds, 5-2; Bid 'Em Sad Farewell

By Dick Young

And so, with a tear in our eye, we bid farewell to Cincinnati. The Giants enjoyed having them visit the Polo Grounds this year—hated to see them leave yesterday afternoon after having submitted to another 5-2 beating that made it a complete sweep of the four-game series and nine New York victories in the 11 annual meetings neath Coogan's Bluff.

Too bad Cincy can't stay around a while longer to extend its 11-game losing string and ensure the Giants' first-division efforts, but they've done their bit and now the other teams want a crack at them—want to pitch against that creampuff Cincy power and hit against some of Mike Modak's pitching the Jints enjoyed yesterday.

COLLEGIAN ROUTED

The Reds, figuring they're not going any place and in a hurry, gave their bullnecked Indiana collegian his first starting chance yesterday to see what he could do. They had to look fast because Modak was around for only three innings. In this time the Jints banged him for five hits and all the runs necessary for their fifth straight victory.

Thereafter, ancient Hod Lisenbee, who wears No. 42 on his back and is two years older than that, gave the college youngster a post-graduate lesson on how it should be done by spreading three harmless singles the rest of the way.

But stringy Sal Maglie, didn't need any more to make his first major league start a success. Given the soft-sticking Reds as a soothing teething ring, the rookie right hander turned in a handy eight-hit job, experiencing a bit of discomfort only in the fourth when he was touched for both Red runs. It is hoped Maglie doesn't form the impression that the rest of the league will be as easy.

GIVEN 5-0 LEAD

The Giants' new spaghetti and curveball bender had the happy experience of being presented with a quick 5-0 lead on which to glide home. He picked up a two-run edge in the first on passes to Rucker and Hausmann and singles by Gardella and Lombardi. Two innings later, the Gints packed it away with three more markers as Ott walked, Gardella and Lombardi singled, and Schemer doubled to left-center—all with two out.

Just to keep Maglie from believing he had too soft a touch, the Reds raised their two-run rumpus in the next stanza when, also with two out, Miller singled, Mesner drove a double to right-center, continued to third as Kerr heaved high over Lombardi's head in a futile play for Miller at the plate, and trotted over as Tipton delivered a pinch-single for Modak. Then the Reds went back into character for the rest of the day, never getting more than one single an inning.

DIAMOND DUST: Happy ending department: Roy Zimmerman, ending his five-day holdout seige for a bonus, phoned Ott yesterday and will join the Jints this afternoon. . . Johnny Hudson, giving a rest to Billy Jurges, who had given a rest to Nap Reyes, started his first game of year at third. And Lil' Mr. Chips did a grand job of leaping for Clay's liner to end the Red's fourth-frame rally, and reached nicely into the third base boxes for McCormick's foul pop in fifth. . . Schemer pulled something, somewhere, while beating out a hit in the sixth. He hopped around like a madman, but after a few deep knee-bends, stayed in the game. . . Giants are now 15-4 on their season's play with Reds, and look forward eagerly to the final three meetings in Cincy.

Bergamo Slides for Exercise

Bergamo of Cards slides desperately into second base at Ebbets Field in third inning yesterday, but it is all in vain. Stanky has fielded Schoendienst's grounder and hustled ball to Brown, who plants his foot on bag before Bergamo's spikes nick it.

Card lefty was touched for five hits, but, after yielding a run on Dixie Walker's single in the first inning, he clamped down and fended aside each scoring threat the Dodgers mustered.

Errors again spoiled the desperate efforts of the Dodgers.

Pitching no-hit ball for the first five frames, Branca was tagged for a leadoff double by Ray Sanders in the sixth. Even so, he would have survived the inning except for errors by Stanky and Brown.

CHANCES LOST

Following the double, he retired O'Dea on a fly to Olmo. Stanky then booted a grounder by Verban which moved Sanders to third. He still almost pulled out, disposing of Pep Young on a foul pop to Sandlock, but Brownie juggled Brecheen's easy grounder. He missed an easy play at second and, after recovering the ball, his throw to first just failed to catch Brecheen for what should have been the third out.

Sanders, of course, scored on that play, and the run matched the only one the Dodgers scored off Brecheen. With one out in the first, Rosen drew a pass and went to second on a passed ball. Galan grounded out but Walker laced one through the middle and Rosen crossed the plate.

It looked like a big run as Branca, overcoming early wildness, turned back the Cards' inning after inning until the sixth. They couldn't do much with him even after that. He blanked them again in the seventh and again in the eighth despite a leadoff double by Ken O'Dea.

Branca walked Verban following that double. Young sacrificed the runners along, but neither Brecheen nor Bergamo could get a run home.

WHITEY COLLECTS

There was no indication of a break in his superb pitching as he retired Schoendienst and Adams in the ninth. But he got behind on Kurowski, and, when the count reached three balls and one strike, he came in with the fat pitch which Whitey deposited in the lower stands in left center. It was his 17th of the season and his sixth at Ebbets Field.

The Dodgers had few scoring chances after the first. Walks filled the bases with two out in fourth when Sandlock failed. Galan's leadoff walk in the sixth went to waste, and, in the eighth, when Galan and Walker singled with one down, Olmo lined out to Young and Stevens flied to Bergamo. And in the ninth a final chance went to waste after Brown's leadoff single.

DIAMOND DUST: Walker again was the defensive hero with a great one-handed catch on Sanders' wicked liner to fence with one on n seventh. . . Stevens was his closest rival with a couple of fine catches on wide throws by Galan and Brown. . . Galan removed from the lineup in eighth because

Happy Calls Baseball To Special Meeting

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14 (P).—Believing their war-time worries almost over, baseball's bigwigs today began turning their attention to postwar development. Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler has called a two-day meeting, starting tomorrow, of major and minor league officials who make up the game's postwar committee.

Baseball hopes to get off to a running start on a broad peacetime expansion program that will revive leagues which stopped play during wartime and organize many new small minor leagues.

Fitting into this pattern for probable discussion if not formal action in the meetings here are such subjects as making more room in baseball for returning veterans, giving the game back to corner-lot boys and general problems.

LEAGUE HEADS TO ATTEND

Heads of both major leagues, Ford Frick, National, and Will Harridge, American; William G. Bramham, boss of the minors, and Leslie M. O'Connor, special assistant to Chandler, will attend the meetings along with these club and league representatives:

AMERICAN LEAGUE—Alva Bradley, Cleveland; Clark Griffith, Washington; Thomas Yawkey, Boston, and Benjamin Firey, attorney, Detroit.

NATIONAL LEAGUE—Branch Rickey, Brooklyn; Sam Breadon, St. Louis; Warren Giles, Cincinnati, and Horace Stoneham, New York.

MINOR LEAGUES—George M. Trautman, American Association; Thomas H. Richardson, Eastern; Earl Mann, Southern; Charles H. Graham, Pacific Coast; Frank D. Lawrence, Piedmont, and Arthur Ehlers, Inter-State.

Yanks Yearn for Quick Return of Army Stars

By Joe Trimble

Detroit, Aug. 14.—With the war over, reconversion is the first thought in this town, which for so long has contributed to the strengthening of the sinews of the armed forces. So, it is perhaps appropriate that the first thoughts of reconversion of the Yankees should be born here. They were today, with manager Joe McCarthy and the players talking and thinking how soon such greats as Joe DiMaggio, Charley Keller and Spud Chandler will be back.

STILL HAS PENNANT HOPE

Just the thought of having such as DiMag and Keller back in time for the 25-game home stand in September brought a happy smile to McCarthy's noble Irish puss. Despite the horrible series here in which they lost four straight and were lucky enough to have the fifth rained out today, McCarthy continues to believe that the Yankees have a chance to win the pennant. Though he admits that it will take more talent than his present players possess.

The discharge of DiMaggio for physical reasons (duodenal ulcer) was imminent even before the Japs quit. Joe was last reported in a St. Petersburg, Fla., hospital. Keller, a purser in the Maritime Service with the rank of ensign, is on a four of sea duty but a short one, and it is likely that he'll be discharged soon. Chandler, the Yanks last 20-game winner (in '43), has perhaps less chance of a quick discharge than the other two. He is a limited service soldier stationed in recreation work at a North Carolina camp. He lacks any overseas service and may have to wait his turn in the lengthy demobilization process. This may take a while, for men with combat and foreign service will properly get first consideration as the discharge mills grind slowly along.

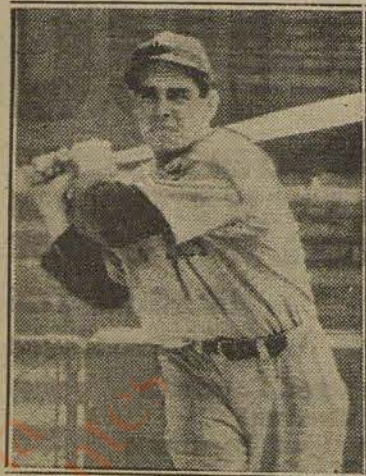

WAR NEWS VITAL

Anyway, it is definite that today's momentous war news means a great deal to the Yankee ball club. Hardest hit of all the big league outfits by selective service, the Yanks contributed 29 players to the armed forces. Included were almost all the greats, and of the 29, only pitcher Red Ruffing and catcher Aaron Robinson have come back.

One thing is definite. By next Spring all those who went away will be back, with the possible exception of outfielder Johnny Lindell, who was inducted only last June and may have to sweat it out awhile. And, therefore, many of the present players who have submerged the club in their own mediocrity will be gone. Probably as many as 15 of the players who step out at Sportsman's Park in St. Louis tomorrow night will be seeing the place for the last time as Yankees.

Ruffing, incidentally, will start against the Brownies, and this will be the first night game of his big-league career. He'll be trying to preserve his spotless 3-0 record in the opener of the four-game series.

DIAMOND DUST: — Today's game will be played as part of a double-header in New York. This means that Tigers will be at Stadium for seven-game series in five days, beginning Sept. 4. . . . Tigers have 14 double-headers left to 17 for the Senators, and local opinion is that the extra three twin bills are apt to mean loss of pennant by Washington. . . . Return of DiMag, Keller and Tommy Henrich, who has been a Coast Guardsman since September, 1942, will reunite baseball's greatest outfield. . . . McCarthy has a mean bruise on his right arm. While resting on his up-State New York farm a couple of weeks ago, a tree fell on him. . . . A well-wisher told Joe not to let things get him down and he answered, "Oh, well, they've been trying to get me down for years but I always bounce back." . . . Yanks play 21 games at home against Western teams in September. . . . The rest of this trip, on which they've won only two of eight, comprises four single games in St. Louis and six in Chicago, including two double-headers.

Pick Cobb Squad For Ruth Game

A squad of 16 players was named yesterday for Ty Cobb's Western team which will meet a Babe Ruth-managed Eastern squad in the Esquire All-American game at the Polo Grounds, Aug. 8. A late change in the list was occasioned by the withdrawal of Dick Mitchell, standout pitcher from Miles City, Mont., who forfeited the trip because of a possible conflict with a sectional tourney in his home town next week. He was replaced by Herbert Plews of Helena, Mont.

Three other hurlers have been picked for the squad. They are John Finch, Houston, Tex.; Bernard Danze, Omaha, Neb.; and George Fisher, Ogden, Utah.

Signed for Garden

Sonny Horne, Akron middleweight, and Artie Levine, Brooklyn, have been matched for a 10-round bout at Madison Square Garden, Aug. 31, promoter Mike Jacobs said yesterday.

Indians Defeat Red Sox, 3-0

Cleveland, Aug. 14 (AP).—The Indians gained momentum today in their drive for a first division berth, polishing off the Red Sox, 3-0, as Jim Bagby delivered a three-hitter. The triumph gave the Tribe the series, three games to one.

First baseman Mickey Rocco and second baseman Dutch Meyer clouted round trippers to spark an 11-hit attack on Randy Helfin, who went the distance for the Sox.

Tribe pilot Lou Boudreau injured his right ankle in a force play at second base in the second inning.

Horse Talk

By Jim McCulley

When the auctioneer finally got done pounding his hammer at the annual Keeneland yearling sales a couple of weeks ago, 405 sleek thoroughbreds had been sold for more than $3,000,000, a new record by a wide margin. The average price a head was very close to $7,800.

The terrific bidding for racing horseflesh astounded even the oldest of the oldtimers, many of whom had seen some pretty exciting sales in years past.

"There never will be a sale like this one again," they said, shaking their heads. "It's amazing. No untried horse sold here is worth the price it brought. Only about half of them are ever going to get to the races, and very few of those that do are going to win."

Yet, who can tell? Next year there'll be another crop of yearlings, studded with the offspring of the great sires such as Blenheim 2d, Pharos 2d, Sir Galahad 3d, Roman, Mahmoud, War Admiral, to mention just a few.

And the regular famous blood lines, which bring such fancy prices, will be competing for the first time with a crop of yearlings sired by the renowned Whirlaway, long-tailed hero of the Calumet Farms. Himself a son of Blenheim 2d, Whirlaway is now the proud father of 24 foals and one weanling. . . . 14 colts and 11 fillies. They are bound to cause the unlatching of some pretty well loaded pocketbooks. Whirlaway, if you will recall, holds the all-time record for winning money at racing—$556,000 in round numbers.

Just to show you the trend and the interest in Whirlaway's progeny, Mr. Longtail's first offspring was foaled last September. It turned out to be a handsome colt and was the result of a test mating with Mary V, a daughter of High Time belonging to a Tilford Wilson, Lexington (Ky.) business man. Such a fine specimen of thoroughbred did the colt appear to be that Wilson immediately found himself burdened with offers. And the colt was finally sold to Dixiana Stables for a big price. The youngster must be all right, too, because the owners of Dixiana Stables are widely known for their critical eyes where any kind of horseflesh is concerned.

At the Col. C. V. Whitney acres, on the other side of Lexington from Calumet, is a crop of foals by Mahmoud, the great imported "grey" which won the English Derby in '36. Most of these will be retained by Whitney, at least until they're ready to race in 1947, because Mahmoud has proved a highly successful stallion since being brought to this country. Whitney purchased the animal from the Aga Khan for $80,000.

One foal in particular will be watched with much interest by the immediate household as well as by horsemen everywhere. . . . a cute little almost-white filly whose mama is none other than Top Flight, champion juvenile of '31 and later winner of the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap.

The little lady should be as white as any racing horse in history by the time she breaks from the gate the first time. Grey horses bleach out with age and this little number is practically white already.

I don't know how many of you customers remember Nat Ray. Veteran turfmen know him well, especially followers of the Grand Circuit. Ray is the only man of my knowledge to win races on the flat, over the hurdles and in the sulky. He started as a jockey back in the 1880's, bushwacking through his native Canadian countryside. He later switched to driving the trotters and pacers, changed back to the thoroughbreds to become one of the most famous of steeplechase riders, had a long hitch as a trainer of runners and is now back in the sulky. And he's still winning. Nat is driving these days at the Roosevelt Raceway on Long Island. It's his first season back in the harness horse races since 1930. So far he has about a dozen victories.

Ray back in the early 1900's was the most daring steeplechase rider in the business. He won Belmont Park's famed Grand National four times, three in a row, and most every other big jumping fixture in the East.

Driving a colt named Guy McKinney, Nat romped off with the first and richest Hambletonian—at Syracuse in '26. He won fame and fortune and just about every trotting and pacing stake in the harness books with such stalwart standardbreds as Tarzan Grattan, John McEwen, Peter Brewer, Nellie Signal, Peter Earl, Robert Direct, and others too many to mention.

Nobody knows how old Ray is today, and he won't confess. All he'll say, when asked about his date of birth, is, "Too gosh darned long ago to even talk about. All I know is I was a man at 31 and now I'm a boy."

But age doesn't seem to make any difference with him and varied hasn't lost any of his winning ways with a horse. A to he is, and a fellow who has had one of the most colorful careers on the American turf.

Drinks on The House

Celebrating good news is dry work even in San Francisco. These citizens, along with happy sailors, crashed the window of a well-stocked liquor store and helped themselves. Announcements from neutral Switzerland touched off premature celebrations in cities coast to coast.
