GERMAN ARMY*30 Miles Arc
From Paris

Allied forces have sent out armoured reconnaissance units from Etampes towards the Seine, says German News Agency.

Etampes is a road and rail junction on the Paris-Orleans road 28 miles south-west of the outskirts of Paris.

American troops at Etampes would mean that the Allies hold almost a complete semi-circular front some 30 miles from Paris and that armoured columns are moving on the capital from at least two directions—from the west and from the south.

"Security" silence on the part of the Allies still blankets news from the Paris front.

From Dreux, Chartres, and Orleans armoured reconnaissance patrols have shot out in various directions, and then were often withdrawn.

No reports as to the points reached or the location of forward elements have been issued.

Radio Ghost
Voice Yells
"Defeat"

A ghost voice shouting "Defeat" interrupted German overseas radio to-day, reports Reuter's radio station.

Before the announcer could start the voice said several times: "France is a catastrophe for the Wehrmacht."

During the reading of High Command reports about the Northern France front the voice punctuated each item by shouting "Defeat, defeat, defeat."

"ANNIHILATED"

This dialogue ensued:

Announcer: "All hopes of the Anglo-Americans to turn the battles in Normandy into a war of annihilation have failed."

Ghost: "You yourselves have been smashed and annihilated."

Ghost: "And he has succeeded."

Announcer: "A spokesman of the Wilhelmstrasse says that military events in France must be regarded in the light of a war of movement."

Ghost: "The idiot."

Announcer: "The loss of a province or town is of no consequence."

Ghost: "You've lost France."

Sir Henry Wood: Anxiety

Anxiety concerning Sir Henry Wood has increased, states a bulletin authorised by Lord Horder.

Sir Henry, who is 75, is suffering from an acute attack of jaundice, and is in Herts (Herts) Hospital. He recently celebrated his golden jubilee as conductor of the promenade concerts at the Royal Albert Hall.

NAZI ENVOY DEPARTS

The German radio says that the German Ambassador in France, Otto Abetz, and the personnel of the German Embassy have left Paris.

Von Kluge's army is in its death throes. Over the fields of Normandy to-day is spread a vast panorama of destruction.

Struggling vainly to escape annihilation, this German army is fighting out its last hours jamming the roads, torn by Allied shells and rent by the biggest air blitz that the world has ever seen.

One huge concentration of German vehicles developed in the Evreux-Bernay-Lisieux area to make a large-scale dash for the Seine. It was spotted, and the whole of the Second Tactical Air Force fighter bomber strength was let loose on it with devastating results.

INSIDE the pocket, which has now shrunk to a mere 20 square miles, there is complete chaos.

It is so compressed that the Allies' fighter-bombers hardly dare go to strafe for fear of hitting Allied forces, so the R.A.F. went to work this morning "in a big way" on the roads.

No less than 5,000 offensive sorties were flown from the pocket to Belgium before noon.

For Air Marshal Sir Arthur Coningham, Chief of the Second Tactical Air Force, it was the best day since Alamein.

Absolute Chaos

As the attack on the German convoys went on, the roads were so chaotic and the air so full of aircraft that many pilots refused to make claims. One squadron refused to make even a combined claim for its operations!

At midday reconnaissance showed that the situation in the Gap was becoming much more fluid, and a tremendous concentration of vehicles was seen east of Trun, near Vimoutiers.

It was clear that the Germans were trying to make a large scale movement towards the Seine, and the whole Spitfire, Mustang and Typhoon force was sent against it.

They emptied their magazines and bomb-racks on the crowded roads, then shuttled back to their bases for more ammunition to continue the attack.

Pilots Scorn Leave

The damage they did was described as huge.

ARMY CHIEFS CONFER

New and important decisions on Allied operations in Northern France were indicated yesterday when General Eisenhower paid a visit to Lieutenant-General Bradley, Commander of the newly-formed 12th Army Group.

Major-General Kenneth Strong and Major-General H. R. Bull, the supreme commanders, chiefs of operations and intelligence, were present at the two-hours' meeting.

At one fighter-bomber group pilots, due to come home on leave, asked and were given permission to stay on for the big show.

Inside the pocket there are still substantial numbers of infantry and some S.S. armour.

Latest reports of the shattering air blows state that 3,800 motor lorries were damaged or destroyed yesterday.

Canadians' Push

North of the pocket the Canadian Army has pushed the whole front forward from the sea to east of Falaise.

In practically the first advance on the coastal sector since D-Day the Allies are reported on the outskirts of Cabourg, five miles east of the Orne. South of the town the River Dives has been crossed.

British forces are reported to be six miles from Lisieux.

Reeling Back

A senior staff officer at General Dempsey's headquarters to-day said it was possible that the Germans may not stop on the Seine but may go back to a narrower front.

"The Germans are reeling back rapidly," he said.

"There is no question of our getting to the Seine without difficulty. I think the German hope of delaying us at small rivers is absolutely finished."

"Von Kluge will take one jump back to the Seine, and I don't think he'll hold us on that."

BRETON POCKET WIPED OUT

The last enemy resistance on the north coast of Brittany has been overcome with the elimination of a German pocket in the Lannion-Paimpol area.

Several Hundred Thousand Ashore On Riviera

Allied bridgehead in the South of France is now 1,000 square miles, and there are several hundred thousand Allied troops ashore.

A point 30 miles inland has been reached, the great naval base of Toulon is more closely threatened, and American spearheads are racing overland towards Marseilles.

French patriots are reported to be fighting in the streets and suburbs of the port.

THE size of the bridgehead has been doubled in 36 hours.

Allied troops in their main advance are within six miles of Toulon, but strong opposition is being encountered. Other forces, from the Hyeres region, driving along the coastal road are only four and a half miles away.

Encirclement of the port is proceeding at a relatively quick pace, and the garrison has already been deprived of effective communication with Marseilles.

Fourteen miles due north the Allies have occupied Roquebrussane, and American spearheads are already well into the high ground to the west and heading in the direction of Marseilles along the main highways.

30 Miles Inland

The farthest place inland so far named officially is Salernes, 30 miles from the coast and 16 miles west of Draguignan.

French troops have overcome the last enemy resistance in the Cap Benat area, south of Bormes.

Elements of another German infantry division have now been identified in the north-west sector, making a total of three now known to be opposing the invasion.

Second General

Two German generals have been captured in two days by the swiftness of the Allied advance.

Major-General Ludwig Bieringer, described as chief administrator of the war department, was taken with his staff as a result of combined work by American airborne forces and French patriots at Draguignan.

Interrogated in the presence of Lieut.-General Patch, Bieringer said he felt that Germany was headed for a tragic end.

"Retreat" Talk
From Berlin

A large-scale German retreat in France is forecast by all Swedish newspaper correspondents in Berlin.

"The time when the Germans tried to stop the Allies and maintain steady front lines by throwing in reserves is past," writes one of them. "Von Kluge's task is apparently to wage mobile war while awaiting new secret weapons and the effects of Goebbels's total mobilisation."

"Terrain is being given up without hesitation, no matter what the areas or their size. All considerations of prestige have been thrown overboard."

Sunny, Warm In Straits

IT was warm and sunny again in the Straits of Dover to-day, after early morning cloud.

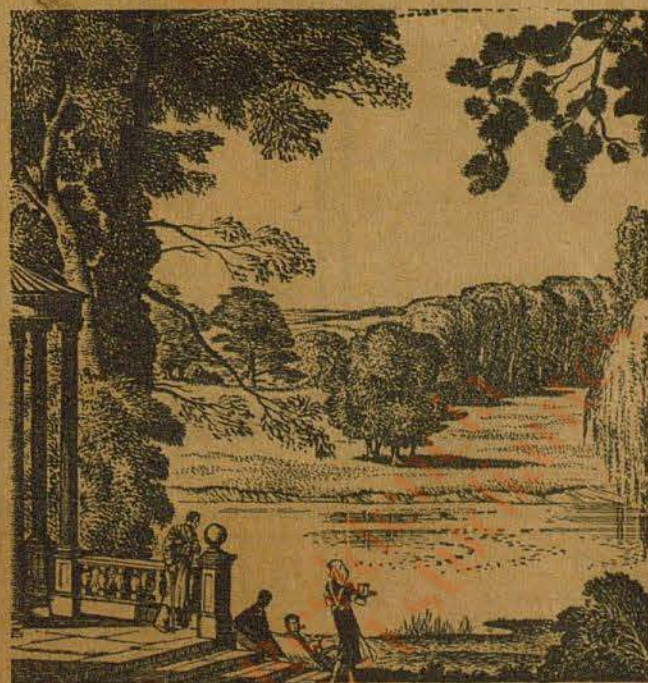

The temperature rose rapidly before noon, and with only a light southerly breeze, it looked like being hotter than yesterday, but the barometer has dropped again, which may mean a thundery tendency developing.

HOLIDAY TRAINS PACKED

St. Pancras station was packed with crowds of holiday-makers from an early hour to-day. Trains to Scotland and to such places as Bradford, Leeds, Leicester and Derby left so full that there was no more room even for standing passengers.

There was no congestion, however. Experience has taught station officials how to handle such heavy traffic, while the passengers themselves have learned to form orderly queues. When necessary, an extra train was put on to get the people away quickly.

Euston was busy, and here wooden barriers were used to control the long queues which formed at the booking offices. At most of the stations military police co-operated with railway police to help control the crowds.

If you can't always get Horlicks, please remember there are many who have special need of it

In emergency rations issued to soldiers, sailors, and airmen, Horlicks is an essential item. It was specially chosen for this purpose because it is exceptionally nourishing and sustaining. The makers of Horlicks are proud that it has helped to save innumerable lives.

Large quantities of Horlicks are also required for hospitals, vital war factories, and the mines. This is why there are only limited quantities of Horlicks in the shops. So, if you can't always get Horlicks, please remember there are many who have special need of it. And make Horlicks by mixing it with water only. The milk is already in it.

Candid Column

WITH the Allies sweeping through France towards the German border, it is well to recall the pronouncement made by President Roosevelt earlier this week. In it he gave an undertaking that neither Germany nor Japan will be able to avoid invasion and occupation by an act of opportune surrender.

Whatever ideas Hitler and his cronies may have of retiring to the Berchtesgaden eyrie to stage a final act of resistance in the grand heroic manner, his generals, whether in Moscow or Berlin, are as anxious to save Germany from the disorders of defeat as much as Hindenburg and Ludendorff were in 1918.

These generals will whine—this time about Hitler, hoping that the German people will swallow a new myth of German misfortune rather than of actual defeat.

As their armies stream broken and disrupted back into the Reich, it seems incredible to us that Germans could ever again put faith in the invincibility of the Wehrmacht. But the generals know their Germans better than we do; they know that a peaceful occupation such as the march to the Rhine in 1918 leaves few memories that cannot be effaced in ample time for preparations to be made for the next bid for victory, a victory that once won they would make sure was final.

Hence the significance of President Roosevelt's promise that the Allies will drive into the countries of our enemies, collapse or no collapse. This will break the German habit of protecting the Fatherland by throwing in the towel, and, we hope, the habit of thinking that Germany can start wars of plunder and butchery and escape the penalty.

THE SAGE

THE LEGLESS NEWS VENDOR WHO DIED FOR POLAND

[By Col. Antony Segulas-ski, a well-known Polish author.]

I do not know if anybody has ever seen a legless news vendor—a news-vendor whose job it is to hurry through the streets and attract people's attention, waving before him sheets of freshly-printed paper. Surely he needs legs.

Yet Joe had no legs and managed exceedingly well without them. For four years on end I watched him from the window of a Warsaw editorial office.

Imagine the sight: a legless stump sitting on a kind of square shallow-sided box, with a bag holding the papers slung over his neck, and leather pads on his hands.

"The Latest Deaths"

Some passers-by—the regular clients—came up to Joe; they bent down to the bag for their papers and dropped the money into it. But let Joe catch sight of somebody who appeared to him interesting from a business point of view and whirr—he was away and under his customer's feet, tempting him with the paper:

"Warsaw Cour... rier, morning edition. As I wish God to be with me when I die, the very latest deaths."

NAZIS STARVED DERBY MAN TO A "LIVING SKELETON"

THE terrible sufferings of some civilian internees in German hands in the early part of the war, when through lack of food they became so thin that even a Nazi doctor referred to them as "living skeletons," were described to a "Telegraph" representative by Mr. James Moore, of 58, Rose Hill-street, Derby, who was recently repatriated.

Mr. Moore, whose home was in France before the war, was in German hands for four years.

The internees were first put in a French civil prison, he said, and treated as criminals. Then they were taken to the fortress of Liege and later to Huy in Belgium.

This was a very ancient fortress and they were placed in stone dungeons. The lucky ones had some straw to sleep on; the others had to lie on the bare stone.

"During the five weeks we were there we were literally starved," he went on, "and we became so weak that we could hardly move about."

His "Meat" Ration

"Our daily meat ration was either a piece of sausage about the size of a crown, or a piece of pork fat about an inch square.

"What they called soup was hardly more than water, and anybody who found a piece of potato in it was very lucky. We also had either a very thin slice of bread or a few hard biscuits.

"When we left the fortress we had to drag ourselves up the stairs hand over hand, because we were so weak."

From Huy Mr. Moore was taken to Upper Silesia, and on arrival, he said, each internee was given a bowl of soup. It was just potatoes and meat, but it was the most welcome meal he ever had.

Surprised Doctor

"We were examined by a German doctor," he went on, "and even he was surprised to see our condition.

"He described us as a lot of living skeletons, and he was so concerned that he notified Berlin.

"After that they gave us a little more to eat, but it was still little else but potatoes and turnips, and many of them were bad. The majority of us suffered from stomach trouble as a result.

"As time went on things became better. Then the Y.M.C.A. sent us some stuff, and when, eventually, we received Red Cross parcels, it was with deep gratitude.

Then Regular Parcels

"Only once did we miss our weekly parcel, and that was because the Germans lacked transport."

Later Mr. Moore was transferred to a camp near the Franco-German border, and three times he was listed for repatriation before he finally returned to this country.

Hitler's recent order making the Nazi salute compulsory in the German armed forces is likely to be a big factor in Germany's defeat, in the opinion of Mr. Moore.

Fed Up With Salute

"The German troops are heartily fed up with the Nazi salute, and I am sure this order will turn them against the present regime.

"When I was first interned," he went on, "it was all 'Heil Hitler.' I remember going to have a tooth out and there was a German woman with a little child at the dentist's. The woman gave the customary greeting and the child, who was just learning to talk, repeated 'el'ier'."

"Later," Mr. Moore added, "all that was largely dropped."

"A great change has come over the Germans," he said. "At first they used to bully us, but now the guards want to smile and joke with the prisoners. Even the officers will talk nicely to you."

BOXER MISSING IN DESTROYER

Able Seaman John George Gutch, who was reported in Tuesday's "Telegraph" as killed in the destroyer Quorn, is "missing, presumed killed."

He was well known in Derby as an amateur boxer. At the time of volunteering for the Navy 15 months ago he was living at Liverpool, and he brought his wife and family to Allestree.

in a tram accident. He disliked speaking about it. They nicknamed him "Roller-Skate," and that stuck.

When I left for the war, Joe was shouting on the streets: "Tanks come, bombs drop, Hitler's nose made a bad flop." Warsaw Cour... rier."

And the bombs fell ever thicker on the lightly defended city.

Tanks Crushed Him

A little while ago, from people who reached London from Warsaw, I inquired about acquaintances and the office.

"Do you remember Roller-Skate Joe?"

"Indeed I do."

"He's no longer alive," they said. "During the battle for Warsaw he went up to a German tank on his roller-skate and soaked it with a bottle of petrol. Then the tanks crushed him like an insect."

During the siege he had grown thin and poor, but he sold papers to the end. And he spoke in doggerel to the end too, only changing to a short, martial rhyme. "I can remember his last couplet:

"They will come, they will go—the Russian, the Boche—
"They are as dust—we rock."

A Warsaw lad of 16, with a spirit above his grievous affliction and a heart for his country above thought for his life.

PICNIC FALL TRAGEDY

The story of how a 75-years-old evangelist, while on a picnic, fell into a hole and fractured his spine was told to the Derby Borough Coronor, Mr. T. H. Bishop, at the inquest to-day into the death of Herbert Edward Wilson, of 27, Park-grove, Derby.

The verdict was "Death by misadventure."

TRIPPED, HIT HEAD

Miss Mabel Joan Wilson, who lived with her father, said that on Tuesday afternoon they went for a picnic on Chevin golf course. They had gone some distance across a field when her father tripped and fell into a hole, striking his head on the side. He was taken to Derbyshire Royal Infirmary, where he died on Wednesday. He suffered from attacks of giddiness last winter, but had not had any recently, she said.

Dr. W. Kirchenberger, house surgeon at the Infirmary, said that Wilson died from compression of the spinal cord.

ATROCITIES AT LUBLIN

A joint Polish-Soviet Extraordinary Commission has been appointed to investigate German atrocities at the "extermination camp" at Lublin on the initiative of the Polish Committee of National Liberation, says Moscow radio.

One Week At School In Two Years

Two young brothers were stated at Derby Juvenile Court yesterday to have attended school for only one week in two years.

The elder, aged 12, was sent to an approved school and the other, aged 10, was sent to a remand home for one month. Their mother was summoned for not sending four children to school, and was fined 10s. in respect of the two younger children. She was told that she must "pull herself together" and see that the children went to school after the holidays.

FATHER AT FRONT
The mother told the magistrates that the children had been ill. Her husband, she said, was fighting in Italy, and she found it difficult being left alone with the children.

Pleading with the magistrates not to send the two elder boys away, she said that their father would not want them to go.

When she said that her husband was doing his duty for the country, she was not helping him by not allowing the children to be educated.

NEARLY 50 SUMMONED
Nearly 50 parents were summoned for not sending their children to school, and in several cases it was stated that they had been kept at home to look after younger members of the family because the mother was at work.

"The mother goes to work, the children are left, and the damage is done," an Education official told the magistrates.

School attendance orders were issued and fines varying from 5s. to 30s. were imposed.

BOY AND GIRL TRUANTS
A 13-years-old boy who was described as the worst truant in Derby had attended school only 57 times out of a possible 163. A school attendance order was issued.

Another boy, aged nine, was said to have refused to go to school and had often hidden "in the bedroom and under the suite" to avoid going. His parents were fined 30s. and an attendance order was issued.

Cases against three girl truants were adjourned to the next court when they could attend.

Americans See Two Beauties Of Derby

"Your Crown Derby china is one of the most beautiful sights in this old country," said the soldier from Texas, as he was enjoying a cup of tea with his pals following their visit to the works in which the famous china is made.

"Yes, ma'am," said another, "it sure has been a swell day, and we won't forget it. And whether you call these 'tomato' or 'tomato' sandwiches they're durned good."

The two dozen men had come a little time ago from Normandy. They had been wounded—some of them very badly—and for a day they had almost forgotten war.

CORNER OF ENGLAND

They had been taken to see an English park in Derby. Darley Park—and although it seemed miniature to those accustomed to the Central or the Yellowstone National Parks it made them realise that here was a real little corner of leafy, flowery England.

Then, in small groups standing round the Crown Derby casket made for Mr. Mackenzie King when he receives the Freedom of the Borough, they were photographed in the courtyard of the works.

Their tour of these famous works brought them the revelation that human hands and not robot machines had expertly fashioned the casket, and the hundreds of other priceless exhibits, from very ordinary looking white clay.

WHAT INTRIGUED HIM?

One lad from Brooklyn was so impressed by the artistry of the women who paint the characteristic designs on the pieces that he kept looking into a mirror on his way out of the art room, to see as much as possible of the operation. Needless to say, his pals didn't let that pass unnoticed!

A cup of tea, with some dainty sandwiches and home-made cakes, prepared by two Derby women, Mrs. H. J. T. Russell and Mrs. H. Rice, was just what they needed.

"THANKS A LOT"

They were specially pleased to hear short speeches of welcome (and they were short and sincere) from the Mayoress (Councillor Mrs. E. A. Armstrong), Councillor H. J. T. Russell, and Mr. T. A. Lewis, of the M.O.I. (he had invited them to tea).

Major Baker, who accompanied the men, expressed their feelings when he said: "Thanks a lot. A day like this has made us all happy, and it will be a grand memory."

Wide Interest In County's School Museum

So much interest was shown in the Derbyshire Education Committee's School Museum Service by other local authorities that a summary of information was prepared and has already been distributed in response to requests.

This is disclosed in the annual report for the Service, which adds that the Museum was visited by two Chief Education Officers during the year.

MORE MODELS

There was a steady development of the Museum's resources, and schools and other organisations have continued to take advantage of the facilities offered.

The report shows that 58 new or duplicate exhibits were added to the collection. These include additions to the collection of historic and architectural models, a case on bird migration, and a series of photographs illustrating the preservation of the countryside.

USED FOR BROADCAST

Some exhibits have been prepared specially for use with the B.B.C. broadcasts to schools.

There were three distributions of material to schools between April, 1943, and March last, and 23 exhibitions were arranged.

BEREAVEMENT OF RECTOR

Mrs. Kitty Bennett, the wife of the Rev. Harold Bennett, Rector of Longford, died yesterday, aged 68, after a brief illness. She was a daughter of the late Dr. T. P. Tuckey, of Tywardeth, Cornwall.

Mrs. Bennett was an active worker in the parish, being the president of the Women's Institute and also of the Longford branch of the Mothers' Union.

Mr. Bennett, one son and three daughters are bereaved. The funeral will take place at Longford on Monday afternoon.

ALLEGED THEFT FROM HOUSE

Charged with the theft of a cigarette lighter, a wrist watch, an identity card, and a Post Office Savings Bank book from a house in Derby, Walter Robinson (36), labourer, of no fixed address, was remanded in custody for a week at Derby Police Court to-day.

Det. Chief Inspector S. Henman said that Robinson, who had been travelling about the country, was an absentee from his unit, and it would be necessary to contact the army authorities.

SUPPLIES FOR TURKEY

The United States has removed the ban on exports and is facilitating the shipment of civilian goods to Turkey on a cash basis.

Shipments of military supplies may be resumed shortly. This will depend on the Allied military situation, resulting from the Mediterranean campaigns.

MISSED LAST 'BUS, SAYS GIRL OF 15 WITH COLOURED MAN

A 15-years-old Draycott girl, who was found in Nottingham-road in the early hours of the morning with a coloured soldier, told the magistrates at Derby Juvenile Court yesterday that she missed the last 'bus back from Ashbourne and had to walk.

She was charged with wandering abroad, and the case was dismissed under the Probation of Offenders Act, on condition that her mother look after her.

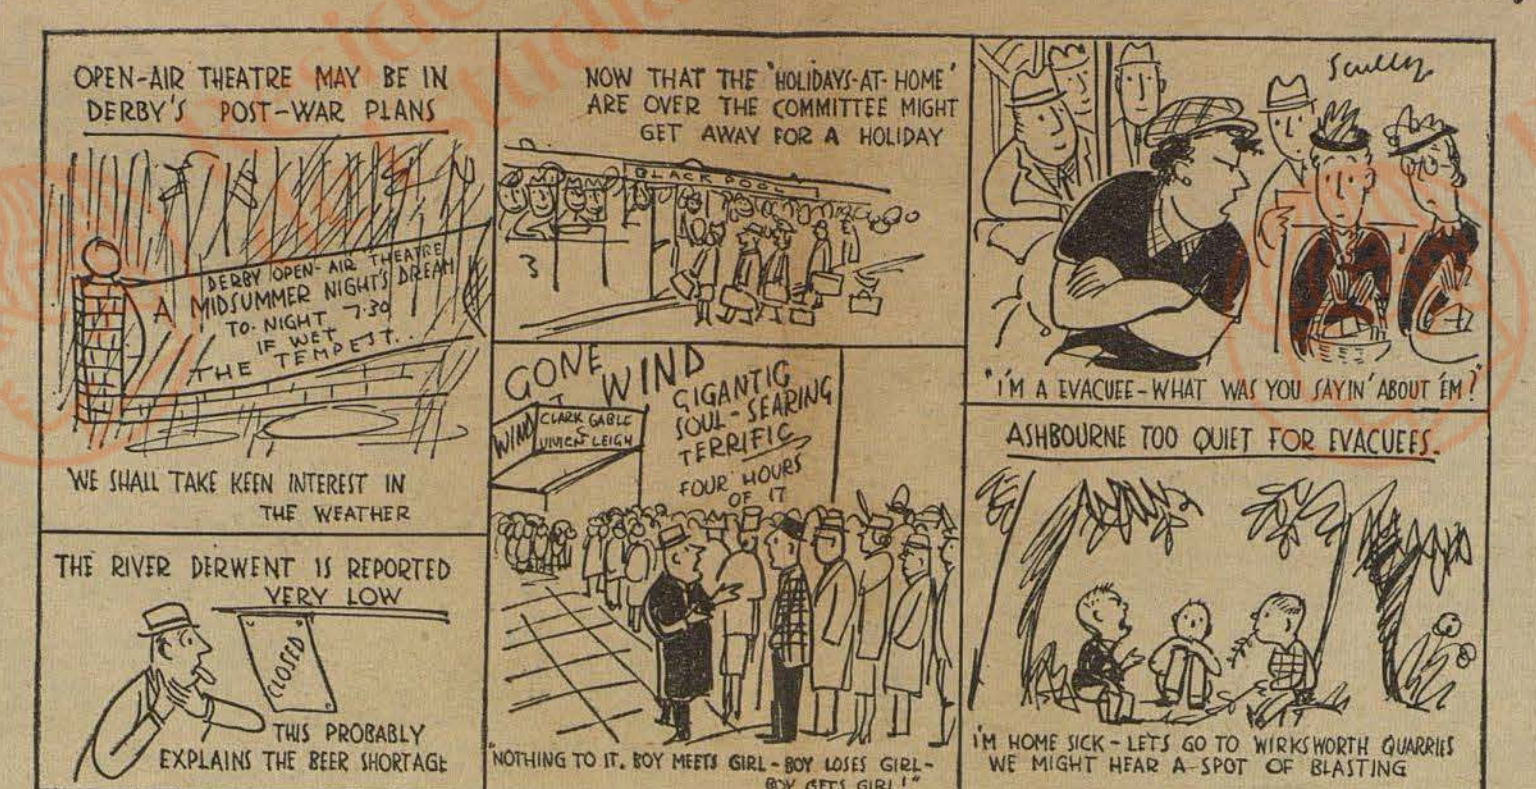

In court the girl said that she had been in Ashbourne. She had walked from Ashbourne, and on the way home met a coloured soldier, who asked whether he could walk with her.

MOTHER'S PROMISE
The mother said that she was in Bristol at the time and had left the girl at home to look after the rest of the children. Her husband, she said, is in the R.A.F., and she was separated from him.

She said that her daughter was working and had always been home by 10 o'clock at night. She had seen her talking to coloured soldiers in the village, but had always told her to come away from them.

She promised the magistrates that she would look after the girl properly in future.

R.A.F. SETS BREMEN ABLAZE FROM END TO END

BREMEN, the second largest port in Germany, was set ablaze from end to end last night by the R.A.F., a member of one of the crews stating that the fires spread "as though somebody was running around with a torch lighting up street after street."

More than 1,000 bombers went out, the other main targets being the great synthetic oil plant at Sterkrade-Holten in the Ruhr, while another force attacked the oil storage depots at Rieme, Belgium, and the rail centre at Connantre, 70 miles east of Paris. Berlin got a load of Mosquitos' "block busters." Only four of our aircraft are missing.

There was no cloud over Bremen and soon after the attack began fires spread with unusual rapidity throughout the port.

A pilot of a reconnaissance aircraft, who was over the target for some time after the bombing had finished, reported that there was a mass of fires over a wide area with smoke up to 23,000 feet.

A Mosquito pilot on his way back from Berlin said that the whole port seemed to be ablaze from end to end.

A Lancaster rear-gunner, Sergt. C. Branch, of Birmingham, reported: "The markers dropped by the Pathfinders were surrounded by innumerable fires. They were spreading as though someone was running round with a torch lighting up street after street. I have never seen fires spread so rapidly, nor have I seen such an intense concentration."

F.W. Factory There Bremen extends a considerable distance along the banks of the River Weser. Because of its shape it is not altogether an easy target for bombing, and though it was heavily damaged in previous attacks, there were still important industrial areas to be bombed.

It has recently gained importance as a centre of the aircraft industry because the Focke-Wulf factory at Marienburg in East Prussia has recently been evacuated to Bremen. This factory began its unfortunate career at Bremen, where it was destroyed by Bomber Command. It was then rebuilt in East Prussia, where it was destroyed by American bombers, and then rebuilt in the same position. Now it has gone back to Bremen because of the Russian advance, and is again within easy range of the night bombers.

Oil—Desperate Need Although the synthetic oil plant at Sterkrade-Holten was put out of action not long ago as a result of an attack by Bomber Command, the enemy's need for oil is now so desperate that he has been forced to repair badly damaged plants in the Ruhr.

At Rieme, where the bombing was also highly effective, the Germans had stored several thousands of tons of oil in tanks belonging to the refinery of the Purfina Company. In one section the oil is stored in underground tanks, but it is known from Bomber Command's attacks on similar depots that these can be destroyed by bombing.

Of Vital Importance This depot in Belgium is now sufficiently near to the battle front to be of critical importance to the German Army because all the larger marshalling yards in an inner ring round Paris have been put out of action.

The enemy has been compelled to use the less convenient yards which lie in an outer ring, 60 miles or more from Paris. Tank Loading The yard attacked at Connantre is now being used in the place of the much larger yard at Vaires, on the eastern outskirts of Paris, which has been heavily and repeatedly attacked. The Connantre yard is being used now not only for sorting military traffic, but also for entraining tanks for the battle areas.

Kitbags are disappearing in the Middle East as Army factories turn out thousands of steel boxes to replace them.

TYPHOON SLAUGHTER

I am writing this from a ringside seat at the destruction of an army. A pall of smoke is rising to the south and to the west, marking where the German Seventh Army is in its death throes.

Overhead roar the rocket Typhoons to continue their shuttle service of yesterday—slaughtering German men and German vehicles wherever they find them in what is left of the Falaise pocket.

Off to the east, in the direction of Trun, Canadian, Polish, American and French troops are closing the neck of the pocket—though the work of the Typhoons has made the road unusable even if the Germans had a clear path to the outside.

Patients Moved Out Of London

The Ministry of Health is transferring patients from London hospitals who are fit to be moved by ambulance trains to safer areas.

During the past 14 days approximately 10,000 patients have been transferred. Some have been sent to Scotland and to Wales, and others to northern and western parts of England.

To enable battle casualties and flying bomb casualties to be properly treated, the Minister of Health has been obliged to ask hospitals all over the country to restrict admissions of civilian patients.

HID STOLEN ARMY GOODS IN CABIN OF SHIP

Army goods, most of which were found concealed in the cabin of a ship on its return from Normandy, were produced at East Ham, London, to-day, when Harry Gifford Steven, 24, carpenter, of Fairclough-road, Liverpool, and Charles Frederick Houghton, 43, bosun, of Queen-street, Tranmere, Birkenhead, were charged with being concerned together in thefts. Each was fined £50.

The stolen goods, valued at £35, included four quart bottles of brandy, 1,400 cigarettes, 30 pairs of socks, 12 pairs of pyjamas, boots, towels, gloves, and razor blades.

It was stated that the bottles of brandy were found wrapped in Army towels, and the majority of the other goods concealed in a specially-made cavity between the back of a settee and the ship's panelling.

The two men declared that they had received most of the goods from stevedore soldiers in exchange for food.

Repatriate "In Custody Since 1938" Gets Bail

Arrested on a six-years-old warrant when he landed at Liverpool with other repatriates from German-held territory, Charles Aubrey Grant, 44-years-old salesman, told the magistrate, Mr. Ivan Snell, at Marylebone Police Court to-day that he "had been in custody since 1938."

He was charged with fraudulently converting £121 to his own use at Welbeck-street, London, between March 24 and 31, 1938.

Grant, it was stated, had been arrested on an extradition warrant in Vienna in May, 1938. Owing to apparent delays on the part of the English authorities in getting him back he was imprisoned until war broke out and then interned.

"OTHER CHARGES" Sergeant Binfield said that there might be other charges and if Grant, who had no papers, was allowed bail, it was thought he might contact witnesses.

Grant said that all his papers were in German hands. He would undertake not to get in touch with any witnesses. The magistrate remanded Grant and granted him bail in two sureties of £250.

MAQUIS PUSH TO BAYONNE

Gunfire on the French side of the frontier can be heard in Spain, according to reports from San Sebastian.

The situation in South-West France, where fighting is going on between the Germans and the Maquis appears to be developing rapidly. Unconfirmed reports state that the Maquis have reached Bayonne, on the Bay of Biscay coast near the frontier, and surrounded the German garrison.

DUMPS BLOWN UP Bitter fighting in the Pau-Maclean region is said to be developing in favour of the Maquis.

The Germans this morning blew up dumps at the Pyrenean frontier post of Cerbere and then evacuated it, says a Reuter cable from Barcelona.

Algiers radio announced to-day that all but one of the Customs posts on the French-Swiss frontier are now manned by the Maquis.

DIED ON EVE OF HER 105th

Mrs. Sarah Hannah Chambers, of Eastwood, Notts., who would have been 105 in September, has died.

On her 101st birthday she declared: "Hitler is such a wicked man that God will not allow him to win this war."

RUSSIANS ATTACK N.-E. OF WARSAW

THE German News Agency says that the Russians yesterday went over to the attack on a broad front north-east of Warsaw with strong forces, supported by numerous battleplanes and tanks.

A "grand offensive" by the Russians on the southern Lithuanian front is also announced by the Germans.

Hitler has ordered out a tank armada, comprising some of the greatest concentrations of German armour seen this year on the Eastern Front, cables Duncan Hooper, Reuter's correspondent in Moscow.

In 24 hours 295 of the tanks were knocked out.

On the Lower Vistula the Red Army is routing and destroying three German divisions encircled north of Sandomierz, says a "Pravda" report, broadcast by Moscow radio.

"The Soviet forces, by a skilful encircling manoeuvre, prevented the Germans from setting fire to Sandomierz, which has escaped destruction," the report added.

"GRAND OFFENSIVE"

The German News Agency military correspondent said to-day:—

"On the Southern Lithuanian front the enemy started his grand offensive on a broad front, employing at least 14 rifle divisions and some three tank brigades.

"Battleplane formations were also hurled into this renewed offensive. In the main storm centre south of Ilkivskis—11 miles from the East Prussian border—the enemy succeeded in making a fairly deep breach in our lines, which was, however, held by German tank forces held ready for such an emergency."

MASSIVE NAZI WEDGE

At Siauliai (Shavli) the Germans are launching violent attacks in a determined effort to cut their way through to the forces in the Baltic trap.
