GRIMSBY ON THE AIR MAP.

Daily Services to Commence.

CONNECTIONS TO CONTINENT.

Commencing on the 1st July, Thursday next, air services will be put into operation which will put Grimsby definitely on the map of the air services of Europe. Grimsby, in fact, appears on the services and fares list of the K.L.M. Royal Dutch Air Lines, which connects with regular services to more than 80 European towns and cities, and a bi-weekly service to India and the Far East. In addition to this the new services give Grimsby a connection with the many continental services operating from Croydon, and also with Allied Airways (Gandair Dover) Ltd., which operates services from Aberdeen northward to the Orkney and Shetland Islands.

The key to all this is the service which North Eastern Airways are putting into operation between Grimsby, Hull and Doncaster. In the first place it revives the Humber ferry, which will give a rapid service between Grimsby and Hull at a fare of 5s. single or 8s. return, and the journey takes exactly ten minutes from the Grimsby airport to the Hull airport, and there is ground transport to connect up with the air services. In Grimsby the Corporation bus service will perform that office, while the Hull Corporation bus service will do likewise in Hull. Little over half an hour should suffice to get from the Grimsby Old Market Place to the centre of Hull. At the beginning, at any rate, there will be planes leaving the Grimsby airport at 10.15 a.m., 1 p.m., 3.30 p.m. and 6.45 p.m., arriving in Hull ten minutes later in each case, while there will be planes from Hull at 10 a.m., noon, 2 p.m. and 5.25 p.m.

So much for the Humber ferry, but the new service has more important ramifications than that. The principal service is between Grimsby and Doncaster through Hull in each direction. Planes leave Grimsby for Doncaster at 10.15 a.m., 3.30 p.m. and 6.45 p.m., arriving in Doncaster 50 minutes later—45 minutes in the case of the 5.45 p.m. plane—but that includes a 20 minutes halt in Hull. The actual flying time is 30 minutes, and there is very little doubt that should the traffic warrant it the North Eastern Airways would be by no means averse to putting on a direct service to and from Doncaster, which would put Grimsby within half an hour's journey of Doncaster with its multitude of air, rail and road services.

There are return planes from Doncaster at 11.20 a.m. and 4.50 p.m., the first taking 50 minutes and the second 45 minutes. The fares between Grimsby and Doncaster are 17s. single and 21s. return. The service will be operated by very comfortable cabin machines. We know they are comfortable and very steady in flight, having journeyed in one.

GREAT POSSIBILITIES

The service opens up great possibilities. First it will connect with the North Eastern Airways own trunk services between London and Aberdeen, operated with fast Airspeed Envoy twin engine eight seater cabin planes. By this one could leave Grimsby at 3.30, catch a north-bound plane at 3.30, and be in Leeds at 5.10, York at 5.20, Newcastle six o'clock, Perth or Dundee at 6.45 and Aberdeen at 7.30. Then cutting across from east to west are services operated in conjunction with the K.L.M. Royal Dutch Air Lines. This, for instance, would enable anyone to leave Grimsby at 10.15 a.m. and be in Manchester at noon, or one could leave Grimsby at 3.30 in the afternoon and arrive in Manchester at 5.35 on Liverpool at 4.55, the former including a 30 minutes wait at Doncaster. These are instances out of a much more comprehensive time table.

CONTINENTAL SERVICES

One also finds that Grimsby is linked more or less directly with a large number of Continental places, mainly through the K.L.M. service through Amsterdam, and the Scandinavian services through Newcastle. On a direct connection one can leave Grimsby at 10.15 a.m., and be in Amsterdam at 1.25 p.m., Berlin at 6.10 p.m., Dresden at 7.55 p.m., Flushing at 2.55 p.m., Geneva at 7.45 p.m., Munich at 7.55 p.m., Paris at 8.25 p.m., and Copenhagen at 8 p.m. In fact there are 36 different places on the continent in which one could arrive before ten o'clock the same night. It is the same on the reverse route. One could be in Berlin at 7 o'clock in the morning and in Grimsby at 5.35 p.m., or in Amsterdam at 2.30 p.m. and in Grimsby at 5.25 p.m.

THE TOWN'S PART

The main consideration about all this is that Grimsby has at last got its foot over the threshold so far as air services are concerned. Developments will depend upon what demand there is for the services, and to some extent on what facilities there are for operating the services at the municipal airport. On Monday the Grimsby Town Council will be asked to sanction some expenditure on improving the airport, amongst the improvements being the provision of a hangar big enough and well enough equipped to deal with big air liners. We have a fine flying ground, we are geographically in a good position, and meteorological conditions are particularly good. The Town Council would be failing in its duty of developing the town if it negligently policy in regard to the airport equipment kept business away. Now we are on the air service route it will not be so difficult to get the chiefs of air concerns to look at the airport. Grimsby must put the airport into such a state that it can offer all the facilities the big air liners demand. More than that, it might be useful to say to industrial magnates that Grimsby can not only offer road, rail and river transport with all the usual amenities of commerce, but first class flying facilities as well.

If we are going to try to tempt new industries here we cannot afford to neglect anything that stamps Grimsby as a progressive community.

SATURDAY AFTERNOON CLOSING FOR SHOPS.

IDEAL FOR HEALTH AND SPORT.

IS IT PRACTICABLE?

OPINIONS OF GRIMSBY TRADESMEN.

AN after dinner speaker declared at Cleethorpes recently that a national Saturday closing would be a good thing for all shops was coming. The idea is not new, it is in existence now in some places, and an effort was at one time made to establish it in Grimsby. We have canvassed the opinion of several Grimsby tradesmen on the question, and whilst no one is hostile, the general opinion is that it is impracticable without legislation.

A careful consideration of the matter will decide most people that general closing from Saturday afternoon until Monday morning would have many advantages. It would enable all shop assistants to get a good week-end, and would enable them to participate in the great sports that usually take place on the Saturday, and with a continuous thirty-six hours at their disposal they might be able to formulate plans for short distance travel which are totally impossible now.

So far as we can see there are no insuperable difficulties in the way, if the general community should decide that the change over is desirable. The bread that is so necessary is baked in the early hours of the morning and on sale on Saturday morning. Milk, one of the most perishable articles, is in most cases delivered at the door twice daily.

BREAKING CUSTOM.

People have accustomed themselves to Saturday afternoon and Saturday evening shopping. If all wages were paid on the Friday—a very great proportion of them is paid on Friday in Grimsby—then with a later hour closing on Friday, say at 8 o'clock, or even 9 o'clock, if still earlier closing were applied during the week, it would only be a question of altering custom. That the public can readily adapt themselves to new ideas has frequently been proved. For instance the hairdressers of Grimsby were the first to enforce early closing. Many years ago they were open until midnight on Saturday, and some of their shops were most crowded when midnight came, for in those days men made their tonsorial needs the last duty on Saturday. The hairdressers' decision to close at 8 p.m. on Saturdays "staggered humanity," and yet within a month the hairdressers reported that the scheme was working well, and that, in fact, so early did their customers come that from 7.45 to 8 they had very little to do. And the men of the town spent Saturday evenings with clean shaves and tidy hair.

We are not suggesting that all can be free from duty by 1 p.m. on a Saturday. The fact that people are out in search of pleasure, sport, and amusement means that a host of others must be busy attending to their needs—police, railway employees, tram and bus employees, caterers and others. For the catering trade, and for one or two others, there can be no holiday whatever. Petrol filling stations, cycle repairers and all who work that others may enjoy sport and travel would have a busier week-end.

Greater recreation grounds would be necessary; there would be far more social events on the Saturday, for those held in mid-week would appeal to some extent in vain; and refrigerators might become a greater necessity. But the advantages are innumerable. Physical fitness, about which the Government itself is concerned, would receive a great fillip, and the transport services would be able to offer very special advantages because of the greater numbers ready to accept their services.

It is suggested, and with some reason, that the whole of the community—as far as possible—sharing the higher class shops did close on a Saturday afternoon. When I was an assistant at Cole Bros. in Sheffield they closed down on Saturday afternoon.

"In some respects it would be very nice for shop assistants if they had the Saturday afternoon off, but I doubt whether the desire would be universal, for some people like a break in the middle of the week."

Then there is the question of catering for instance. You must cater for the community. Very often after a football match on the Saturday our restaurant is absolutely packed.

We pointed out that in some places Saturday closing was in operation, and to this Mr. Smith replied that he knew in some of the towns and cities the higher class shops did close on a Saturday afternoon. "When I was an assistant at Cole Bros. in Sheffield they closed down on Saturday afternoon."

"The only way in which I can see this scheme being a possibility would be for all employers of labour to agree to have their workers earlier in the week," said Mr. D. M. Cross, chairman of the Grimsby Chamber of Trade, who was not optimistic about the possibility of much being done in the matter.

THE SATURDAY MARKET

"The only way in which I can see this scheme being a possibility would be for all employers of labour to agree to have their workers earlier in the week," said Mr. D. M. Cross, chairman of the Grimsby Chamber of Trade, who was not optimistic about the possibility of much being done in the matter.

The question had been considered by the Chamber of Trade some years ago, and the Executive Committee then came to the conclusion that the time was not opportune for such a move to

GRIMSBY BUSINESS MEN

To Attend International Conference.
MAY MEET HITLER AND GOEBBELS.

THREE Grimsby business men will be included in the British delegation to the international conference of Chambers of Commerce in Berlin next week. They may meet both Herr Hitler and Dr. Goebbels.

Although it is a comparatively recent growth in local business circles, the Grimsby and District Junior Chamber of Commerce and Shipping has given plenty of evidence as to its alertness in matters of both local and national interest. Now comes more evidence of that alertness, for to-morrow (Saturday) its president, Mr. W. J. Furness, and two members, Messrs. B. Paulding and M. A. Shaw, will leave for Berlin en route for Berlin, as members of the British delegation to the ninth congress of the International Chamber of Commerce, to be held from 28th June to 3rd July. The delegation is a large and influential one, and the Grimsby Junior Chamber, remembering the trade connections which once flowed through Grimsby to the continent, thought it a wise thing that Grimsby should be represented at the congress.

There are about 130 members of the British delegation, including Empire representatives. The chairman of the delegation is Lord Luke, K.B.E., and it includes such men as Lord Riverdale, the Rt. Hon. Lord Essendon, the Hon. Hugh de B. Lawson-Johnston, Sir Edward Rhodes, Sir Christopher T. Needham, Sir Kenneth Lee, Sir Alexander Lawrence, Bart., Sir Wm. S. Jarratt, Sir Geoffrey R. Clarke, C.S.I., O.B.E., Sir J. Arthur Alton, C.B.E., Sir Alan be made. He personally was still of the opinion that the time was not opportune.

One point which he stressed was the importance of any change which was being made. It would be futile for individuals to attempt to introduce such an innovation.

"I personally prefer Thursday as the half day holiday," he said. "For one thing we have become accustomed to it and it makes a nice break in the middle of the week before Friday and Saturday, which are, or used to be, the two busiest days of the week."

Mr. Cross also pointed out that in Grimsby there were peculiar difficulties, particularly in the Freeman Street district, where there was Saturday market. There was no doubt that this would affect the question, for there would probably be difficulties in the way of altering the market day.

UNWORKABLE AT PRESENT, SAYS MR. A. HORTON.

Mr. A. Horton, secretary of the Grimsby Chamber of Trade, expressed the opinion that the scheme was unworkable at the present time.

"If we had taken action immediately after the war we might have done something," he said. "Saturday closing was very much the result of the war. One or two Grimsby shops did, in fact, try out the experiment and closed on Saturday afternoon for a time, but they have since reverted to Thursday closing."

In Grimsby, he pointed out, most people were paid on Friday, and consequently they spent their money largely on Saturday morning. Friday evening was the better shopping time in the case of certain trades.

Another thing to be considered was the fact that the Saturday afternoon closing would mean a loss of business for the shops which were closed on Saturday afternoon.

"You cannot have pleasure in business," said Mr. Horton, "and I do not think that Saturday closing will come in our time."

He did suggest, however, that in view of the fact that Friday night was a good shopping time, the late night might be changed from Saturday to Friday with advantage to all concerned.

C.T.C.

All-night riding is considered by the authorities to be a very serious form of insanity, judging by the out-spoken comments whenever it is mentioned.

However, eight members of the C.T.C. rode out last Saturday night at midnight en route for Newstead Abbey. Riding was not difficult, as the night was very still and dark, but rain fell heavily at Gainsborough and continued in a steady downpour throughout the night. The glory of summer dawn and the songbirds' chorus immediately after, are usually an added delight to night riders, but the little party in drenched capes had to be satisfied with a cheery alfresco meal under the Stone Bow at Lincoln, joking with various late revellers.

Into the rain again, steady progress was made towards Newark, and as they were at last discarded under the canopy of the rain, the rain fell heavily at Gainsborough and continued in a steady downpour throughout the night. The glory of summer dawn and the songbirds' chorus immediately after, are usually an added delight to night riders, but the little party in drenched capes had to be satisfied with a cheery alfresco meal under the Stone Bow at Lincoln, joking with various late revellers.

Some time later a short spin down a broom hedged lane led to the gates of Newstead Abbey.

Alas and alack! That authority should be enforced by one so small. A very young girl, armed with a party horn, was seen to enter the park in a manner that they passed the gates under a full moon.

What a blow. Waiting until afternoon would have meant a very late arrival home again, with Monday and the daily round in very close proximity, so very reluctantly the club turned towards Edwinstown.

After a meal in the company of the gathering of the clans, a most enjoyable round through Sherwood Forest, after examining the Major Oak, led through very picturesque scenery to lovely Thoresby Park.

Tea being now our objective, a very pleasant run through Retford and Gainsborough soon brought the family Wharfedale in view, leading up to Brand's Wharf, where various sections were already gathered for sun-bathing on the lawn.

A steady rain home ended a very enjoyable week-end and night, despite the disappointments.

Runs for Sunday: 8-30, follow the Leader, 9, Markby Church. Tea at Saltfleet.

GRIMSBY POLICE METHOD CRITICISED.

"Trial by Ordeal."

"With all due respect to the police, I deprecate the method of summoning both parties to an accident. It develops into a kind of trial by ordeal — whichever comes out best."

This criticism was offered by Miss Mary Brown, solicitor, in the Grimsby Borough Police Court on Wednesday, when, as the result of a collision between two motor lorries at the junction of Lord Street and East Street on 21st March, both drivers were charged with careless driving.

The defendants were Edgar Johnson (40), of 7, Western Avenue, Saxby, Lincoln, represented by Mr. Jackson, of Lincoln, and Reginald Albert Paul (24), of Poplar Road, Healding, for whom Miss Brown appeared. Both pleaded not guilty.

ROD AND LINE.

The Season Opens.

Grimsby anglers turned out in force at the week end to welcome the opening of the angling season once again.

Local clubs had arranged no fewer than 12 matches for Saturday and Sunday at venues which included Worleby, Fox Corner, Kirkstead, Cherry Corner, Hubbert's Bridge and Broughton Bridge.

Unattached anglers, too, formed a considerable proportion of the traffic out of Grimsby along the roads to the marshes. Cars swept by with business-like baskets and bundles of rods strapped at the back, while the more humble cycle bore hundreds of enthusiastic anglers to the river and pond banks.

The writer made for Saltfleet in a heavy rainstorm, which later gave way to glorious sunshine. After some two hours of steady pedalling Saltfleet was reached only for the discovery to be made that the river was being run off and the couple of feet of water which remained was gin clear.

A conference resulted in a return being made to the river being run off and the couple of feet of water which remained was gin clear.

On the way to a stop was made at Thoresby Bridge, where a few enthusiasts were using up some old tackle in the canal. At the expense of a good many boltonies some of the roach and bream had been netted. What a pity it is that this water cannot be cleared of weeds in at least some parts. It would be the finest thing that could happen for angling in Grimsby and the district.

However, a few hours at the Somerset pond provided some entertaining fishing. If the weather were on the small side, the fact that there were so many is a healthy sign for future sport to be had there.

CLEETHORPES AT HUBBERTS BRIDGE

Members of the Cleethorpes Angling Association fished their Jubilee Cup match at Hubbert's Bridge on Sunday.

J. E. Stanforth was the winner with an actual weight of 7 lbs. 10 oz. 14 dr. and a handicap weight of 5 lbs. 10 oz. 4 dr. beating the more heavily handicapped R. Sizer, who had an actual weight of 7 lbs. 2 oz. and a handicap weight of 4 lbs. 12 oz. 12 dr.

Details were:—

	Actual	Handicap	Total
J. E. Stanforth (20)	7 10 14	5 10 4	12 10 18

For the second year in succession, A. Atkinson, secretary of the West End Angling Club, has carried off the Cook Cup, the destination of which was decided on Saturday at Broughton Bridge.

Catches were light generally if the rain was heavy, but in spite of this the novices did well, three of them taking prizes. No fewer than 22 rods were out, and the results of the first six were as follows:—

Actual Handicap Total

A. Atkinson	13 12 18	12 3	25 15 21
B. Brantfoot	4 8 10	7 3	11 15 13

WINDLE CUP MATCH
Members of the Grimsby Corporation Angling Club fished their Windle Cup match at Kirkstead on Saturday.

"Westy" of the Transport Department, is to be congratulated on heading the weight list. He did well with the bream. Perhaps they like his special "pudding."

It is hoped that "Sparks" will turn out for the Anchole on 10th July. Results were as follows:—

Actual Handicap Total

W. Westerman	18 2 15	0	18 2 15

CLUB ATTENDANCE RECORD.
The New Cleethorpes A.C. fished their first match of the season at Hubbert's Bridge on Sunday last. Thirty-eight rods were out, which is a record for the club.

Conditions in the Forty Foot were ideal, the water was low and running at a fair pace when the match commenced and the banks were awkward to negotiate. A fair number of small fish were weighed in, but nothing of any size, apart from the winner's pike of 11 lbs. The bream were run round to the higher up the river where the Cleethorpes A.C. were operating, and they didn't allow any to get past to the Cons.

Someone misjudged the time necessary for the higher percentages to negotiate the barbed wire and to reach their swims, with the consequence that several members were not ready for the start. In fact, Mr. Kay had won the match before many of his club mates had wetted a line. Swift work that was done on an 18 hook from the start. Pa Kay has an apt pupil.

Several ladies were present at the venue, although all but the very hardy ones kept close to their cars. One of the fair ones who did venture along the bank, tore her pleural garment on the wire, and was heard to announce the fact to the world in loud and indignant tones. It is to be hoped that the damage was not irreparable.

Much interest is evinced in the season's arrangements by the members, which are as follows:—

Team A: E. Kay, S. Clarke, R. Easton, J. Atkinson.
Team B: B. Sleight, T. Walton, S. C. Topliss, F. Alcock.
Team C: C. Sibson, A. Kay, J. Lacy.

Team D: R. Kendall, N. Dowse, F. Greaves, W. Stockwood.
Team E: G. Baldry, C. Boothby, C. Smith, J. E. Stanforth, W. Walton.
Team F: H. Kay, A. R. Fox, W. Mawer, W. Grant.

Team G: H. Odum, R. Neal, H. Lottis, G. Hill.
Team H: W. Pask, J. Laycock, D. Kay, C. Neal, Ted. Freshwater.
Team I: J. Lyon, A. Doust, N. Pearson.

The following are the first seven weights recorded on Sunday:—

	Actual	Handicap	Total
H. Lottis	11 4 4	2 9 37	13 7 41
A. R. Fox	1 4 0	1 6 13	2 10 13

G. Hill	11 0 10	1 2 4	12 2 14
L. Wright	13 0 13	0 33	13 0 33
F. Kay	1 3 4	12 12	2 15 26
H. Odum	15 0	12 0 31	15 0 31

ROD AND GUN
A novice who has only been angling for two weeks was the winner of the Rod and Gun Angling Club's match at Broughton Bridge on Sunday.

His success indicates that he has received an efficient tutelage from his fellow club members and that he has adapted himself to the art well.

There was a most excellent turn out, but a storm put the fish off the feed, and some of the anglers were "waterlicked"—an unusual and unwelcome experience for some of them.

Weights were as follows:—

	Actual	Handicap	Total
G. F. Stratton	1 14 4	2 9 37	2 23 41
C. Arnold, sen.	1 6 1	1 6 1	2 12 2

WOMAN'S FINEST CALLING.

Lord Yarborough
and Nurses' Vocation.

PRIZES PRESENTED AT GRIMSBY HOSPITAL.

Medals, prizes, certificates and badges won by members of the nursing staff of the Grimsby and District Hospital in the recent examinations were presented at a gathering held in the Nurses' Hostel on Friday afternoon.

Lord Yarborough, who made some of the presentations, congratulated the winners on their success, and described nursing as the finest calling which a woman could follow.

Mr. F. W. Robinson, J.P. (chairman of the Hospital Managing Committee) presided, and was supported on the platform by Lord Yarborough, the Mayor and Mayoress of Cleethorpes (Alderman Houghton, J.P., and Mrs. Houghton), Mrs. Whitehead, Mrs. Robinson, Alderman F. Barrett, J.P., Mr. M. G. Smith J.P. (vice-chairman of the Committee), Mrs. Smith, Miss H. Brewer (matron), Sister B. E. Shaw (assistant matron and head nurse), and Mr. H. B. Coates (secretary-superintendent).

Mr. F. W. Robinson opened the proceedings by expressing the thanks of the Committee to the nurses. "Everyone would agree," he said, "that nursing was one of the principal parts of the work of the Hospital. Their staff would compare well with that of any other hospital in the country."

IMPROVED STANDARD. The standard of nursing in the Grimsby Hospital had gradually improved during the time Miss Brewer had been matron, and they were sorry to lose her services, though they were very happy in knowing the reason for her departure.

After presenting the certificates of training, Lord Yarborough described nursing as the finest calling which any woman could follow. It was an exciting profession, nurses having to treat some 20 subjects and to be always good tempered and cheerful.

Alderman F. Barrett, who presented the gold and silver medals, expressed the hope that the nurses had had a successful year.

GRIMSBY'S DEBT. "It is everybody's wish," he said, "that the Grimsby Hospital, that the nurses should be happy, contented, well trained and go-ahead in their profession and ultimately reach the top, as so many of them do." He said, "We owe a great deal to them here in Grimsby, because up to the last few years their surroundings here were not of the very best. There has been a marked improvement, and I am told that, as far as appearance goes, the nurses show every indication of being very happy."

Continuing, Alderman Barrett said that when he was a boy, he went into a hospital seemed to be a boy. To-day, people who were unfortunate enough to have to do so seemed to be quite ready to go in a second time. It was very gratifying to hear old patients say that the nursing in the Grimsby Hospital left nothing to be desired.

The advances in surgical and medical science during the past few decades had been extraordinary and remarkable, but nursing was still probably the most important, if not the most neglected, part of the work of the doctors would be undone.

The prizes and badges had been presented by the Mayoress of Cleethorpes and Mrs. Whitehead, an omnibus vote of thanks was passed on the proposition of Mr. M. G. Smith.

In concluding this presentation, the Matron thanked the sisters for their co-operation during the year and congratulated the prize-winners.

"I hope that as well as you have done your examination work," she said, "to those who have not won prizes I would

WOMEN'S GREATEST SPHERE.

The Old-fashioned Plan

Speaking at the annual speech day of the Caistor Grammar School, Mr. J. H. Nicholson, M.A., principal of the University College, Hull, referred to the changes in the girls of the last thirty years. They were more important than they were thirty years ago, but there was still nothing more important than being somebody's wife, or the mother of a household.

The greatest thing children could learn at school was how to make up their minds. If, as a nation, we were prepared to have others make up our minds for us, without thinking for ourselves, then some time we should lose the liberty which was ours.

HEADMASTER'S REPORT. In his report Mr. H. E. Coxon said that the school had 65 boys and 70 girls, who were drawn from a very wide area. Three candidates from the school sat during the year for the higher school certificate examination and all passed. The school was also very successful with its school certificate candidates.

Mr. Coxon proceeded to refer to the physical training in the curriculum. At Caistor, he pointed out, they had always tried to carry on efficient physical training classes. Their assembly hall had been a gymnasium, but he learned that there was a scheme for putting up separate buildings in some schools in the country for this purpose, and he would try to secure one for Caistor. Referring to the practical and valued help given by Jack Bestall, captain of Grimsby Town F.C., on occasional visits made when he had acted as coach in the football field, the headmaster expressed the wish that the county cricket authorities would set on foot some similar scheme for that game.

THE PRIZE LIST. Prizes were then presented by Mr. Nicholson to the following: Form VI, higher school certificates: Joan Harrison, Marjorie Brumby and H. D. Harrison; efficiency, W. Carbutt.

Form V: J. F. Scott (form prize), J. Duke, K. M. Sykes and I. Nickerson.

Form IV: Form prize, E. Duke; P. Brumby, D. Chapman, M. Goodwin.

Form III: A. H. Frankish (form prize), Booth (science), R. C. Smith and M. Adlam.

WATCH THE THERMOMETER.

Britain is not what might be termed "thermometer conscious." As a rule our people do not keep thermometers in their homes, and their interest in temperatures is confined mainly to the broad question of whether one should cast a coat or carry an umbrella.

America, on the other hand, is thermometer conscious. American homes have thermometers and thermostats to regulate their household heating and their household cooling. People in the United States do not "trust to luck" that a room is comfortably warm, or that their larders are cool enough to keep food safe.

Another fact, one may say, from a land and famous for facts. Well, it may be said to have comfortable rooms, but it is plain common-sense to have perishable food properly conserved, particularly in climates as temperamental as our own.

Experts tell us that a temperature below 50° F. is essential to keep perishable food safe, that only on a few days in the year is it possible for a normal British larder to have that temperature, and that humidity in the air, which is our climatic fault—spoils food as quickly as heat.

If these facts had been available a few years ago all the average housewife could have done by way of remedy would have been to stand the milk in cold water and send round to the fishmonger for ice.

To-day, the wholesomeness of the people's food is a national issue, and when food is purchased through normal channels it is in first-class condition. Hence, the refrigerator. To the shipping companies, the wholesalers and the retailers, and these agencies use temperature-controlled compartments to ensure food preservation.

The same method of storage is available to every housewife to-day. She can buy meat which has been kept in the refrigerator, and put it into her own refrigerator—controlled larder—her refrigerator—knowing that her family will eat uncontaminated food.

The thermometer runs the modern refrigerator. When set at the proper temperature, thermostatic control keeps that temperature invariable. The machine turns itself on and off, and whether outside temperature be 90° in the shade or 50° the interior of the refrigerator will remain in the food safe zone.

NOTES AND NOTIONS

BY QUI VIVE

GRIMSBY AND ROME.

THE following letter, over the signature of Lieut.-Col. the Hon. B. Bathurst, recently appeared in a local paper.

"Sir,—In my letter on the subject of 'Grimsby,' I mentioned that certain earthworks tended to prove an antiquity greater than that of the Vikings. From a note founded on Oliver Antiquities of Great Grimsby, it appears that the place was, like Rome, founded on seven hills, two of which—Homb and Abbey Hills—were joined together by an artificial bank, known as Kit's Bank, once a landing-place.

Hence the reading of 'Grim' that I suggested as meaning the 'child,' must be modified and the 'mother' must be substituted. In the hieroglyphics the word 'renn' means both child and mother. In British mythology the Old Mother 'Ked' is represented by the constellation of the Great Bear, as is the original Egyptian Khert to use only one of her many names).

One of the several types of the Gemitrix was the cat, and curiously enough one cat, with a white patch on its chest, was mentioned by Shakespeare (Macbeth, Act I, Sc. I) as 'Grimalkin.' Rome, with its seven hills, has a parallel in Great Grimsby—both having a common origin from the Egyptian mythology—Yours faithfully, Ben Bathurst.

Without venturing to follow the Colonel on to the slippery slopes of hieroglyphics and mythology, I am prepared to accept his parallel regarding the hills and hills. The seven hills of Grimsby, with its seven mounds, compared with the seven hills of Rome, those same mounds bear no comparison with others in Wales and in turn Snowdonia, and the Alps of Switzerland.

Geologists tell us that Britain was once joined to the continent of Europe, and we know that certain towns and forests of the past have disappeared beneath the water. It is also proved that certain parts now high and dry were once below water. If the reader will take note on his peregrinations he would see that the Wolds rise in steps, the highest step being furthest from the Humber, and he may find that the sea level at one time the banks of a much greater Humber, probably at the time that the great glacier extended from Norway down to the North Sea, and as the water receded through the centuries, they were probably rounded off by the action of the sea.

STAGE AND SCREEN

WEEKLY REVIEW BY "THE STROLLER."

THEATRE ROYAL.

Sandy Powell's Road Show.

There is one act in Sandy Powell's road show and radio discoveries entertainment at the Royal this week that shines forth like the Koh-i-noor in the world of popular entertainment—the Great Garsias—whose strength and skill draws tremendous applause from audiences apparently highly tickled at the vamping of operatic excerpts.

"Seeing is believing," the programme tells you, but although you see it, the most hardened music-hall patron would find it difficult to believe that one of the Great Garsias, poised in perfect balance on one foot on the edge of a head, could at the same time coax such sweet music from a violin or, standing on his head (again on his partner's head, which seems a little odd), could join in a brisk duet on trumpets. Such, however, is the fact, and these truly amazing feats, together with exhibition of what for want of a more appropriate word, must be termed acrobatics, overshadow the remainder of a show which is not only brilliant for first-class entertainment.

Fifteen-year-old Kenneth Cooper obviously has a complete grasp of the medium, synopsizing a thriller with facility and sense of rhythm one would like to have exercised on more promising material. Kitty Thomson, who recently broadcast with Ray Wilbur, "Melody out of the Sky," is a crooner with a pleasing presence and sings a number of popular songs which are well received.

Jack Woodroffe, who mimics Jack Hulbert, Harry Roy, a "tough guy" and so on, also produces convincing imitations through the "mike" without the aid of instruments, of a trumpet and a tenor saxophone. Jimmie Fletcher, a young vocalist, sings two songs, "In the Chapel" and "The Light," and "When the Poppies Bloom Again," with considerable charm.

Jimmie Leslie and his young band, who have been hard and succeed on occasions in getting distinctly "near the bone"—an operation much to the liking of a large audience of the Royal. The "Ginger Beer" and "The Stage Door" is a B.B.C. artist who does very little on the stage but nevertheless in doing so manages to look most distinguished. If the quickness of the hand deceives the eye, the hands of Len Garsias, an ultra-deceptive pair, his conjuring is excellent.

The Strolling Players (a piano accordion band) and the Ginger Beer Band play music both hectic and humorous, including excerpts (with variations) from "I Pagliacci."

Two outstanding films are to appear at the Royal next week in place of the "Ginger Beer" and "The Stage Door." On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday will be screened "Romeo and Juliet"—an excellent opportunity for those who have not seen this beautiful and moving picture. Norma Shearer is a talented Juliet, her performance comparing favourably with those of most of the great stage Juliets, and in Leslie Howard, who gives a sensitive portrayal as Romeo, she has the ideal partner.

Among the supporting players, Ralph Forbes, Reginald Denney, Henry Kolker and Edna May Oliver are worthy of mention. For the remainder of the week the attraction will be "The Great Dictator," the late Jean Harlow's most recent successes. William Powell is the key man in the tangle, and shoulders the responsibility as only he can.

Lois is delightfully polished as Connie, and Jean Harlow gives a thoroughly satisfying performance as the vengeful, scheming, and somewhat dumb, but duty-bound Haggerty, and Walter Connolly and E. E. Clive score in minor roles.

THE PALACE.

"REMBRANDT"
Starring Charles Laughton, brilliant in the name part, "Rembrandt" appears at the Palace this week-end. The story concerns certain dramatic incidents in Rembrandt's career, and his love for a woman—Saskia, his first wife, who is depicted as a servant (Elsa-Lanchester). Geertje, the housekeeper, is played by Gertrude Lawrence.

NEXT WEEK
A skit on professional bridge, in which a sort of "Lamb on Wall Street" is set to beat the world's champion at his own game—and does it—appears at the Palace for the first three days of next week under the title of "The Country Bumpkin." The basic idea of forming a popular series detective to play the role in real life. Edmund Lowe, Elissa Landi, Edmund Gwenn, Zasu Pitts and Ted Healy are the players.

THE SAVOY.

"THE PLAINSMAN"
"The Plainsman," shown at the Savoy to-day and to-morrow and starring Jean Arthur and Gary Cooper, has been described as the finest picture of the year. It is a story of the fusion of the Buffalo Bill and Custer's Last Stand legends make an entertaining piece of Americana.

NEXT WEEK
"Cafe Colette," a light comedy film, comes to the Savoy next Monday. It is a story of a large audience of the Royal. The "Ginger Beer" and "The Stage Door" is a B.B.C. artist who does very little on the stage but nevertheless in doing so manages to look most distinguished. THE CHURCH NOTES

CHRISTADELPHIAN LECTURES.
We have received from Mr. J. R. Bailey, the secretary of the local Church of Christ, a copy of their speaking plan for the half-year of the 31st December. These subjects are advertised in our columns week by week. The forthcoming plan, unlike some of its predecessors, does not indicate any grouping of the subjects, but as a completely new plan, this should not be a disadvantage. The most striking of the subjects is that for 25th July (speaker, Mr. Fletcher, of Leeds). "The coming of modern civilization and the wonders that will follow." "The wonders" referred to will no doubt be expounded as the everlasting Kingdom of God to be established on the earth by the Lord Jesus Christ, when human rulership has completely failed. The Christadelphians are firm believers in the thousand years reign of Christ and the saints on the earth. This is reflected in several of the subjects, but the most striking of the subjects is the following: "Keeping the Sabbath," "British Israelism and the Bible," and "Angels; their part in God's purpose." OPEN AIR MEETINGS.
Brief open air meetings are being held at the Lord Street Methodist Mission after the Sunday evening services during the light nights. Prayers and a brief address constitute the order of the service. The meetings are held on the open ground near the Mission and attract considerable attention in the district.

DECREASED SUBSCRIPTIONS.
At the annual meeting of the Lincoln Diocesan Branch of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, held at the Chapter House, Lincoln Cathedral, on Saturday, it was reported that during 1936 contributions decreased by £138, compared with a decrease of £154 in 1935. There was, however, an encouraging report of activity in the Diocese.

ST. PETER'S DAY.
Various organisations of the parish will be represented at a service to be held at St. Peter's Church, Cleethorpes, on Tuesday evening next, in connection with the festival of St. Peter's. The bodies represented will be the Church Council, church officers, district visitors, day school managers and teachers, Sunday School teachers, Mothers' Union, Church of England Men's Society, Women's Guild, Girls' Friendly Society, Boy Scouts, Girl Cub Scouts, Guides, Brownies, Girls' Badminton Club and Better Britain Brigade. They will gather in the vicarage gardens, and go in procession to St. Peter's Church for the service. The preacher will be the Rev. C. K. Clay, vicar of St. John's, New Cleve.

CLIE FETE PROFIT.
Gross takings of £154 and a profit of £150 was realised by Old Cleve Fete, held recently in the grounds of Weelsby Old Hall. Of this sum £50 has been

The meetings are held on the open ground near the Mission and attract considerable attention in the district.

DECREASED SUBSCRIPTIONS.
At the annual meeting of the Lincoln Diocesan Branch of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, held at the Chapter House, Lincoln Cathedral, on Saturday, it was reported that during 1936 contributions decreased by £138, compared with a decrease of £154 in 1935. There was, however, an encouraging report of activity in the Diocese.

ST. PETER'S DAY.
Various organisations of the parish will be represented at a service to be held at St. Peter's Church, Cleethorpes, on Tuesday evening next, in connection with the festival of St. Peter's. The bodies represented will be the Church Council, church officers, district visitors, day school managers and teachers, Sunday School teachers, Mothers' Union, Church of England Men's Society, Women's Guild, Girls' Friendly Society, Boy Scouts, Girl Cub Scouts, Guides, Brownies, Girls' Badminton Club and Better Britain Brigade. They will gather in the vicarage gardens, and go in procession to St. Peter's Church for the service. The preacher will be the Rev. C. K. Clay, vicar of St. John's, New Cleve.

"Forgotten Women" in which not a single man appears, although a great deal of the story is concerned with the reactions of the women of the Great War to the conditions of a servant (Elsa-Lanchester). Geertje, the housekeeper, is played by Gertrude Lawrence.

THE PALACE.

"REMBRANDT"
Starring Charles Laughton, brilliant in the name part, "Rembrandt" appears at the Palace this week-end. The story concerns certain dramatic incidents in Rembrandt's career, and his love for a woman—Saskia, his first wife, who is depicted as a servant (Elsa-Lanchester). Geertje, the housekeeper, is played by Gertrude Lawrence.

THE SAVOY.

"THE PLAINSMAN"
"The Plainsman," shown at the Savoy to-day and to-morrow and starring Jean Arthur and Gary Cooper, has been described as the finest picture of the year. It is a story of the fusion of the Buffalo Bill and Custer's Last Stand legends make an entertaining piece of Americana.

NEXT WEEK
"Cafe Colette," a light comedy film, comes to the Savoy next Monday. It is a story of a large audience of the Royal. The "Ginger Beer" and "The Stage Door" is a B.B.C. artist who does very little on the stage but nevertheless in doing so manages to look most distinguished. If the quickness of the hand deceives the eye, the hands of Len Garsias, an ultra-deceptive pair, his conjuring is excellent.

The Strolling Players (a piano accordion band) and the Ginger Beer Band play music both hectic and humorous, including excerpts (with variations) from "I Pagliacci."

Two outstanding films are to appear at the Royal next week in place of the "Ginger Beer" and "The Stage Door." On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday will be screened "Romeo and Juliet"—an excellent opportunity for those who have not seen this beautiful and moving picture. Norma Shearer is a talented Juliet, her performance comparing favourably with those of most of the great stage Juliets, and in Leslie Howard, who gives a sensitive portrayal as Romeo, she has the ideal partner.

Among the supporting players, Ralph Forbes, Reginald Denney, Henry Kolker and Edna May Oliver are worthy of mention. For the remainder of the week the attraction will be "The Great Dictator," the late Jean Harlow's most recent successes. William Powell is the key man in the tangle, and shoulders the responsibility as only he can.

Lois is delightfully polished as Connie, and Jean Harlow gives a thoroughly satisfying performance as the vengeful, scheming, and somewhat dumb, but duty-bound Haggerty, and Walter Connolly and E. E. Clive score in minor roles.

COUNTRY PLAYER SHINES
The weather was dull and rain was threatening when the Town Travellers team was threatened by the bowling of Rogers and Falconer. The first four overs were maidens—a tame start. In Rogers' third over, a duck, and Brown was bowled by Falconer without adding further to his total. M. V. Bennett, the county player, and Charlesworth then carried the score to 24 with some very cautious play, but Stansby made a spectacular catch to dismiss Charlesworth off Robinson, who had succeeded Rogers.

It was a bowler's wicket, and the batsmen were finding great difficulty in getting the runs, the first ten taking 30 minutes and the total being only 40 after 70 minutes. Three cheap wickets fell after Charlesworth's dismissal—Whitehead was caught and bowled by Falconer, and a duck, Stansby, was caught by Lee for four and Stansby was caught by Falconer, also, for a duck. Bennett, in the meantime, was producing some delightful strokes, putting all loose balls to the boundary, and after 77 minutes, when rain stopped play, he was 31 (not out).

The umpires inspected the wicket after tea, but at seven o'clock decided no further play was possible, so the match was abandoned.

TOWN TRAVELLERS SURPRISED.
Winning the toss, the Town Travellers team batted first in their match with Heston on Saturday, but were unpleasantly surprised to find both Pettifer and Brown dismissed with the score at seven. Steady progress was made, however, by Norman, Trueman, Normandale, Sward and Hammond, all of whom made useful contributions. Norman's 21 was particularly valuable at a vital point in the game, and Trueman's 16 contained some splendid hard driving. Nine wickets were taken for 40, but a last wicket stand of 45 by Frank Smith and Fensley brought the total to 105. Heston had lost two wickets for 24 when heavy rain stopped play.

KNOCK-OUT PROGRESS
The knock-out competition is proceeding apace, and with the first nights is attracting more interest than ever, and consequently more spectators. Certainly the players themselves, keen and enthusiastic, enjoy the match. It is evident that this class of cricket is what the public wants, and it will be well for Saturday afternoon cricket when the local League and its members give serious attention to this system of deciding matches. Some arrangement of say, 45 overs or two and a quarter hour, with batting each side, and the side which scores the most runs in the allotted time to take the full points, will be an incentive to both players and spectators. That many of the players of that period of batting time will still give the players the opportunity of demonstrating their cricket skill, whether bowling, batting or fielding, and at the same time there will be the added spice of one side (unless weather intervenes) being the winners, without the irritation of lackadaisical play has gone, and the spectators will not watch it. The knock-out system has caught on, and the sooner the local clubs realise it the sooner will the public be recaptured as spectators.

FIRST BLOOD TO OLD WINGHAMS.
An exciting round of the knock-out competition was played in brilliant sunshine, before a large crowd, between Old Clee and Old Winghams at Littlefield Lane on Monday. Old Winghams winning in the 17th over. The Old Clee batsmen were full of confidence as they faced Jackson, who had taken two wickets in his last match and now had several men on the boundary. Jenkins, however, who scored 35 before being caught by Lloyd, bowled extremely well for Old Winghams, and the batsmen, after a knock-out, having seven overs, one of which was a maiden, and taking two wickets for only ten runs.

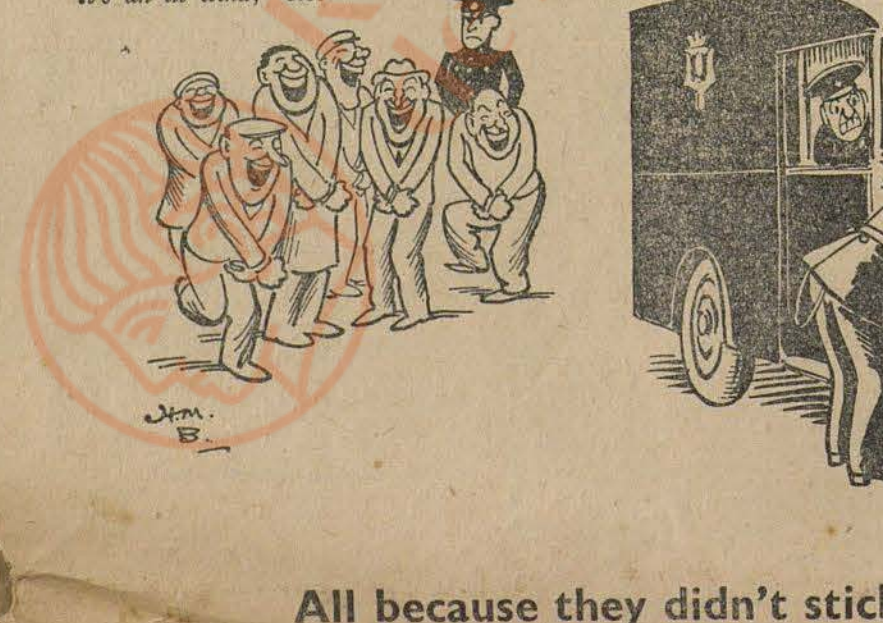

Old Clee's total was not quite enough for Old Winghams, although at the end of the 14th over the score was only 48, and it looked as if Old Clee might pull a game out of the fire. Little was batting well, but went in first and ultimately did the damage, hitting out after the 14th over and scoring two impressive fours, off Jenkins. He was still not out for 37 when Old Winghams won in the 17th over.

Old Winghams now meet the winners the next round on 12th July.

CRICKET TEAMS OF THE PAST.

By "ONLOOKER."

Correspondence continues to come to hand which concerns my previous notes on local football, past and present. A letter signed "Modern" claims that the present day local players play much better class football than those of 30 years ago, notwithstanding the clubs of that period possessed players of much more playing experience. I wonder if "Modern" saw the following team play when it represented Grimsby Rangers F.C.?

Jimmy Horner, Bodge Mountain, Sam Robinson; Harry Sheekel, Alf Morgan, Albert Fleet; Fred Robinson, Alf Grant, Herold Robinson, Tommy Easshaw and Trevor Williams.

This was probably the strongest team that ever represented a local club. I remember seeing this team play Grimsby Town in a final of the Lincs. Cup, and they were only defeated by the odd goal in five after having the better of the game. The Rangers on that day were quite as good as the Town. Eight of the players had worn Town colours, and I remember playing against one of the team in trial games at the beginning of the seasons 1905/6 for the Town. Harry Sheekel played right half back against me in one of these games, and the two of us were the best of the game. Most of the Rangers' players were old pros, but the Alf Saints, a club formed before the Grimsby Rangers, were amongst the best players of the day.

An amateur side purely and simply, no other local club could compare with them. In my judgment, the three clubs possessing the best teams that ever took part in local football were Grimsby Rangers, All Saints and Cleethorpe Town.

CRICKET

A leading pre-war cricketer writes concerning the standard of cricket in Grimsby 20 to 30 years ago, and gives the Grimsby Rovers team which represented that club from 1912/13 as being the best. Some of the old standards will remember that team: W. Duttall, Davies, Tim Williamson, L. A. F. Weigall, Harry Sheekel, Sam Madder, E. E. Hallam, Jack Brooke, Falding, Sam Seymour, E. Forster and Jim Gardham or George Johnson as stumper, with Mr. now Sir, J. O. Marsden as skipper. I often visited this team, and it was undoubtedly a formidable one, but the players were drawn from all over the country, and could not be strictly termed local standards. A very powerful combination, as an amateur side purely and simply, no other local club could compare with them. In my judgment, the three clubs possessing the best teams that ever took part in local football were Grimsby Rangers, All Saints and Cleethorpe Town.

VILLAGERS' NARROW WIN
Another very keen game between Waltham and C. Bryant's XI. On Wednesday evening ended in a victory for the villagers by the narrow margin of six runs. Bryant won the toss and put Waltham in. The opening batsmen, Thornton and Richardson, played real knock-out cricket, Richardson lifting Peter Bryant out of the ground for two beautiful runs in succession. Bryant then took himself out and put on Clarke, a slow bowler. Forty-six runs were scored when Richardson was out l.b.w. at 30. Thornton, with 43, and Riley, with 24, batted well, but the remaining five wickets fell for 12 runs, the villagers' total being 110. P. C. Bryant's opening pair did not settle until the third over. Runs then came quickly and 31 were on the board and George Johnson (Grimsby Rovers) and George Johnson (Grimsby Rovers) were the last men out.

are given as the best wicket keepers. What a charming personality Len Wood possessed. A fragrant memory is left in the minds of all of us who loved to watch him perform behind the "sticks." He stood for all that is best in life and in cricket. He did not live in vain.

Well, so much for the cricket of the past. We must live in the present, and look forward with confidence to the future. There are more good cricket grounds in Grimsby to-day than at any other time. These include Grimsby Town, Paper Mills, Cleethorpes and L.N.E.R. grounds, with Waltham Secondary School ground the equal of any of them.

LAST NIGHT'S KNOCK-OUT
An eventful round of the knock-out was played at Littlefield Lane last night, when the Veterans said to have had five star players, defeated Len Wood's XI by ten wickets. An objection was lodged against the Veterans, for whom Bacon scored 38 and Aley 42 (both not out). Lawton, for Len Wood's XI, scored an outstanding 41, only one other player in the team (Schmidt, with ten) reaching double figures.
